MODIFIED BLUE LAW ASKED

Trouble—Spanish, Mexican.
Which Bank Biggest?
Uncle Sam Raises Germs.
Lady Heath Joins Us.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

PRIMO DE RIVERA and his king, Alfonso of Spain, have a rebellion on their hands. There is always rebellion in Catalonia, always singing "Weep, Weep, Catalonia." But this latest rebellion is said to have spread over all Spain, affecting the army.

Alfonso breaks all speed laws, plays a hard game of polo, enjoys bull fights, always smiles and is popular. De Rivera is not so popular. Not everybody can do what Mussolini and Kemal Pasha can do.

TROUBLE continues in Mexico. "Rebels" dynamite a passenger and reight train. Three bombs demolished the engine and an armored car filled with soldiers was overturned.

A religious war is a bitter war.

Doukhobors think Providence doesn't want them to wear clothes, even in zero weather, call themselves "Sons of Freedom" and refuse to dress their children for school.

All religious ideas should be respected, but sometimes they put men off the track.

The American Exchange Bank-Irving Trust Company, headed by President Harry E. Ward, recently moved up to fourth place.

Now there is talk of creating a two billion dollar bank by merging the Guaranty Trust Company and the Bank of Commerce.

BETWEEN them these two banks would have more than two thousand million dollars.

What Charles E. Mitchell, head of the country's biggest bank, would do if the first place were taken from him remains to be seen. He probably would do "SOMETHING."

The $1,000,000 Stock Exchange seat will come in due time, also the $1,000,000,000 investment trust and the $5,000,000,000 bank. What would Andrew Jackson think of that, "By the eternal?"

UNCLE SAM will raise influenza germs, try them on animals soon, possibly on humans later, seeking a remedy.

The Rockefeller Institute has been busy with those germs for some years.

THE difficulty is to isolate the individual germ that causes influenza. Scientists only know that it is a germ small enough to pass through a porcelain filter.

Influenza germs don't like fresh air or the juice of oranges. So have plenty of both.

THIS country, fortunate in many things, reports a considerable drop in the number of influenza cases.

The disease is spreading in Great Britain. In Glasgow the unemployed have been put to work helping gravediggers. Six hundred and fifty-four died in one week.

LADY HEATH, wife of Sir James Heath, a brilliant female flier, turns American, takes the oath of loyalty to Uncle Sam, and says she doesn't care what her husband thinks.

SHE wishes you to know that she has eaten her first "hot dog," likes America, and doesn't care whether you call her "Lady" or "Mrs.," as long as you are friendly. This lady, under any name, will make her way.

GOV. SMITH shook hands with President-elect Hoover at Miami yesterday. Departing, he wished Mr. Hoover "all good luck," adding, "And I mean it." He might have said what Socrates said to hi.. judges.

To have responsibility for this country's government on your hands during the next four or eight years is not necessarily "A pleasure."

THE first airplane timetable, published by the American Air Transport Association, is a 12-page folder, giving information about flying time in 80 American cities.

Commercial airships fly, "weather permitting." Once railroad time tables carried the words, "trains will leave, weather permitting." Now all trains and the air mail laugh at the weather.

Soon passenger planes will defy storms, as do express trains and steamships.

MR. WHALEN, New York police commissioner, wants big, high-powered cars for his policemen. Criminals have big cars and policemen should be as well equipped, says he.

To impress criminals, big cars may be needed. But to catch them, the small car is the thing.

A good small car, doing 60 miles an hour or better, fast enough for a crowded city, will overhaul any big car, unable to dodge in and out of traffic.

Experiment will prove that a small, fast car, with bullet-proof windshield, is the best police car.

FRAYNE MAY BE RAIDER AGAIN

Joseph A. Frayne, who recently resigned as assistant administrator under John D. Pennington, it is rumored, will be back in the service soon as a special investigator here for the bureau of prohibition.

In such capacity he will assist the office of United States Attorney John D. Meyer in final preparations of the booze conspiracy trials set for next month, and make special investigations of violations of the liquor laws, according to unconfirmed reports.

DENIES APPOINTMENT

It was learned that Frayne spent Monday in Washington and visited prohibition headquarters, but upon his return would throw no light upon the reported appointment and even denied he returned as a special investigator.

Despite the denial, it is generally believed the appointment will be made and Frayne will resume his work against the bootleg traffic, probably centering his efforts in making major conspiracy cases.

Frayne declared he is still on a leave of absence, as his resignation as assistant administrator does not become effective until February 20, and he is on a leave to which he was entitled.

WITH U. S. ATTORNEYS

Despite the granted leave Frayne, since tendering his resignation to Administrator Pennington, has been almost a daily visitor at the U. S. attorney's office conferring with Assistant United States Attorneys Ralph H. Smith and Joseph A. Richardson relative to the pending suits charging North Side politicians, police officers and others with conspiring to violate the liquor laws.

4TH GIVES UP IN BOND CASE

Leo Gallagher, bond salesman, surrendered today to federal authorities to face the indictment which charkes that he, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Knapp and Benrie Diamond, all Pittsburghers, were involved in a gigantic bond conspiracy.

Soon after he surrendered the hearing on the government's petition to remove the four defendants was postponed until tomorrow pending arrival of the indictment papers from New York.

The Knapps and Gallagher were willing to waive the hearing and be moved to New York, it was reparted.

United States Assistant Attorney Thomas Todarelli, of New York, announced that, in case the indictment mailed from New York did not arrive today, he would ask the defendants to waive the hearing and agree to extradition. Such agreement would eliminate the local hearing.

If the government's charges can be proved, trial of those indicted is expected to accomplish these results.

MAY INVOLVE ROTHSTEIN

To tear the veil from the alleged "cut-rate" bond deal in the collapse of the Brotherhood Savings and Trust Company here in 1926.

To divulge the existence in strong boxes of investors, many of them in Pittsburgh, of millions in forged government bonds.

To bare bond swindling operations reaching far and high and involving such notorious racket barons as "Nicky" Arnstein and the late Arnold Rothstein.

3 MEN INJURED, $150,000 LOSS IN GREENSBURG FIRE

GREENSBURG, Pa., Jan. 30.—Two firemen are in a serious condition in Westmoreland Hospital, and a third received treatment at the hospital, as the result of being overcome by smoke while fighting a fire here today which destroyed six stores, damaged a hotel and theater and for a time threatened to wipe out an entire block in the business district of the city.

The firemen at the hospital are William McCarthy and Andy Rever; the one able to go home is Carl Brown. Fire Chief O. F. Myers estimated the total damage at $150,000. Firemen from four outside communities aided the local department in fighting the fire, which lasted five hours before it was fully extinguished.

Three families residing in apartments over the nearby Grand Theater were routed. Mrs. Susan Jennings, one of the occupants, an invalid, was carried to safety.

Mrs. Edward Shively, who resides in the Highberger Building some distance away, was carried to the street when smoke filled her apartment.

Police Lieut. James Bowman discovered the blaze and sounded the first alarm. A short time later additional alarms brought out all the available appartus in the city. Help was then summoned from Youngwood, Jeannette, South Greensburg and Southwest Greensburg.

BIG CHURCH MERGER PLANNED

More than 6,000,000 communicants of the Presbyterian and Methodist Episcopal denominations in the United States are likely to lose their identity as Presbyterians and Methodists as a result of negotiations opened here today at a conference of leading clerical and lay representatives of the two bodies.

The meeting, at which definite steps toward the merging of the two denominations will be taken, opened at the First Presbyterian Church. It is being held behind closed doors and the public is not admitted.

NOTABLES HERE

Representatives of the two church bodies here represent their denominations' committees entrusted with dealing in matters pertaining to inter-denominational co-operation and union. Members of the Presby-

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., Jan. 30.—Melvin Huebner, 19, Uhrichsville, objects to being repeatedly overlooked by grand juries. Stranger's Fall "Breaks Ice"; Pair Weds

DES MOINES, Ia., Jan. 30.—(INS.)—When Miss Thelma Delay, Drake University co-ed, saw a handsome stranger fall on an icy sidewalk here two weeks ago, she—laughed.

Today the handsome stranger, otherwise Othel Dehart, a manufacturer's agent, and the young lady were husband and wife.

"You see," punned Dehart, "I literally fell for her, but that broke the ice and we became acquainted."

PA. DELEGATION FOR MELLON'S FUND STAND

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—At a meeting of the Pennsylvania congressional delegation here today, attended by 18 of the 35 members, a motion was adopted unanimously to uphold Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon, of Pittsburgh, in his fight against passage of the pending amendment to the deficiency bill providing an increase of $24,000,000 in federal prohibition enforcement funds.

In addition to the 18 present four others were represented by proxies which were directed to vote in accordance with the Mellon policy. Thus the total vote was announced as 22 in favor of upholding the Treasury Department head and none against.

FEW AGAINST MELLON

Most of those absent sent word that they were ready to stand back of the majority sentiment, and only a few, it is understood, will be found voting for the increased fund, which Secretary Mellon has opposed on the grounds that it would entail a useless waste of the taxpayers' money.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—(INS.)—Assuming the oeffnsive in the fight over the Senate's $24,000,000 dry fund and tax refund amendment to the first deficiency bill, the House Rules Committee today reported a special rule to send the measure to conference.

MELLON STANDS PAT

The rule will be reported in the House tomorrow.

In a letter to Representative Anthony (Rep.), of Kansas, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, Secretary Mellon declared the extra money would not accomplish the purposes for which it was intended, namely: reduce the number of prohibition cases in court; increase the coast guard personnel and equipment, and increase the efficiency of the border patrol.

Sleep Walker Killed In Fall Down Stairs

KEYSER, W. Va., Jan. 30.—Hannes Leatherman, 14, of Pargittsville, W. Va., died in Hoffman Hospital here yesterday of a fractured skull suffered in a fall down a stairway, while, members of the family said, he was walking in his sleep.

P. R. R. ADDS MILLION TO WAGES

Nearly $1,000,000 will be added to the yearly payroll of the Pittsburgh district by a wage increase for Pennsylvania Railroad employes announced today.

Ten thousand men in the Central Region, mostly in the city and vicinity, will share in the raise, H. K. Brady, superintendent of the local wage and labor bureau, stated. They are employed in the shops and yards at Pitcairn, Conway, Scully, Sharpsburg, Twenty-eighth street, North Side and South Side.

60 CENTS LOWEST

The men affected are shopmen, machinists, boilermakers, blacksmiths, sheet workers, car men, electricians, coach cleaners, helpers and apprentices. Machinists will receive 82 cents an hour, an increase of four cents. The lowest wage to be paid under the new scale will be 60 cents an hour for apprentices and helpers. The increase is effective February 1.

The new wage rate was agreed upon at a meeting of 22 representatives of the management and 34 representatives of the employes in Philadelphia yesterday.

36,000 AFFECTED

For the whole Pennsylvania System the wage increase amounts to $3,500,000 a year and affects 36,000 men.

The agreement was signed for the employes by L. M. Graham, chairman for the Central Region; T. H. Davis, Eastern Region and New York zone; Charles Mode, Western Region, and J. J. Gluntz, Altoona shops.

H. A. Enochs, superintendent of wages and labor, signed for the company.

Whalen Fires Driver, Moves Policeman

NEW YORK, Jan. 30. — (AP.) — Police Commissioner Whalen has discharged Joaquin Torres, his chauffeur for 12 years, because of the argument the man had with a traffic officer on Fifth avenue.

The policeman, Michael Curry, has been transferred from traffic to patrol duty. Whalen said the chauffeur should have obeyed Curry, but thought the patrolman should have used "common sense" and not made "a spectacle of himself."

Furnace Starts Fire In Bank Building

A large canvas which had been hung in the basement while workmen were making improvements was ignited from a furnace, firemen reported. The damage was slight.

Accompanied by Norton Stewart, of the Field Museum, Chicago, Chancellor will go to Australia, New Zealand, Java and Borneo in search of rare snakes.

SECOND FLOOR POSTOFFICE OPPOSED

The United States government has offered Pittsburgh a second-floor postoffice, it was revealed today when a special committee of the Chamber of Commerce filed objections to plans for the proposed new federal building at Seventh avenue and Grant street.

Architects working on the plans for Uncle Sam's great structure in Pittsburgh gave over the first floor to the railway mail service and allowed the public the choice of climbing a long flight of steps or taking the elevators to mail letters and transact postal business on the second floor. Businessmen who learned of this scheme united in vigorous protest, asking a more convenient arrangement.

PLAN ALTERED

After many consultations a new plan was prepared providing for the stamp and delivery windows and the money order, parcel post and registry divisions on the street level.

Other changes involve more convenient placing of the rooms for the occupancy of the federal court.

Congresman M. Clyde Kelly, in Pittsburgh today, said the delay in the final approval of the plans had been caused by waiting for the suggestions of the Pittsburgh businessmen and described the changes

NO BREAK SEEN IN COLD WAVE

This morning the temperature stood at 15 degrees, the range for the last 24 hours being only three degrees. Light snow flurries were predicted for today, with likelihood of the snowfall becoming heavier tomorrow.

Temperatures remained virtually stationary west to the plains states overnight. The lowest here tonight will be between 15 and 20 degrees, Brotzman said.

LEADERS IN CITY OPEN DRIVE

Business, financial, civic and social leaders of Pittsburgh will meet in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium tomorrow afternoon to consider what is declared to be a sane and reasonable plan for the modification of the blue laws of 1794.

Sponsors of the meeting say they are concerned with providing legal sanction for wholesome recreation and non-commercial entertainment on Sunday.

PLAN STATE DRIVE

It is planned to inaugurate a statewide campaign at tomorrow's meeting and discuss a proposed modification act being prepared for presentation to the State Legislature. The meeting will open at 1:30.

The organization movement has been in process of formation for several weeks and the law firm of Patterson, Crawford, Arensberg & Dunn retained to make an exhaustive study into the Sunday observance question as it exists throughout the United States, and to draw an appropriate proposed act of Assembly for submission to the Pennsylvania Legislature.

The bill they have prepared takes the form of a measure to permit municipalities to regulate their own Sunday affairs, but will not allow commercialism or the making of profit from entertainments, games, or diversions. It provides that no paid admissions are to be permitted for anything except such things as are wholly educational or charitable in nature. The act has been drawn, it is declared, so that no event of any kind can occur on Sunday, which would interfere with

TEMPERANCE PLAN NEED REVEALED

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—"Being a fanatical dry is merely to wish the bootlegger and the speakeasy proprietor well in the purveying of their poisons. Let us stop undermining of public and private morals by some kind of modification of the existing federal law on prohibition.

"I am the mother of three sons and three daughters, ranging in age fro 15 to 23. All of them drink, either openly or surreptitiously. They are victims of prohibition. Praise God that Mr. Hearst and his newspapers have undertaken this $25,000 temperance prize contest, which we all pray may result in what Mr. Hearst seeks, a really workable temperance plan."

A contestant of Foxboro, Mass., writes:

"Nearly all governments at various times, since organized and civilized society began, have issued prohibitive commandments against the customs of their peoples. Every such prohibition concerning a matter of personal choice has caused endless trouble and wars, such as our own American revolution.

"Prohibition is another unenforceable commandment which has no relation to civilization, for it has nothing in common with true temperance. Prohibition is as confiscatory of private rights as any imposition of King George III upon the American colonies and vastly more destructive."

The press of the nation, aside from the Hearst newspapers, is commenting in increasing degree upon the prohibition problem. The following excerpt is from an editorial in the Philadelphia Public Ledger:

"There is growing in Congress and throughout the country a feeling that something may really have to be done about prohibi- [illegible] present state of [illegible] problem is not [illegible] disgrace, but a [illegible] Congress, like [illegible] large sections of the country, doesn't seem to care greatly whether we have prohibition or not, so long as we have prohibition laws. It makes one gesture with its right hand and another with its left."

Opinionative comment on the contest follows:

Henry Hudson

Henry Hudson, mayor of Hudson, N. Y.:

"The country has received with gratification the news that William Randolph Hearst has offered a $25,000 prize to the person suggesting the best plan for modification of existing law and substitution of a new law which the American people can respect and which public officials can enforce.

"I believe Mr. Hearst's timely offer of a prize to induce the best thought on the subject will please the great majority of our people and I ardently hope that a solution will be found by means of the contest which will end the present disrespect not only for the prohibition law, but many other laws."

William B. Wait

Capt. William Bell Wait, New York lawyer:

"The only solution to this question of prohibition is either repeal or a broad modification. If we are to have any semblance of the liberty our forefathers planned for us, then we must have personal liberty first of all.

"My feeling and observation is that the dissent from Volsteadism is growing by leaps and bounds. Many terrible effects have followed prohibitive measures. They are morally wrong, illegal and unconstitutional.

"The last election was no barometer of public feeling. The people voted for prosperity, unmindful of other issues. Scores of my own friends, who feel strongly against prohibition, voted against the alleged wet side.

"The Hearst plan for modification is excellent and will cause a widespread comment on the subject and in this way open the question to a solution. I feel sure that because of Mr. Hearst's generous donation of a large prize, nationwide interest will bring about such a solution."

Herbert G. Coddington

The Rev. Dr. Herbert G. Coddington, rector, Grace Episcopal Church, Syracuse, N. Y.:

"Mr. Hearst's contest is most timely. It is sure to bring about much good and it is quite in harmony with the suggestions made by our new president. The generous prize will insure a really deep consideration of the subject."

Edward L. Keller

The Rev. Dr. Edward L. Keller, pastor of the First Lutheran Church and president of the Ministers' Association, Syracuse, N. Y.:

"The contest which Mr. Hearst has initiated is sure to center the attention of the people upon the movement to bring about some real understanding of the liquor situation. There may be some constructive ideas proposed that will point out methods of dealing with the problem.

"Radio amateurs brought out most of the developments which were of real use in perfecting the radio, and this may prove true in the case of doing something for prohibition."

ASSOCIATED FOR BLUE LAW MODIFICATION

H. MARIE DERMITT — MRS. GEORGE S. OLIVER — MRS. W. EDGAR REED — MRS. W. B. SCHILLER, SR.

These four society leaders are among the business and social leaders of Pittsburgh who have associated and retained attorneys to draw up proposed state legislation to modify Pennsylvania's 1794 Blue Laws. The group meets tomorrow.

Rules of $25,000 Temperance Contest

THE purpose of the contest is to obtain a practicable plan, as a substitue for prohibition, which will secure better actual temperance conditions, which will be more easily possible of enforcement by state and federal authorities, which will offer less encouragement to crime and tend less to debauch the public service, and which will not so outrage and violate the fundamental rights and personal liberties of American citizens.

The rules and conditions of the contest are simple and are as follows:

1—Every person is entitled to enter the contest, but no one person may submit more than one plan.

2—The practicable plan proposed as a substitute for prohibition must be set forth in an article containing not more than 1,000 words.

3—This contest will close on April 30, 1929, and no plan which has not been mailed and postmarked on or before that date will be considered.

4—The articles submitted in the contest will be judged by a committee of eminent Americans, the personnel of the committee to be announced at a later date.

5—The full prize of $25,000 will be awarded to the contestant submitting the best plan as a practical temperance substitute for prohibition.

6—If other plans not awarded the first prize shall still be considered worthy of some compensation by the committee, a second prize of $5,000 and other prizes of $1,000 each may be awarded.

7—Articles submitting a plan to be considered in this contest may be sent to the temperance contest committee, care of the editor of any one of the following Hearst newspapers: Albany Times-Union, Atlanta Georgian, Baltimore News, Boston Evening American, Chicago Herald and Examiner, Detroit Times, Los Angeles Examiner, New York American, Omaha Bee-News, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Rochester Journal, San Antonio Light, San Francisco Examiner, Syracuse Journal, Seattle Post-Intelligencer, Washington Herald, Wisconsin News (Milwaukee).

Clara P. Beall

Dr. Clara P. Beall, physician and prominent clubwoman, Syracuse, N. Y.:

"Personally I am very much in favor of Mr. Hearst's plan to bring about temperance by education. I thoroughly approve of his temperance prize contest and it seems that he must be a man of deep thought since he has obviously gone into the matter from all angles. His statements regarding the prize plan show a careful study of our great national problem."

Girl Kept Alive By Oxygen Gains

PERRY, Kan., Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Margaret Brown, seven-year-old school girl, breathed naturally last night for the first time in 11 days. Administration of oxygen which has kept her alive since January 18, ended for a time at least, when her lungs were drained of fluid resulting from a complication following pneumonia.

Her physicians described her condition as "a great deal better" and said it was probable oxygen would be administered occasionally for several days until the little patient gained strength.

SABBATH PROTECTION PLAN

It was pointed out yesterday by those sponsoring this movement that its primary object is "to bring about an observance of the Sabbath Day more in keeping with present day life under which certain diversions and amusements, wholesome in themselves and now frequently indulged in contrary to the blue laws of 1794 without shocking the sense of propriety of this community, may be legalized; to prevent the present unequal, spasmodic and discriminatory enforcement of these laws, and to provide healthful recreation and entertainment for the many so situated as to have no legitimate means of employing their time in healthful recreation outside of church hours."

In addition, it is declared that the modification of the blue laws will have peculiar benefit to the Pittsburgh district in that it will become a more desirable place in which to live if the group's plans are successfull. This, in turn, it is said, will result in the development of new industries and the betterment of business conditions generally.

ORDERS STOKES ACQUITTED

Judge J. Frank Graff instructed the jury to return a verdict of acquittal for Constable E. V. Stokes, on trial in Criminal Court today with Justice of the Peace Wallace L. Baker, of Bellevue, on charges of extortion and malfeasance in office.

The defense had rested when Graff issued the order, which did not affect the prosecution of Baker, accused of confiscating slot machines and failing to turn them or their contents over to the county authorities.

A dozen prosecution witnesses told of their places being raided, and Assistant District Attorney John F. Haggerty charged that in many cases Baker had illegally fined the owners of the machines and had conducted his hearings without regard to law.

7 TOTS DRIVEN OUT, CHARGE

A 10-year-old boy appeared against his father in Morals Court today and told that he and six brothers and sisters had been driven from their home yesterday into the bitter cold by their parent.

The father, Angelo Picquadio, 154 Southern avenue, was served with papers in a non-support case brought by his estranged wife, Catherine, yesterday, and declared he would no longer support the children, according to testimony. He kept in the house with him, Mara, a daughter by a former marriage, testimony disclosed.

Picquadio bit the finger of Patrolman C. J. Everett when he went to the house to arrest him, police testified.

which were desired by local postoffice patrons.

George W. Jacobs, representative of the firm of Trowbridge & Livingston, of New York, architects for the building, met with the Chamber of Commerce committee and examined the blue prints submitted by the local architects.

A. E. Braun, vice chairman of the committee, presided in the absence of F. J. Chesterman, who is ill.

DECISION AWAITED

After a discussion the suggestions were incorporated in a report which will be considered by the architects and the government officials for approval.

"The matter likely will be ironed out," said Congressman Kelly, "and it is to be hoped that progress will be made so that work may be started at the earliest possible moment."

At the Chamber of Commerce it was stated that the New York architects employed by the government would make a study of the suggestions and that the technical data would be submitted to the postoffice authorities at Washington for a review before the final approval would be forthcoming from the government architectural board.

AIDED IN GIRL'S ESCAPE, CHARGE

Charges that an unnamed woman employe of the Juvenile Detention Home had aided her to escape from the home, were made today by Anna Tolorsyk, 14, Tridelphia, W. Va., before the United States commissioner.

The allegation developed during the hearing of Louis Latto, 29, Italian, charged with having violated the Mann act in that he transported the girl from Tridelphia to Clairton, this county, last August. They were arrested in Clairton last December and turned over to the federal authorities.

One girl, needed as a material witness against Latto, was committed to the home to await a hearing set for last Monday. Sunday she escaped, but was rearrested in Clairton. Today she said that a woman at the home had given her $2 and told her to go home to her mother. An official of the home said today that he doubted the girl's story, but that he would make an investigation.

At the hearing today Latto was held for court, and the girl committed to the home as a material witness.

Cutters Towing Ship In Raging Storm

BOSTON, Jan. 30.—(INS.)—A stirring tale of the sea was being written 600 miles northeast of Bermuda today as the coast guard cutters Mojave and Tampa battled a terrific storm in one of the greatest towing jobs ever undertaken by the coast guard service.

After a 1,000-mile dash to sea from the New England coast, the last five hours bucking a 50-mile-an-hour gale, the two cutters reached the rudderless and drifting British steamship Silver Maple, with 35 men aboard, and started to tow her to Bermuda.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30. — (AP.) — It's an old vaudeville standby, but this time it wasn't part of the show.

Harland Dixon was in the midst of a solo dancing act at a theater when a man in the orchestra arose and shouted:

"Stop that, Mr. Dixon! This is my act. You know it, and it is time everybody else knows it."

He was Nat Burns, 40, an actor, and said he had been trying for a long time to have Dixon abandon the act which he said he had perfected. He was given a suspended sentence.

'DESERTED' BOY JUST PLAYING HOOKEY

Huddled in the doorway of the Birmingham Hotel at 12 Carson street today, 8-year-old Harry Funderwhite, cold and shivering, was found by Patrolman James Cryster.

One of Harry's explanations was that his mother, Mrs. Blanche Funderwhite, and he had reached Pittsburgh yesterday from Cleveland and that his mother had abandoned him at the station. However, police soon established that Harry, after leaving Frick School, where he attends classes, had failed to return yesterday to Juvenile Detention Home, where he is a ward.

MOTHERS' FUND BILL OPPOSED

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 30.—Proposed changes in the method of selecting county boards of trustees for the mothers' assistance fund, as suggested in a bill of Representative Helen Grimes, Allegheny, do not meet with the approval of Gov. Fisher, he indicated today.

Miss Grimes, in offering her bill, said it would provide more home rule for the counties who match the state's contribution.

"The bill provides a less measure of home rule than the system now in force," the Governor said. "As a matter of fact, boards are appointed at present, with the approval of the County Commissioners as to full membership. The bill would reduce that power now resting with the counties."

Miss Grimes' bill would give the Governor the right to name three trustees, the County Commissioners three, and the seventh to be selected by the board.

TEACHER NAMED IN WILL

For her faithful service as a teacher, Henrietta Shoemaker is left $500, according to the terms of the will of Miss Mary Ward, filed for probate today. The estate is valued at $38,000. In addition the will decrees that $500 be given to the Rev. W. S. Fulton, a former pastor; another $500 to the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Third Presbyterian Church; $100 to the Wooster Home for Missionaries' Children, and $500 to Mrs. C. M. Magill, a missionary. The remainder of the estate goes to relatives.

Cows Thrive on Corn Ensilage Feed

DUBUQUE, Ia.—In Iowa trials it was found that cows fed 37 pounds of soiling crops a head daily, in addition to limited pasture and a reasonable allowance of concentrates, produced no more milk or butterfat than others fed only 22 pounds of corn silage in place of the 37 pounds of soiling crops. This higher value of corn silage, pound for pound, in comparison with soiling crops, is due to that fact that good corn silage contains a much higher percentage of dry matter than most soiling crops.

Blind Miner Kills Self in Second Try

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Jan. 30.—Despondent because of blindness suffered in a mine explosion some years ago, police say, Stephen Gaydak, 50, bowling alley proprietor at Robinson, ended his life by slashing his abdomen with a razor last night. 4TH GIVES UP IN BOND CASE

"MYSTERY MAN"

The United States grand jury in New York yesterday returned another "John Doe" indictment in connection with the investigation. This indictment is believed to be directed at the mysterious figure who was responsible for the Pittsburgh deal that wrecked the labor bank. The mysterious person was named along with the others in a previous indictment, but new true bill is known as a "superceding indictment."

The removal proceedings, begun before Commissioner Roger Knox yesterday, were to be resumed today. Government and defense attorneys concurred in the belief that there would be no opposition to the removal order, which would transfer the defendants from the jurisdiction of the Federal Court for the Western Pennsylvania district to that of the Southern New York District Court.

While the proceedings hung fire, Knapp, unable to raise bond set at $15,000, spent the night in jail. Mrs. Knapp was free under $5,000 bond, and Diamond under $10,000 bond. Leo Gallagher, under parole for election irregularities in 1927, had not yet been served with a warrant, but deputy marshals expected to have him in custody today.

Diamond, well known on the fringes of the financial district, was questioned about the collapse of the Brotherhood Savings and Trust Company in 1926, after Knapp and $320,000 of the bank's funds took a one-way taxi ride. Knapp spent a year and a half in jail for his part in that swindle, and $270,000 of the money was recovered. Gallagher also was questioned.

SUICIDE PACT STORY IS DOUBTED

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 30.—(INS.)—While Harry Bowman, 39, of this city, held in connection with the disappearance of Miss Verna Klink, also of Harrisburg, continued to assert that he and Miss Klink had leaped into the Susquehanna River in an effort to end their lives, state police today prepared to place a charge of murder against him.

Police declare that there are discrepancies in Bowman's story of the alleged "suicide pact," since he and Miss Klink, who disappeared last Friday night, were but slightly acquainted. Authorities said Miss Klink had $1,000, given her by her mother, in her possession at the time she disappeared.

Following the story of Bowman regarding the "suicide pact," police dragged the river near the point where Bowman said he and the girl had leaped into the water, but no trace of her body was found. According to Bowman's story, when he and Miss Klink failed to obtain enough money for the purchase of a candy store they agreed to die together. Bowman said he succeeded in reaching shore after the leap while Miss Klink perished.

State police allege that Bowman and the girl had met but a few days previous to her disappearance and that he had gone to York with a Miss Ethel Miller on Sunday. Miss Miller was taken into custody yesterday and police said she had $300 in cash.

SAYS AUTOISTS SHOULD PAY

HARRISBURG, Jan. 30—Motorists, and not the general taxpayers of the state, should provide the funds for highway improvements, Gov. Fisher made plain today. The users of the roads should "foot the bill," he says.

Reports were in circulation last night that in order to make available additional funds for highway construction the Legislature would be asked to appropriate the $14,000,000 needed to pay interest and sinking fund charges for the next biennium on existing road bonds from the general fund. At the present time the carying charges of the road loans are coming out of the motor fund.

The suggestion that the interest be paid from the general fund would free that money for maintenance of city streets, acquisition of county bridges on the state system and additional construction.

"The highways of the state are now used, almost exclusively, by drivers of automotive vehicles," the Governor said.

"The man for whose service the good roads exist should foot the bill.

"He should not draw on taxpayers of smaller means to pay for improvements that serve him."

CONSIDER MOVE OF LIVINGSTON

Attorney Charles B. Prichard has taken under consideration the advisability of future steps in the interest of his client, Murray G. Livingston, whose discharge by Mayor Charles H. Kline "for the good of the service" was upheld yesterday by the Civil Service Commission.

Livingston was discharged last month and appealed within the legal time for a hearing before the commission. A hearing was held last month and after reviewing the testimony the commission gave a verdict yesterday sustaining the Mayor.

The next step for Livingston would be to appeal to the courts, it was said.

The last defense of man has been kicked over. Women smoke generally, but . . .

It will be in celebration of Kappa Alpha Tau going "national," which means that there are chapters forming in other cities. The smoker will be under the auspices of Beta Chapter.

It's no secret among the girls that pipes have supplanted cigarets in the favor of many.

Sixteen members of Beta Chapter, whose president is Ellen Davis, 2348 Pittock street, Squirrel Hill, have completed plans for the party tomorrow night. It will be held in the home of Rose Stolman, a few doors down the street. There will be many fair guests.

Doran, United States prohibition commissioner, said last night at a dinner celebrating Samuel O Wynne's second anniversary as prohibition administrator of the eastern and middle Pennsylvania district.

"There is no comparison between Philadelphia today and five years ago," Dr. Doran said. "Enforcement conditions here are very satisfactory and the crime situation is better because of it."

U. S. NAVY UNFIT, GROWING WORSE, WILBUR DECLARES

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—The American Navy is unprepared for war, Secretary of the Navy Curtis D. Wilbur told the House Naval Appropriations Sub-Committee, it was revealed in testimony made public today.

Conditions will grow worse in the future unless Congress provides funds to adequately maintain and repair fast deteriorating fighting ships, both Wilbur and Admiral C. F. Hughes, chief of naval operations, said.

The Navy is under-manned, ships are out of repair and needed new fighting units have been denied, they informed the committee. The testimony was given in connection with the framing of the 1930 Navy supply bill. Wilbur disclosed that sharp differences existed between the Navy and the Budget Bureau, which resulted in the presidential budget estimate sent to Congress being cut $20,000,000 under the Navy's figure.

Admiral Hughes stated the Navy's case bluntly. He said:

"The general war-readiness of the fleet is not being maintained, and increased funds are needed for this purpose."

REQUEST PARED

The Navy, it was disclosed, originally asked for $388,871,719 for the fiscal year beginning July 1. This was pared to $356,979,389 and a supplemental estimate of $14,888,869. The budget in turn cut it to $349,125,702.

The Navy heads told the committee that the officer personnel, as well as the enlisted personnel, is short. Both urged enlargement of the Annapolis Naval Academy. Hughes presented tables showing that both Great Britain and France have larger immediate building programs than the United States.

Cruiser Bill Deemed Certain of Passage

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—(INS.)—The administration's "big Navy" bill, authorizing construction of 15 new cruisers and a giant aircraft carrier, will be enacted Monday or Tuesday, it was conceded today by the opposition, following adoption of an agreement limiting debate.

The bill will be adopted in virtually the form it passed the House almost a year ago. This will include the time clause, opposed by President Coolidge and President-elect Hoover, which provides that one-third of the new warships shall be started during each of the next three years.

ROCKEFELLERS RETAIN·HUGHES

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Charles Evans Hughes and Henry H. Hornbrook, a leader of the Indiana bar, have been retained by the proxy committee conducting John D. Rockefeller, Jr.'s fight to have Col. Robert W. Stewart removed as chairman of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, but it was said that no unexpected turn in affairs had developed to prompt obtaining such eminent counsel.

Mr. Hughes will act as general counsel for the committee and Mr. Hornbrook as its expert on Indiana law.

The younger Rockefeller is trying to oust Col. Stewart because of the latter's attitude and testimony in the Senate Teapot Dome oil investigation, which Rockefeller considered would tend to shake public confidence in the company.

King's Pet Parrot Will Go Along To Seashore

LONDON, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Not the least important member of King George's suite, when he goes to the seaside resort of Bognor, will be his majesty's parrot.

The Daily Mirror said today that the bird has been inconsolable throughout the King's illness, sitting humped and pining in a cage.

In ordinary times Polly has an access to the royal ear such as many human subjects might envy. She sits on the King's shoulder at breakfast murmuring to him until her own special dish arrives. Then the parrot descends sedately to the table and eats breakfast alongside the King.

A bill imposing $100 fine or 30 days' imprisonment on "males" appearing on "public highways dressed in red bathing suits" has been introduced in the House of the State Legislature by Representative Luther Hall.

It was facetiously aimed at a bill offered Monday by Representative Lynn C. Gardner providing a similar penalty for any one of either sex appearing clad in bathing suits of any color.

Patrolman Meyers was called by Peter Baziots, 17, of 707 Webster avenue, who charged that Nesos had threatened him with a meat cleaver. ENGELSBERG AND HOEY NAMED IN DEATH THREAT

Joseph Engelsberg, Hill political leader, today received a "Black Hand" letter that had been mailed to him in care of Center Avenue Police Police Station, Center avenue and Dinwiddie street.

The letter, signed with a drawing of three sawed-off shotguns, a bomb and a dagger, threatened to "get" Engelsberg and Police Inspector James N. Hoey.

Engelsberg, who recently sued former Police Magistrate John J. Verona and a number of the latter's followers for assault and battery following an attack upon him in a Hill club, said he would turn the letter over to his attorney and would be guided by his advise as to whether to place it in the hands of the postal authorities.

"We will get you yet and that —— J. N. Hoey," read the letter. "You will be political leader of the Third Ward. That is a problem."

It was printed in pencil.

IDENTIFY RUTH CHILD IN WILL

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—The true relationship of the "mystery child" to Babe Ruth's late wife was established today in Mrs. Ruth's will.

The document, filed in Surrogate's Court, left the bulk of $50,000 estate to "My beloved charge and ward, Dorothy Helen Ruth, at one time known as Marie Harrington."

Babe Ruth was cut off with a bequest of $5. The same amount was left to Mrs. Ruth's mother and to each of her four brothers and three sisters.

At the time of Mrs. Ruth's death in a fire which destroyed the home of Dr. E. H. Kinder, dentist of Watertown, Mass., January 11, conflicting reports were in circulation regarding whether Dorothy was the offspring of the ball player and his wife or a foster child.

The petition for probate presented another mystery when it listed a cause for action for $31,000 against "a resident of New York City" as the principal asset of the estate. Personal property, represented chiefly by jewelry, was estimated at $32,000.

Dispatches from Boston said the members of Mrs. Ruth's family would not contest the will.

COURT BLOCKS GEN. BOOTH'S OUSTER

LONDON, Jan. 30.—(INS.)—Justice Eve in Chancery Court today granted Gen. Bramwell Booth an injunction restraining the Salvation Army high council from acting upon the resolution removing him from his generalship or appointing a successor. A temporary injunction had been in effect since January 18.

The injunction will stand until "after a further meeting of the high council, when Gen. Booth should have an opportunity of being heard."

Justice Eve, in delivering judgment, said:

"While it is not denied that the general's long absence through illness brought about serious results in the organization of the army, it was a mistake that Gen. Booth was not given an opportunity for defending his case. Therefore the resolution of January 17, wherein the general was declared unfit, cannot stand."

High officials of the Salvation Army will meet within the next few days to determine their position, in view of the court decision.

Official announcement was made by the high council that it will hold a new meeting before disbandment.

BUST OF CONGRESSMAN COMES HERE BY AIR MAIL

For the first time in the history of air mail in this country a statue was flown from one city to another. A bronze bust of Congresssman Clyde Kelly, made by Frank Vittor, a prominent local sculptor, arrived yesterday afternoon from New York City, having been flown first to Cleveland over the National Air Transport and then to Pittsburgh over the Clifford Ball air mail route. Neither air line made a charge for the service.

Pilot R. L. Baker heaved a sigh of relief as he eased his plane on snow-covered Bettis Field at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, while a committee of prominent local Italians anxiously watched the maneuver.

The bust is to be presented to Congressman Kelly tonight at the Schenley Hotel, when Italian-Americans of the Thirty-third Congressional District honor their congressman.

Those who were at the field to witness the arrival of the heavy bronze bust, were: John Fugassi, Sculptor Vittor, John Volpe, treasurer of the banquet; Herman E. Carletti, secretary; G. C. HOOVER AT WORK ON SPEECH, TOO COLD TO FISH

By GEORGE R. HOLMES,
International News Service.

BELLE ISLE, MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 30.—A high cold wind, which came in on the heels of yesterday's rain squalls, kept President-elect Herbert Hoover from his fishing grounds today. The weather in the vicinity of the Gulf Stream, where the marline and sailfish play, was gusty and chilly.

Provided the weather continues to moderate during the day, as expected, the President-elect planned to shove off later this afternoon, having dinner aboard the houseboat, Saunterer, which is tied up at Long Key awaiting his arrival. The run of about 80 miles down to Long Key probably will be made by train.

Mr. Hoover's only caller this morning was Hamilton F. Keane, Senator-elect from New Jersey. He arrived soon after breakfast. It is understood he discussed some Jersey appointments. Keane will take his seat in the Senate when the extra session is called.

Most of Mr. Hoover's time today was spent in laboring over his voluminous correspondence and on his inaugural speech. This historic document already is beginning to take definite shape. It probably will be concluded in another 10 days and sent to the printers.

MUSIC

Andres Segovia
Y. M. & W. H. A.

PROGRAM.

Sarabande	Handel
Theme varie	Ferdinand Sor (1778-1839)
Serenade	Joaquin Malats
Etude	Francisco Terrega
Prelude	Johann Sebastian Bach
Courante	Johann Sebastian Bach
Gavotte	Johann Sebastian Bach
(Originally written for the Lute.)
Menuet	Haydn
Fandanguillo (Dedicated to Andres Segovia)	Joaquin Turina
Dance	Enrique Granados
Seville	Issac Albeniz
Legenda	Issac Albeniz

Segovia is the wizard troubador. Close your eyes and you are with Pierre Vidal at the gates of Carcassone and Les Baux; you dance on the cathedral steps of an Easter day; you are with Elinore of Aquitaine, underneath a balcony in Caen. What pictures this master can conjure with his lute!

A Handel Sarabande comes to you as if from a delicate harpischord. His serenades are in a warm Spanish garden far from his listeners. The music of Bach and Haydn trip along as daitily as the court ladies who danced these gavottes and minuets. Whatever is the technique of the guitar, Segovia has accomplished the superfine, and makes music more intimate than any other we have ever heard in concert.

Prague Teachers' Chorus
SYRIA MOSQUE

PROGRAM

The King Wenceslaus	J. B. Foerster
The Wicked Sweetheart	Antonin Dvorak
The Sparrow's Party	Antonin Dvorak
Christmas Cradle Song	Vitezslav Novak
A Song for the Sea	Bedrich Smetana
On the Field Path	J. B. Foerster
Ostrava	J. Kunc
The Evening Star	Jaroslav Kricka
I Have no Joy	J. Jindrich
The Presburg Barracks	H. Palla
Tit for Tat	B. Pokorny

While Segovia was daintly tinkling his guitar strings, over in Syria Mosque, the Prague Teachers' Chorus was singing a saltier music, music of a fiercely patriotic people to many Czech descendants and Americans, who rose to grand enthusiasm after the opening "Star Spangled Banner."

Their program was taken entirely from native composers, and gave us an opportunity to learn how much our own choruses have missed in their ignorance of this dramatic music. No other group of men, in our experience, has sung with such force without losing much of the finer musical effects. As with most Slav singers the basses have the quality of the great diapasons of an organ; the tenors are permitted a discreet use of falsetto which is not offensive when so cleverly disguised. And just for folk music, that falsetto brings a certain more truthful color.

As to interpretation, each man seemed to understand it was his sole duty to tell the story of his music. In so difficult a language, their enunciation must have been nothing short of miraculous, when one realizes at what speed most of the humorous songs especially were sung. Metod Dolezil conducted without restraint and results were wonderfully impassioned singing.

Weather Conditions.

The high pressure area is building up, or increasing in pressure over the Canadian Northwest and Montana, but elsewhere in the states the pressure has decreased, and the temperatures are rising.

The Northwest low developed southeastward, and overspread the entire Southwest section of the country with its center over Colorado. Lowest barometer, 29.86 inches, at Denver. It is producing cloudy weather over much the greater portion of the country, and light snow is falling over the Northern Rocky Mountain states, the Northern and Central plains, and eastward over the Ohio Valley states. The low will develop eastward and will cause continued cloudy weather with light snow and a further rise in temperature.

River Conditions.

The rivers are falling everywhere. Stage at Pittsburgh is 12.5 feet. Dam No. 2, 3.2, and Dam No. 6, 9.2. The dams are down. Light ice is running out of the Allegheny and in the Ohio to below Wheeling. River nearly half full.

OUT NOW

Do you like rock-butter and milk in chunks?

Why serve frozen milk—or butter that just breaks holes in the bread? Still more important, why spoil food by leaving it outdoors to freeze?

Refrigeration is a year-round necessity. More food is actually spoiled in winter than in summer because many housekeepers do not yet realize that most foods are harmed by freezing and that any food quickly spoils by alternate freezing and thawing.

The General Electric Refrigerator keeps your food at the scientifically correct temperature—always well below the danger point of 50 degrees—neither too hot nor too cold. Of course, it has a special separate compartment for freezing ice cubes and frozen desserts.

All the mechanism is up on top in an hermetically sealed steel casing, clear of dust and dirt. It is worry-proof and so automatic you do not even oil it.

Church Union Debated Here

terian committee attending the session are the Rev. Dr. J. Ross Stevenson, president of Princeton Theological Seminary, chairman; the Rev. Dr. William P. Merrill, the Rev. Dr Robert E. Speer, New York; the Rev. Dr. Joseph A. Vance, Detroit; the Rev. Dr. William O. Thompson, Columbus; the Rev. Dr. Lewis Seymour Mudge, Philadelphia; Homer Forsythe, Chicago; the Rev. Dr. Henry C. Swearingen, St. Paul, and Attorney Thomas D. McCloskey, of Pittsburgh.

Bishop Herbert Welch, resident bishop of the Pittsburgh area of the Methodist Episcopal Church, heads the committee of his denomination. Other members attending the meeting are the Rev. Dr. Eugene M. Antrim, Oklahoma City, secretary; Bishop William F. McDowell, Washington; Bishop F. D. Leete, Omaha; the Rev. Dr. Dry Allen, Buffalo; the Rev. Dr. J. H. Race, New York; the Rev. Dr. O. W. Condon, Indianapolis, and Frank A. Horne, New York.

METHODIST REQUEST

Dr. Mudge, stated clerk of the Presbyterian Church's General Assembly, speaking for his denomination, said the conference had been called to receive concrete proposals from the Methodists for a merger.

"We wish to let it be understood that no merger will be consummated at this meeting," he added. "Definite steps can only be taken when the General Assembly meets. We are ready to discuss this most important matter in all seriousness and with a view toward an eventual fusion of the two great denominations."

Bishop Welch regarded the conference as of vital importance to the 4,000,000 communicants of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

WELCH HOPEFUL

"We took the initiative for such a merger at the general conference of our denomination at Kansas City, last year.

"We keenly appreciate the generous spirit of co-operation the Presbyterians have evinced toward our proposal. Such co-operation is destined to bear good fruit and may, in the not too distant future, bring the two great denominations together," he commented.

The proposed merger will involve the Presbyterian Church of the United States, with a communicant membership of 2,000,000, and the Methodist Episcopal Church of America, with 4,000,000 members.

Similar steps toward merging the Southern Presbyterian and Methodist Episcopal denominations will be taken at a conference at Richmond, Va., in the spring.

Fighter Does Not Succumb to Cold!

Army men learn to take care of themselves, and they don't pamper colds like many civilians. They knock them out between morning and night: with a compound that comes in plain, pleasant-tasting tablets. No trouble to carry, and so easy to take; but amazingly efficient, as you'll find out!

Pape's Cold Compound works so quickly you'll think it luck the first time. And stops grippe or "flu" if you give it time and take several tablets. Pape's way of stopping colds is worth remembering, so remember the name; 35c at druggists—they all have it.

HELP KIDNEYS BY DRINKING MORE WATER

Kidney and bladder irritations often result from acidity, says a noted authority. The kidneys help filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it may remain to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times druing the night. The sufferer is in constant dread; the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in voiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is often one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Begin drinking lots of soft water, also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast. Continue this for two or three days. This will help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs, which then act normal again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by acid irritation. Jad Salts causes no bad effects whatever.

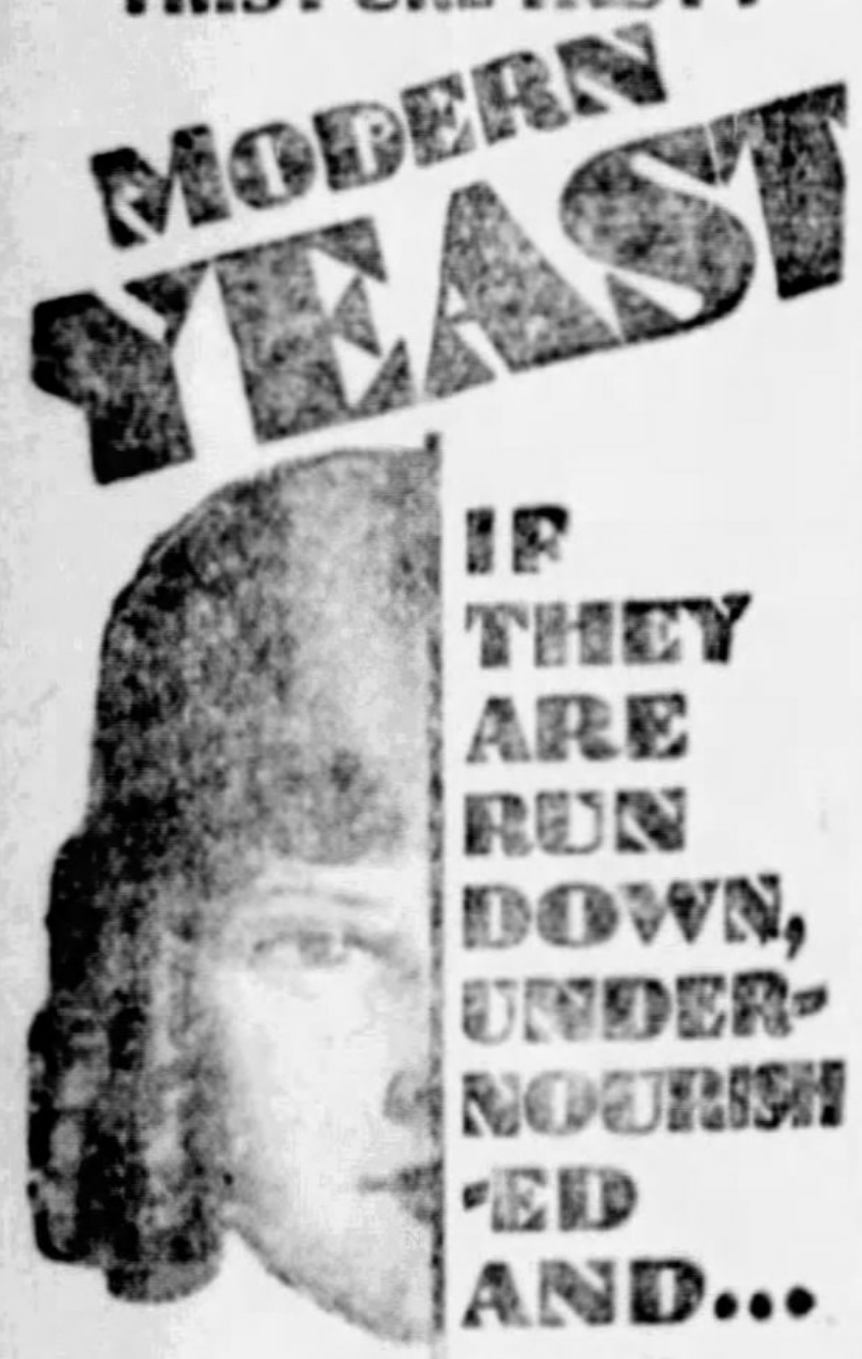
GIVE YOUR CHILDREN THIS PURE TASTY MODERN YEAST



IF THEY ARE RUN DOWN, UNDER-NOURISH-ED AND...

ONLY HALF THERE

CHILDREN need yeast. It builds them up, gives them appetite and good digestion and helps them get full value from their food. But ordinary baking yeast is not suitable for the reason that it ferments and causes gas.

Give children Yeast Foam Tablets. Pure whole yeast with nothing added. So prepared that it can not ferment or cause gas. A fetching taste that makes most people chew the tablets like candy.

As to purity and potency, please remember that this yeast is used and recognized as the standard for vitamin studies by the leading universities of the nation and by the U. S. Government. This is your guarantee.

Six tablets in the glassine envelope for 5 cents, or the 10-day bottle from your druggist for 50 cents. Northwestern Yeast Co., 1750 No. Ashland Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

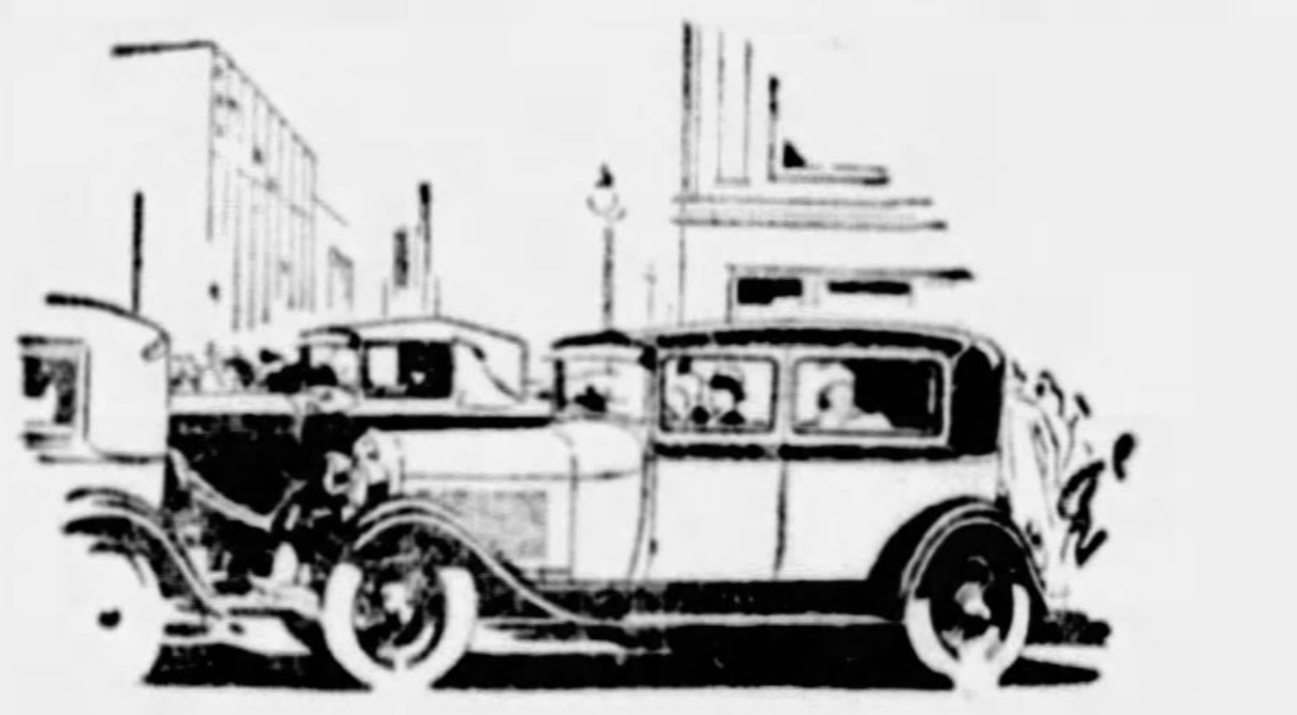
Safety, silence and simplicity are features of the new Ford six-brake system



ONE of the first things you will notice when you drive the new Ford is the quick, effective, silent action of its six-brake system.

This system gives you the highest degree of safety and reliability because the four-wheel service brakes and the separate emergency or parking brakes are all of the mechanical, internal-expanding type, with braking surfaces fully enclosed for protection against mud, water, sand, etc.

The many advantages of this type of braking system have long been recognized. They are brought to you in the new Ford through a series of mechanical improvements embodying much that is new in design and manufacture.

A particularly unique feature is the simple way by which a special drum has been constructed to permit the use of two sets of internal brakes on the rear wheels.

The brake construction on the front wheels also is unusual. Here the brakes are enclosed without the use of a leather boot or sliding joint to protect the linkage between the brake rods and the mechanism on the brake plate.

A further improvement is effected by the self-centering feature of the four-wheel brakes—an exclusive Ford development. Through this construction, the entire surface of the shoe is brought in contact with the drum the instant you press your foot on the brake pedal. This prevents screeching and howling and makes the Ford brakes unusually silent.

The four-wheel brakes are adjusted by turning a regulating screw conveniently located on the outside of each brake plate. This screw is so notched that all four brakes can be set alike simply by listening to the "clicks."

The emergency or parking brakes on the new Ford require little attention. However, should they need adjustment at any time, consult your Ford dealer for prompt, courteous, and economical service. He works under close factory supervision and he has been specially trained and equipped to help you get the greatest possible use from your car over the longest period of time at a minimum of trouble and expense.

THEATER STOCK INVOLVED IN $30,000 SUIT

Suit demanding the cancellation of a $30,000 paper debt and the return of 850 shares of Olympic Amusement Company stock held as collateral has been filed in Common Pleas Court by the John Eichleay, Jr., Company and William J. Herbster, trustee, against Peter Antonopolis, former sole owner of the Olympic Theater.

The action, a suit in equity, recites that the Eichleay company bought a half-interest, or 1,800 shares of stock, in the Fifth avenue movie house from Antonopolos, May 3, 1920, for $225,000. The company paid $125,000 cash and gave two notes for $50,000 each for the remaining $100,000.

A week later the company borrowed $50,000 from Antonopolos, putting up part of the theater stock for security. The following September Antonopolos demanded that the notes be paid in full at once. Unable to do this, the Eichleays paid $40,000 and obtained a renewal of the balance, or $110,000 upon adding $30,000 additional to the note as a bonus.

The Eichleays contend they have to date paid off the $110,000 plus $5,819 interest, and aver the $30,000 was not just and has been outlawed due to the matter being more than six years old. They demand that the court order the return of the $140,000 note cancelled and 850 shares of Olympic stock held as collateral.

Commission Upholds Livingston's Ousting

Mayor Charles H. Kline's "good of the service" reason for discharging Murray G. Livingston as chief inspector of weights and measures has been approved by the Civil Service Commission.

Livingston was discharged more than a month ago and appealed to the commission on the ground that the Mayor's reason was vague, indefinite and insufficient. The commission gave Livingston a hearing January 18, announcing its decision yesterday.

February Furniture Sale Begins Friday

Tomorrow—Last Day to Make Advance Selections!

Come tomorrow and see the furniture at its best—just one day remains for leisurely inspection before the selling begins in earnest. It is the opportunity to "shop" the sale, to see the real beauty, the chaste lines, the decorative possibilities of the new furniture. It is the time for those with the idea that Horne furniture is beyond their budget to satisfy themselves that the February specials are not only extremely moderate in price, but that they also offer suites and occasional pieces of the very same excellent taste and dependability that has probably given rise to this misapprehension.

. . . Horne's, Sixth Floor . . .

The Interior Decorating Studios present an entirely new feature—twelve model rooms completely furnished in the manner of the moment, in addition to the newest treatments for walls, floors and windows. This exhibit has great value for everyone interested in home making. Its suggestions may be applied to individual homes, to a greater or less degree, as one feels disposed.

Our arrangements for Deferred Payments are particularly liberal. A reasonable first payment is all that is required for delivery, with balance in monthly payments.

'VOICE' OF LATE DR. STEINMETZ GOES ON AIR TONIGHT

GERSHWIN'S NEW MUSIC TO HAVE RADIO PREMIERE

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

A VOICE from the dead will go on the air from WGY tonight at 8 o'clock. The voice of Dr. Charles Proteus Steinmetz, traced on photographic film a few months before he died, will be reproduced. While Dr. Steinmetz did much for radio, fans never had the pleasure of hearing his voice while he was living.

Immediately after the broadcast of Dr. Steinmetz's voice, WGY will transmit a film address by Calvin Coolidge, recorded while Mr. Coolidge was vice president. The address by Coolidge was broadcast by WGY on Christmas Eve in 1922.

TWO HIGHLIGHTS

Two programs from Pittsburgh stations look promising. The first is the rendition of George Gershwin's "An American in Paris," for which it is said the sponsor of the Quinby Symphony paid $5,000 for a radio premiere. It will be heard with other Gershwin numbers over WCAE at 7:30 o'clock. Mr. Gershwin may speak.

John Steel, tenor, will be toastmaster of the LaPalina Smoker over WJAS at 9:30 o'clock.

"Girls, Don't Go to Hollywood," is the subject of a short talk to be given by Phyllis Haver, motion picture actress, over WRNY at 12:01 a. m.

"Mike the Radio Hound" and instrumental soloists will be featured at 10:30 tonight with Henry Fillmore and His Band, WLW. A characteristic, "Bull Trombone," will be played.

The "Thirteenth Hour," which is none other than 1 a. m. to the "radio fanatic," will offer such a varied program as "I'll Get By," "Kiss Me Again," "High Up on a Hill Top," "Sweet and Low" and "Blue Night." This from WLW also.

The Slumber Music program directed by Ludwig Laurier, will feature old and modern French music at 11 o'clock over WJZ, WHAM, WRC.

How to Darken Gray Hair

By BERYL WEST

I repeat what I have often said—there's no excuse today for a woman submitting to gray hair and looking older than she feels. Gray, faded or streaked hair may be so perfectly restored to color that it need be only your own boudoir secret. Nothing more or less than a mixture of sage tea and sulphur is the magic.

One may either prepare the mixture at home, or as most people prefer to do, buy it already prepared and ready to use. Wyeth's Sage & Sulphur is the name of the ready-to-use preparation and since all druggists sell it at 75c a bottle, there is really no need of going to the trouble of making it yourself.

You simply moisten a comb or soft brush with it, and draw it through the hair, one strand at the time. One application banishes the gray and one or two more completely restores your gray, faded or streaked hair to its original color. There is no artificial, dyed look. The whole effect is one of perfect naturalness. My readers would be surprised if they knew of the thousands of men and women who use this preparation.

New Type Electro-Dynamic Speaker

READY AT PICKERING'S!

The Philco Console

A full-length console cabinet of exquisite design. Walnut panels, carefully selected for beauty of grain and expertly matched. No nails or screws. All joints doweled and glued—in every respect a high-grade piece of cabinet work.

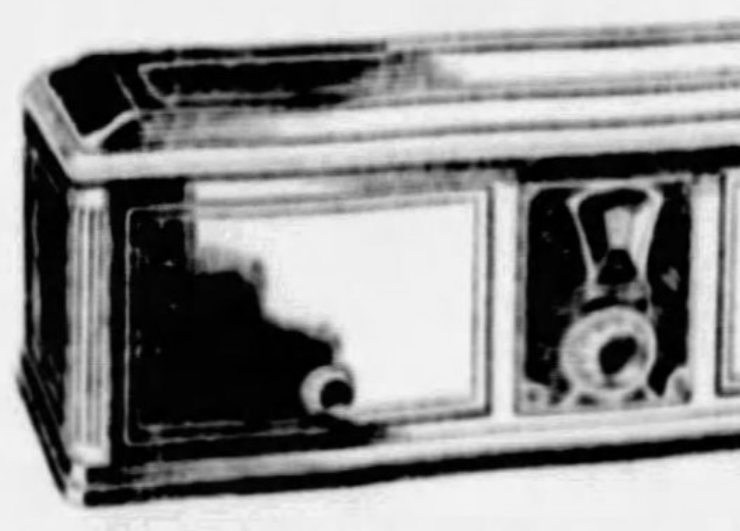
Contains 8-tube (including rectifier) Receiver; power supply; built-in aerial and New Type Philco Electro-Dynamic Speaker. Price, without tubes, $157—an Amazing Value!

The Highboy

Louis XVI period style. Handsomely matched butt walnut panels, fluted legs and pillars, swinging doors. Constructed with painstaking care—all joints doweled and glued—no nails, cleats or screws. Exquisite finish. Contains 8 tubes including rectifier, built-in aerial and power supply. Includes phonograph connection to play records electrically, and the New Type Philco Electro-Dynamic Speaker.

The Lowboy

Another Louis XVI design by Albert Carl Mowitz, for those who prefer a low cabinet. Handsomely matched butt walnut panels. The drop door, when open, forms a convenient arm-rest for tuning. Fluted legs and pillars. No nails or screws. All joints doweled and glued. Exquisite finish.



The Table Model

The Philco table cabinet is of simple, classic design, finished in a rich, two-tone Spanish Brown which will harmonize perfectly with any interior. It contains the 7-tube (including rectifier) Philco Receiver, power supply, phonograph connection, built-in aerial and portable ground.

THESE new 1929 models contain Philco's own radio discovery—Neutrodyne-Plus—which has so thrilled the radio world with its startling performance.

Vast Distance Range

"8410 Radio Miles—including 6 Japanese stations," writes a user. Philco has brought distance back into its own. Super-power is the secret; power to break through interference; power to reach out and bring in distance at volume you can enjoy!

Split-Hair Selectivity

"88 Stations in a Single Night!" "4 Stations on 3 Points of the Dial!" Records like these are the pride of Philco owners. Powerful stations confined to narrow limits on the dial. A hair's breadth turn often tunes out one station completely and brings another booming in. Sharp—clear—no "groping."

Flawless Tone

"The tone is exceptionally beautiful!" writes a musician. Yes, flawless tone. High notes, pure and clear; low notes rendered in their true proportion—an actual RE-production of the tones before the microphone.

Now—Greater Than Ever!

In the new 1929 model, every quality that has made for such phenomenal performance has been redoubled. Greater power than ever, and even sharper tuning! Distance range that is nothing short of amazing! And startlingly true to life!

An Astounding Value

And then—most surprising of all—this superb quality Philco is available at a price of only $157 in an exquisite, full-length Console Cabinet. Truly, the most remarkable value on the radio market today!

Philco engineers have perfected the Dynamic Speaker.

No more unnatural "boom, boom" to drown out the melody; no more blurred speech. High tones have been restored to their proper place, while preserving the pleasing background of the lows. Melodies are heard in proper proportion to the bass. Speech is wonderfully clear and distinct. Startlingly true to life! AND—tremendous volume without distortion.

Neutrodyne-Plus

Power, super-power—that's the secret of Neutrodyne-Plus, Philco's New Radio Discovery. The power to perform under the most difficult local conditions. This great power Philco engineers have added for the first time to Neutrodyne, famous for its pure, clear tone.

No Aerial Needed

Philco needs no aerial for local and many distant stations. All-electric—entirely dry. Range control cuts out local interference and separates distant stations. 8 tubes, including rectifier. Push-pull amplification. One dial control. Four condensers.

Come In—Hear It!

Come in—see and hear the new 1929 models of the Philco All-Electric Radio now on display at our store. See the exquisite furniture cabinets Judge for yourself if you have ever seen the equal of this astounding radio value. Ask about our offer. No obligation.

Free Home Demonstration

We'll gladly arrange for a demonstration in your own home, free and without obligation. Hear what the new Philco will do in the very spot you would use it.

Short Wave Radio Assignments Defended

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Commissioner Eugene O. Sykes defended the action of the Federal Radio Commission in awarding 4d short wave frequencies to the Universal Fireless Company of Buffalo, N. Y., before the House Merchant Marine Committee which is considering a bill to continue the life of the Radio Commission for another year.

He also urged the passage of the measure because the commission's work "was far from complete."

Previously, Manton Davis, vice president of the Radio Corporation of America, had charged that the commission had declared its intention of creating a monopoly by making the award to the Universal interests. Sykes said the commission was attempting to prevent the actual creation of a monopoly in the short wave length field.

Council Sends Pay Requests to Mayor

Requests for salary increases received by Council since January 1 will be forwarded to Mayor Charles H. Kline for a recommendation. Council decided to adopt that method during consideration of an ordinance increasing the wages of the superintendent of the municipal garage and repair shop from $3,600 to $4,200 a year and a clerk from $4.25 a day to $1,920 a year.

The move is expected to determine the origin of the numerous requests, particularly that from the police magistrates, who are asking to be increased from $3,000 and $4,000 to $6,000 a year.

—by conquering the usual cause—too much acid—or as doctors call it—"acidosis."

ACIDINE, the most powerful known enemy to acid, kills toxic acid at its source in the stomach and kidneys and literally strangles it, relieving you from further damage from its relentless ravages.

IF ACIDINE FAILS TO RELIEVE INDIGESTION and its results—gas, sourness, sleeplessness and sick headache in the quietest, most soothing and immediate manner you have ever known, every penny you have paid will be refunded by your druggist.

IF ACIDINE FAILS TO PREVENT COLDS AND THE FLU, or fails to relieve them within twenty-four hours, then back goes every penny you have paid.

IF ACIDINE FAILS TO RELIEVE RHEUMATISM WITHIN THIRTY DAYS when taken after meals as directed, then your druggist will cheerfully refund the cost of the trial.

A cure all you may say? No, indeed, just one of the latest scientific discoveries of a famous research laboratory. ACIDINE is the most powerful known enemy to acid wherever found in the human system. ALL THESE TROUBLES RESULT FROM TOO MUCH ACID. AND NATURALLY ACIDINE IS THE MOST EFFECTIVE AGENT FOR FIGHTING THEM.

Remember, we take the risk. A trial costs you nothing if it fails. Buy ACIDINE today, and find out for yourself why in a few short months it has become perhaps the most priceless, the most useful of all home remedies. Your druggist has it and recommends it.

Don't let Rheumatism make an invalid of you.

THOSE muscular pains, commonly called rheumatism, are generally due to a run-down condition, with the number of red-blood-cells below the normal count.

S.S.S. aids the system in building up these red-blood-cells and in getting rid of the condition of which the rheumatism is but a symptom. The body becomes strong and disease-resistant, and the rheumatic pains go.

Pains in your muscles and joints make you miserable, less efficient, interfere with your working hours, ruin your sleep. If allowed to continue, as the years pass the danger increases.

But what a change with rich, red-blood-cells in your body—Nature's building material—making the flesh firm—giving strength to the vital organs.

You can't rub rheumatism out. It is deeper than that. It must be knocked out. And the sure way is by helping the fighting blood—the red-blood-cells!

Increase your army of "workers" (red-blood-cells), and those muscle and joint pains, commonly called rheumatism, vanish. S.S.S. has brought this change about for thousands. Why not for you?

"After suffering several years, six bottles of S.S.S. completely relieved me of rheumatism. It also cleared up a skin eruption and gave me a good appetite. I think S.S.S. is a wonderful medicine."
R. L. Busic,
Southern Railway,
Knoxville, Tenn.

"I was very nervous; had hardly any appetite, and suffered with rheumatism. I tried many medicines, but S.S.S. is the one that did me the most good. I am now well, and feel like a new man."
William Osborne,
2406 Sloan Street,
Flint, Mich.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

MRS. POTTER'S PEARLS

By Laura Reid Montgomery

"YOUR resemblance to me is amazing, Mary," said Mrs. Randolph Potter graciously. "I may give you a treat by permitting you to wear my clothes and take my place at stupid teas if I decide to promote you to the position of secretary-companion."

Mary Brown listened humbly, but her heart leaped. She had been selected as maid from a number of applicants and Mrs. Potter had paid her expenses from New York to Chicago only after the maid had promised to remain with her at least a year. Mary had glibly promised, but had mentally decided to remain just long enough to win her employer's confidence so that she would get a chance at the exquisite pearls worn by Mrs. Potter at the employment agency.

"Are you engaged, Mary?"

Mary blushed. She did love Billy and planned to marry him when she'd used her supple fingers to advantage. "There's a plumber here in Chicago. He broke off his engagement to a girl called 'Rose.' She's one of those girls who'd think a kitchenet apartment in a side street heaven. I told him, though, I'd need a good home."

"Break off entirely with him. A lovely girl like you should not consider a plumber. Promise."

Again the glib promise. But Mary had no intention of breaking off for she adored the honest-eyed Billy and planned to run straight after—after she obtained those pinky pearls she craved. She had told Billy of a mythical aunt who would likely leave her a fortune.

Mary, asleep on the top floor of a Loop hotel, was aroused by cries of fire and found her attic room thick and stifling with smoke. Remembering the fire escape at her employer's window on the fifth floor, she fled down the stairs that were crowded with a struggling mob.

Mrs. Potter's bed was empty.

Shivering in the icy lake wind Mary snatched the sable coat that she had always coveted and wrapped it over her cotton night gown. The scented warmth of the garment seemed to awaken her numbed brain and she dashed for the jewel case that was always hidden beneath Mrs. Potter's bed. She hid this together with the gold-mesh purse beneath her wrap as the fire engines shrieked below. Crossing the room she caught a glimpse of herself and, even in her panic, paused. The resemblance to her employer was amazing, now that she was wrapped in the coat. Both women were small with bright blue eyes and golden hair. Mary's soul yearned—then opportunity knocked. Her chance came.

"The fire is out, Mrs. Potter. I trust you were not distressed by the clamor," the floor clerk came in through the partly open door, "someone claimed to have seen you on the fire escape."

"Send me up some hot milk and see that I'm not disturbed," she ordered, striving for composure. To herself she added., "The old girl may step in any minute and catch me wearing her furs. Fool that I was not to slip away before." Mary, thinking wildly, was slipping into an expensive velvet frock. This done she secured a tiny steel box that was kept in the fardrobe trunk. Even yet she might make a getaway.

"I'm sorry, Mrs. Potter, to tell you that your maid slipped on the icy fire-escape as she tried to run. She was killed."

Mary Brown's sordid little heart sang. Even as she was giving directions for the disposal of her faithful maid she was inwardly triumphant. "Always knew I could climb if I got a Chinaman's chance," she told herself. She could now have Billy Dewar and the jewels, also.

After breakfast she went out, loking adorable in the clothes of Mrs. Randolph Potter and dispatched a telegram to Billy asking him to meet her at eight that evening at the Pink Elephant Cabaret. She chuckled as she paid for the wire with a bill from the jewelled mesh purse. How Billy's face would freeze with horror if he knew of her dishonesty.

Back in the hotel she put on an exquisite rest robe and ordered luncheon served in her sitting room.

"The plumber, madame, to attend to the leak in your bathroom."

She glanced up to meet Billy's amazed stare.

With a petulant gesture towards the bathroom she looked away.

"Mary—what—"

"Kindly attend to your work and do not disturb me," she said in a high, affected tone, her shoulders shrugged in annoyance.

Silently he obeyed.

Then the room telephone rang: "A reporter to see Mrs. Potter."

She ordered him sent up, reflecting that she'd have her picture in the paper and that if the widow had left any estate the picture would aid her claim. Later she could explain, somehow, to Billy.

"Christian name?" his keen eyes dwelt pleasantly on her.

"Elizabeth-June," Mary had not gone through the widow's papers without annexing all the knowledge she believed necessary.

"You have come from New York where you lived at the Astorbilt?"

Mary glowed beneath the deference in his tone.

Fingering her pearls she smiled seductively. The scent of roses filled the room and the girl basked in the luxury she had achieved.

Billy Dewar stepped out from the bathroom, his honest face quite white.

"Yes. A terrible thing. I've ordered her funeral—"

The reporter's face stiffened. "You swear that you are Elizabeth-June Potter?" he asked curtly.

Mary gasped. Would they try to take away the silken garments? The adorable pinky pearls that now trembled opulently above her quickened heart? Take away that steel box filled with yellow-backed notes. "I swear it," she mumbled.

"I thought I was on the right track," he cried in triumph. "I'm a detective. I lost your trail until you sent that wire from the Palmer House and paid for it with a counterfeit bill.

"All right, boys, come in. We've nabbed the queen of the gang, Liz Potter!"

"Billy, dearest Billy, tell them that I'm Mary Brown. Tell them you know me. It's only that I look like that dead crook," whimpered Mary, trying to throw herself into the arms of the man she loved.

Billy sidestepped, however, and, with a set face, shouldered his bag of tools and departed and the pretty little Rose never quite understood what had sent Billy back to her.

NURSE PRAISES KONJOLA FOR ITS WONDERFUL MERIT

"I Know a Good Medicine When I See It," Says Lady Relieved of Complication of Ailments.

A mighty chorus of praise resounds wherever Konjola, the master medicine, is known, and the Konjola Man, who is at the McCulloch Drug Store, Penn avenue and Sixth street, this city, is surrounded daily by throngs of sufferers eager to hear all about this modern medicine for ailments of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and for rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness. Konjola comes with an astonishing record for results, in which an outstanding feature is the fact that in thousands upon thousands of cases Konjola has scored a sweeping victory over diseases when all other medicines and treatments have failed dismally. How Konjola, with its 32 ingredients — 22 of them herbal juices—goes directly to the seat of the trouble, and how it works to bring about its speedy and complete relief, is told by Mrs. Fred A. Moore, a nurse of fourteen years' experience, 316 North Fourth street, Sharon, Pa. Surprised and happy over her experience with this super-medicine, Mrs. Moore said to the Konjola Man, who is now in this city:

"Four years ago my kidneys became affected, but for years before that I had suffered intensely from rheumatism, constipation and indigestion. Being a nurse I had every opportunity to secure the best of treatments and medicines, but nothing seemed to reach my case. At times my limbs and joints were terribly swollen: headache and dizziness were daily plagues: there was but little I could eat without paying for it with extreme pain. This long standing condition sapped my strength and energy, and I was keenly discouraged by my failure to find anything to help.

"I read with curiosity and then deepening interest the many indorsements of Konjola. Maybe this remedy will help me, I thought, and then started on the treatment. I certainly did not expect nor dream of such immediate effects. Before the second bottle was taken I realized that I was on the road to perfect health. My stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels responded as if to a magic touch, and began functioning as they should. The headaches and dizziness vanished, and best of all, the rheumatism left me almost over night. To say I was astounded scarcely expresses my surprise. As a nurse, I know a good medicine when I see it work like that, and Konjola certainly has my sincere endorsement and heartfelt thanks for its remarkable and quick success in my stubborn complication of ailments. I feel it a privilege and a duty to recommend this master medicine to all who suffer as I did for years and years."

One might print thousands of endorsements like this, for on its actual results is founded Konjola's unprecedented success. What Konjola has done for a legion of others made well again, it will do for you.

The Konjola Man is at the McCulloch Drug Store, Penn avenue and Sixth street, Pittsburgh, where he is meeting the public daily, and explaining the merits of the remarkable Konjola. Free samples given.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Interesting Events Planned Here for Stay-at-Homes

HAS it ever happened to occur to you that in the late winter the derivation of the word "news," as far as society news is concerned, is ideally demonstrated? You know the old story, I'm sure, that the word "news" was made up from the initial letters of the four points of the compass, from which information came. And in the winter time our society news embraces events taking place in the North, at Lake Placid, I might say; in the East, New York; in the West, California; and in the South, of course, Palm Beach.

Throughout the year members of Pittsburgh society, we all know, follow with interest the social activities of their friends and relatives all over the globe, but in the late winter, when the season here is at low ebb, the greater part of social news concerns Pittsburgh folks or former Pittsburghers who are seeking social gayety in warmer climes, or occasionally colder.

Today is an exception to the usual source of late season news; I've quite a number of interesting events to tell you about, all to take place right here at home. Before mentioning these social affairs, I must admit that the social dowager of "dictionarydom," Webster, says nothing at all about this derivation of "news."

NOW that the season of large balls and large teas and large dinner parties is over, the more informal types of entertainment are in vogue. Just as soon as the guest list is abbreviated to one's immediate circle of friends, a social gathering assumes an air of informality, haven't you often felt?

Down in Sewickley bridge is resuming its popularity. Following a luncheon Mrs. Tom M. Girdler, of Academy avenue, Sewickley, will give tomorrow, in honor of Mrs. Page Warden, of Pasadena, who is the house guest of her sister, Mrs. Alexander Laughlin, of Beaver road, Sewickley, bridge will be played.

WITH the snow encroaching on the rolling landscape near Pittsburgh, the scene of many a hunt and horse show and hunts and all that goes with such sports, will have to end for a while. Many of the Hunts are giving dinners to mark the close of their seasons.

The Sewickley Hunt gave a dinner, you know, for the J. O. Burgwins last Saturday night.

The Rolling Rock Hunt will give a dinner in honor of Richard King Mellon, son of the R. B. Mellons, who is master of hounds. The dinner will be given Friday evening in the Pittsburgh Golf Club.

The guest of honor is a noted horseman, and has been active, members say, in developing the Rolling Rock Hunt, one of the leading hunt clubs in the country today.

A WEDDING added to that very brief list of February events will take place late in the month. It is that of Miss Mary Louise McBride, niece of Mrs. Edwin Lewis Porter, of St. James street, and Homer Saint-Gaudens, of Pittsburgh and Cornish, N. Y., and will take place February 27 in Mrs. Porter's home. Only the two families will be present when the Rev. Dr. Hugh Thomson Kerr, pastor of the Shadyside Presbyterian Church, performs the ceremony.

* * *

AT this time of the year we are never without travelers. Miss Nell Stewart, of South Negley avenue; Mrs. Walter Chess, of Bennington avenue, and Mrs. Harry P. Pears, of South Highland avenue, will leave Saturday for Honolulu. They'll spend a month there, and then will go to California for another month.

Mrs. William M. McKelvy, of Fifth avenue, is spending the winter in Pasadena.

Miss Mary Lane and her sister, Miss Frances Lane, of Walnut street, are at Haddon Hall, Atlantic City, for the winter, have you heard?

Mrs. Frederick B. Utley, of St. James street, has been in New York for a few days.

A SMALL group of society women is interesting itself of late in the annual bridge the Margaret Morrison Carnegie College alumnae will give as a scholarship benefit on the afternoon of February 9 in the Hotel Schenley ballroom. Among these I might mention Mrs. William Watson Smith, Miss Mary B. Breed, Mrs. William McConway, Mrs. Francis J. Torrance, Mrs. George W. McCandless, Mrs. D. L. Gillespie, Mrs. Alexander J. Wurts, Mrs. John L. Porter, Mrs. John H. Reed, and Miss Mary Watson Greene, dean of women at the Carnegie Institute of Technology.

DOWN at Palm Beach one may see all the social leaders of the resort. At the first of a series of five concerts, arranged by the Society of Arts, given Monday evening by the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, Mrs. Henry R. Rea entertained a group of friends.

The John F. Harrisons had two boxes for their guests at the concert, I hear, and gave a dinner preceding the concert. Among their guests were noted the James Francis Burkes, who are spending the season there.

THE Nurses' Club of Pittsburgh will hold its annual card party tomorrow night in the Hotel Schenley. Miss Jane A. McQuade is chairman of the ways and means committee and Miss Fannie A. Diebler is treasurer for the affair. Some of those who have reserved tables are Mrs. W. H. R. Hilliard, Mrs. Maitland Alexander, Mrs. H. N. Van Voorhis, Mrs. George M. Laughlin, Jr., Mrs. Harmar D. Denny, Mrs. Harmar D. Denny, Jr., Mrs. George H. Clapp, Mrs. George S. Oliver, Mrs. James B. Oliver, Mrs. W. E. Shiras, Mrs. James W. Arrott, Miss Isabelle Chalfant, Mrs. William Watson Smith, Miss Eleanor McC. Chalfant, Mrs. W. C. Robinson and Mrs. Harry H. Willock.

The class of 1923 is in charge of this party. Miss Mary Aberle is sub-chairman, and the aides are Miss Bary Broderick, Miss Sara Connelly, Miss Loretta Egans, Miss Lillian Oliffe, Miss Ellen Loder and Mrs. Thomas Kelly.

Saving Habit

Character
by
A. W. Robertson

THE habit of saving money strengthens one's character and the money saved helps materially to make the individual prosperous and independent. The community is benefited by the savings of its citizens for many great businesses are largely owned by small investors. Thrift makes successful men and successful men make cities.

Mr. A. W. Robertson started life the son of poor parents. At 19 he found himself in Pittsburgh teaching small boys at school in order to earn enough to study law at night

Mr. Robertson is the new Chairman of the Board of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company. Before this he was President of the Philadelphia Company and affiliated Corporations.

What Mr. Robertson says about saving is not theory. It is knowledge drawn from experience.

The Union Savings Bank is giving you this series of editorials by business and professional leaders in Pittsburgh, convinced with Mr. Robertson that "the community is benefited by the savings of its citizens."

JELLY KING, CHILDREN, ELUDE MOTHER-IN-LAW

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—(INS.)—Orator Francis Woodward, multimillionaire jelly king, was in hiding today while detectives employed by his mother-in-law, Mrs. Mary A. Davis, of Fall River, Mass., were trying frantically to serve him with a habeas corpus writ for the custody of his two children.

Woodward "kidnaped" his children from his wife in Paris and yesterday succeeded in getting them safely through a cordon of detectives, who besieged the water front when he arrived here on the Ile de France.

The millionaire had been warned by radio of the presence of the detectives at the dock and while the sleuths scoured the ship for him he walked quietly down a crew gangplank and boarded a waiting limousine.

The habeas corpus writ was granted Mrs. Davis by Supreme Court Justice Levy on her plea that Woodward was unfit to care for his children.

Glassmere Boy Hit By Train Succumbs

GUARDSMEN IN KILLING FREE

ELMIRA, N. Y., Jan. 30.—(INS.)—Both Boatswain Frank L. Beck and Surfman Glen Jennings, coast guardsmen, charged with second degree manslaughter for the fatal shooting of Jacob D. Hanson, Buffalo Elks official, are free men today.

Jennings claimed his liberty, temporarily at least, when a jury in Judge John R. Hazel's court here failed to agree on a verdict after deliberating more than 20 hours. Beck was discharged by Judge Hazel yesterday for insufficient evidence.

Quick relief for COLDS since 1889

Won't go out to play

When healthy youngsters, usually full of mischief, suddenly lose their ambition to be engineers or policemen, they are probably full of cold germs. Loss of appetite, listlessness, or feverish condition, should put parents promptly on guard.

As a rapid-action weapon against colds, no remedy is better known than GROVE'S BROMO QUININE. Easy to take and mildly laxative, it rids the system of poisons caused by colds. The tonic properties keep vitality up.

Because grip, influenza, and other serious illnesses often begin with a cold, it is wise to obtain quick relief when any cold threatens. And equally wise, to make certain of getting the right remedy. So emphasize GROVE'S, when asking for GROVE'S BROMO QUININE. Price 30c.

Meditations of a Wife

These Modern Lovers

THERE is something lifeless about a modern man's love-making that reminds one of last week's scentless violets, just off the ce.

It is sad to reflect that there is a whole generation growing ip whose conception of architecture is a red filling station, whose iotion of "music" is a combination of a drum and a cowbell, and whose idea of "love" is a petting party in a rumble seat.

* * *

Nothing so annoys a man is to have a woman cheer him ip when he is enjoying the exquisite luxury of feeling "unappreciated."

When a man tells a woman hat he loves her for beauties of the intellect, it is usually because he thinks she is just stupid enough to believe it.

Seven thousand high school boys are taking cooking lessons. With the secret conviction, probably, that they were born to brighten a bachelor flat, and that no woman will ever reach their hearts by the old stomach route.

* * *

Nothing robs a man of his appetite for breakfast like the corpse of a dead romance between him and the woman across the table.

In these days of instantaneous petting, a man seldom spends enough time talking to a girl to discover whether the thing under her marcel is a brain or just something to separate her ears.

It is easier to keep half a dozen lovers guessing than to keep one lover after he has stopped guessing.

* * *

Most Young Moderns appear to regard marriage as a detour rom the path of pleasure and a traffic jam on the road to success.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Short Rest Periods Will Renew Energy.

NOT long ago I talked with a friend of mine in Washington. He told me a remarkable thing. This man has so trained himself that, any time he wills, he can shut his eyes and lapse into absolute unconsciousness.

This is almost an unheard of gift. It means everything to its possessor. No matter how trenuous may be his day, nor ow tumultuous his life, he can ive himself two minutes of absoute relaxation whenever he feels s need.

You and I may not be able to ain such control over our faculies as this. It is our own fault, owever, if we do not learn how to est.

The other day I talked to you bout diversion, a complete hange for a day or a week or nger. That is not the thing I am talking about now. What I want to impress on you now is that out of each and every 24 hours there should be at least 8 hours, and even 10 hours, of complete relaxation.

I have no patience with those strenuous people who say they can get along with four or five hours of sleep. They seem to think that unless you work 15 or 18 hours a day you are lazy. These smug individuals imagine themselves as tremendous producers because they spend twice as much time at work as the average man does. It is all nonsense. I venture to say that the average individual who applies himself conscientiously to his duties for six or eight hours a day will accomplish twice as much work in the long run as the man who works 14 or 15 hours every day.

The human brain and the human nervous system and the human heart and the human kidneys and the human stomach and the human muscles will not tolerate forever and ever the wicked strain of excessive hours of work.

Nature is exceedingly kind and long-suffering. Nature will accept an occasional period of overstrenuous effort. But it is just as sure as death and taxes that Nature will not continue to smile at the man or woman who foolishly and wickedly exhausts body and mind.

I beg of you to order your life in such a way as to have regular periods of relaxation. Even though you do not sleep, take the tension off your muscles and the strain off your mind.

Answers to Health Queries

I. F. Q.—How can I reduce? What will reduce the legs?

2.—Can superfluous hair be removed by other than the electric needle and must the work be done by a doctor?

A.—Restricting your diet in regard to sweets and starches and taking plenty of outdoor exercise should bring about results. Exercise such as brisk walking, dancing, skating, should all be helpful toward this end.

2.—This is the most satisfactory method of treatment. The work must be done by an expert in this particular line.

B. Q.—What is the cause and remedy for a coated tongue and bad breath?

A.—The combination of these two symptoms would seem to suggest that constipation is your trouble. Your diet should be corrected. Eat only simple foods, avoiding fats and starches as much as possible. Exercise is necessary.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Thursday, January 31

THE auguries for this day, according to the lunar mutations point to very active and satisfactory conditions. Business and finance should flourish, especially those occupations relating to writings, letters mail order promotion and publicity. Industry, labor and new projects should thrive, and also speculative enterprises, providing the inclination to extravagance be suppressed. It is a propitious time for renewing contracts.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a fortunate year, with all business moving in lively and gratifying grooves. It is a time for new contracts and launching new undertakings, but funds should be handled prudently.

A child born on this day may be talented, brilliant, industrious and ambitious. He should attain success and accumulate money which, however, he may be inclined to spend freely and exceed his income. He should be grounded in thrift.

The means that heav'n yields must be embraced, and not neglected.—Shakespeare.

FAVORITES! All three of them! And each peer of the realm over which they reign. The one is favorite of the sport of kings; his mistress, favorite in the court of love, and her faithful friend and pal, favorite in the aristocracy of Dogdom! And there you have a trio that's hard to beat!

But in the race which they are each running which is to be the winner? That's not hard, for Love always wins—no matter how crowded the field, nor how long the race. And another thing, one doesn't have to be favorite to win in Love's race. Sometimes the one you least expect comes down the stretch 'way ahead of the field of beauties and passes the post with flying colors.

Favorites—Love, horses and dogs! Symbols of faithfulness and comradeship; of the devotion that spells life-long service—and each comes under the wire, a winner!

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Written Invitations

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Would it be proper to send invitations in longhand for our anniversary? We really can't afford to have them printed. C.

IT is not only proper, but it would be in vastly better taste for you to write these invitations, rather than having them printed. Written invitations are always better than printed ones. Since probably your party will not be very formal, write the invitations as a letter—that would be best.

Visiting Cards

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Will you please be so kind as to tell me if my sister, whose husband died a few weeks ago, should have her visiting cards engraved Mrs. Mary Wilson or Mrs. Arthur B. Wilson? I am sure that I read in your column that the latter is correct, but my sister seems to think that I am mistaken. So I am troubling you to tell me. I have got so many helpful hints from your articles on correct manners. Thank you for them. M. P.

MRS. ARTHUR BILLINGS WILSON is the correct form. The widow uses the same formal name that she used when her husband was living, and, on a visiting card, it is better not to use abbreviations, except the necessary ones like Mrs. The middle name should be spelled or omitted. (And thank you for your kind words. Come again to my column).

Write the Note

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Would you be so kind as to tell me whether or not it is proper to send a card of good wishes and congratulations to a bride-to-be?

If so, should it be sent to her so that she will receive it on her wedding day using her maiden name, or should it be sent after the wedding?

I do not know the groom, nor do I intend to give the bride a wedding gift. R. H.

IT is very charming and friendly of you to write the bride-to-be a note of good wishes (not of "congratulations," for this word is reserved for the groom), and to send it to her, in her maiden name, of course, a few days before her marriage. She will be very happy to receive such a thoughtful letter, and it will be somewhat in the form of a wedding gift, a spiritual gift. Don't send a "ready-made" card—write a note.

Marion Is Enthused With the New Motor Car.

MARION MORTON is like her mother. She never does anything by halves. There was genuine enthusiasm for the new motor car and sincere appreciation of her stepfather's thought of her in both her voice and eyes as she told him she would love to travel down to her school in the new car.

The look in Harry Underwood's eyes as she finished her little speech was ludicrously like that seen in those of a collie that expects a scolding and receives friendly praise instead. But it was the expression in Lillian's face which suddenly constricted my throat muscles, for there was in it so much of adoration for her only child and passionate gratitude for the girl's sudden graciousness.

It was Dicky who broke the emotional tension of the moment—deliberately, I was sure, but with an air of irresponsible levity which was artistically convincing.

"May I remind this—gang—" he said, "that our handmaiden, Katie, will be waiting dinner for us at 8 o'clock, and that her temper as well as the dinner will be apt to spoil if we are not on time. So suppose we park the bouquets and start the car. Mary and Marion, you're the thinnest of the bunch, so you'd better pile in the front seat with old Harry, leaving the back space clear for the wider people—oh, comparatively only," he broke off with a mocking bow to Lillian and me.

For a second I wondered at the arrangement he had planned, for he also knows Marion's aversion to her stepfather. Then he gave me a secret little signal of our own, and I knew that he wished to say something to me which should be unheard by the two younger members of our party.

Lillian promptly caught his cue. "Chirp for yourself, Dicky-bird," she said with her gamin-like grin. "You're the roundest robin there is in this party."

"And this to much!" Dicky groaned, opening the rear door and helping her into the car. "Just for that you can sit over in the corner by yourself. I was going to have you next to me, but you can play gooseberry to me and my frau, now, you old—kitten, you. You can improve the time sharpening your claws, although Allah knows they don't need it."

He helped me in and took the seat next to me, while Mary and Marion were bestowing themselves in the front seat. I blessed Mary for her tact when she turned to Harry Underwood with a pleading little smile.

"Mayn't I sit next to you?" she asked. "Marion will have a long drive down to school, but I shan't have a chance again to watch you drive it, for I shall be so busy."

I saw a look of relief flash into Marion's eyes, and saw that though she had been prepared to sit next her stepfather, and act a friendly role, she was glad to be separated from him even so slightly.

"Of course you may sit next me," Mr. Underwood laughed. "I'm so flattered my ears are twitching. But this isn't the last time you're going to ride in this boat. I'll take both you girls out tomorrow morning and teach you row to run it. We'll get up early and run over and get learners' licenses for both of you."

"Oh—! oh!" Mary exclaimed ecstatically, and Marion dutifully chimed in with r : apparently fervent: "That will be wonderful!"

It was not until we were on the bridge with its attendant pandemonium that Dicky, under the pretense of showing me one of his illustrations in a magazine, leaned close to me and spoke in a tone inaudible to anyone but me.

"I've examined those books, and you'd better prepare to be jolted. Hold this magazine spread out this way until I get them out and show them to you."

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE

A BAND of troubadours make the rounds of the restaurants in the Hill district, volunteering their airs, but expectantly awaiting some small return from appreciative listeners. Their clothes are not of the latest cut nor of the best material. In fact, the stockings are out at the knees and the shoes are tied in a fashion poorly designed to hide the fact that the tongues long ago departed. There is a suspicion, too, that a part of the outfits have been inherited from elders and improvised to make a fit. There may be a cap on one; and none on another. The hair is black and the eyes are dark. The complexion completes the Latin type. Far back in the land that has produced musicians in miraculous profusion there were ancestors who are responsible for the artistic side of the roving serenaders of the Hill.

BEAT IT!
LET 'EM PLAY!

In some restaurants they are welcomed; from others they are banished with an impatient wave from a too prosaic proprietor. But encouraged or shown the door the small troubadours—none is older than 15—have a bearing and a dignity. For the ragged clothes and tousled hair are part of an important and great ensemble—the majesty of musical souls that make resplendent and picturesque the rags of want. On the night that a proprietor would have turned the inquiring juvenile eyes away no less than four customers shouted: "Let 'em play."

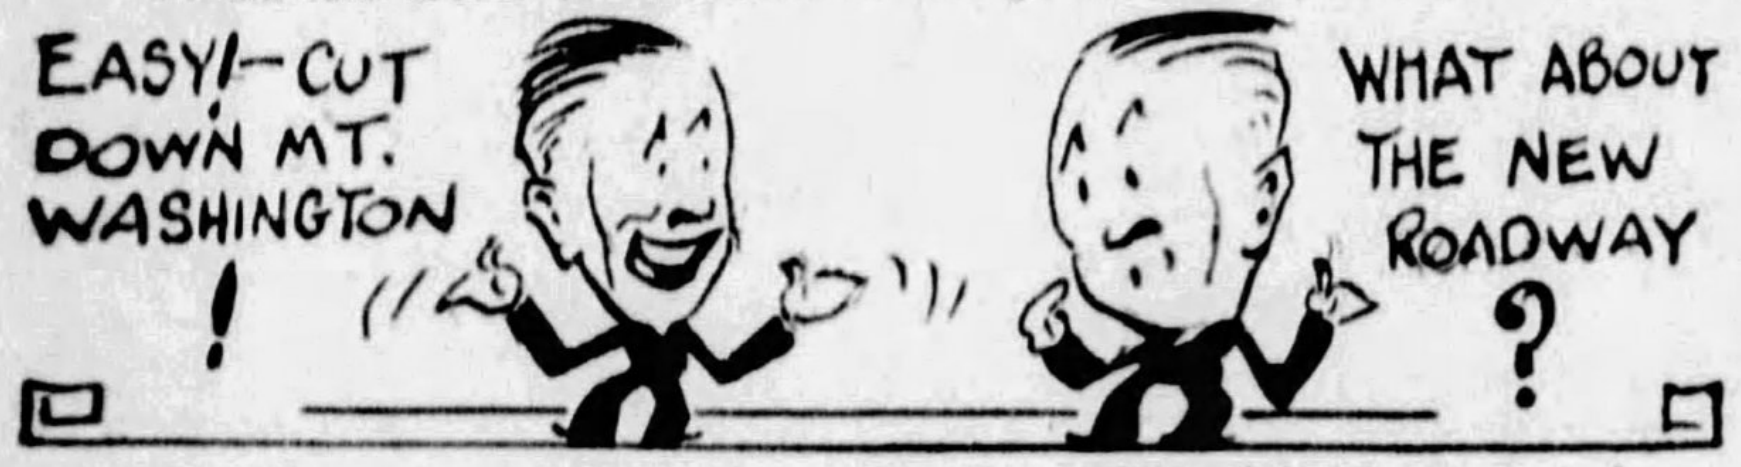
In the current campaign to rid Pittsburgh of what is described as smog—a combination of smoke and fog—one small suggestion that may solve the whole problem comes in. The fact that there may be some trouble in executing the plan should not deter the doctors in charge of the epidemic. The suggestion is to cut down and remove Mt. Washington and produce means for a draft to carry the fog and smoke away. Mt. Washington rsidents can hardly be blamed if they enter some slight objection to the novel plan.



EASY!—CUT DOWN MT. WASHINGTON!
WHAT ABOUT THE NEW ROADWAY?

WHEN the West Point boys were here recently to play the Pitt Panthers in basketball one of their number recited how the high hat is removed from boys just entering that great school. A noted athlete from another school entered West Point amid a fanfare of publicity over his exploits as a gridiron star. He was not in West Point very long until in the privacy of a certain room and in company of juniors and seniors he did a nightly recitation—reciting word for word a certain effusion about his ability. He was not a swelled-head to begin with and needless to say he was not the picture of vanity once through the course in deflation.

Loneliness and the river at night long have been associated in song and story, with a moon or so thrown in. Even a casual walk in the vicinity of a river at night flashes somber contrasts. Consider a boat, strung with lights, in a feeble effort to be gay in such lugubrious environment. Picture the inside of the boat with musicians who smile too long, dressed in evening clothes. A few tables find a few couples speaking low. A hotsy-totsy tune is blaring forth—and outside an old woman, with a shawl drawn close under her chin with one hand, is, with the other hand, fishing through a pile of refuse nearby. The old woman moves away as you approach her. That peculiar movement of her shoulders! Why she moved away like something that was being hunted.

And ole man river, out there, he hears the music and he sees the old woman, but he just keeps movin' on.

SMOKE ABATING REPORT MADE

R. H. Geiger, engineer of the Smoke Consumers' Corporation of America, has advised Council that about $2,000 would be required to equip Brilliant Pumping Station with a device for reducing the volume of smoke emitting from the plant. The cost of 1,000 cubic feet of gas hourly for fuel would be extra.

Geiger appeared before Council about two weeks' ago during a hearing granted to residents who were seeking methods of eliminating the smoke nuisance. He said his device would not only eliminate most of the smoke, but would increase fuel efficiency. He was asked to examine Brilliant Pumping Station, said to be a flagrant violator of the smoke regulation law, and recommended a remedy.

Council accepted his report and referred him to E. E. Lanpher, managing engineer of the Water Bureau, for permission to install the device.

Desertion is alleged in three divorce suits filed in Common Pleas Court, by North Side couples.

James McD. Spence, 309 West Lacock street, charges that Mrs. Katherin Spence deserted him February 15, 1922. They were married April 1, 1900.

Mrs. Anna Hellman, 837 Tripoli street, suing Wilbert Hellman, 43 Rostock street, says they were married April 30, 1924, and that he deserted her January 4, 1925.

M'KINLEY DAY DINNER HELD

The memory of President William McKinley was honored last night by 1,000 persons who attended the annual McKinley day dinner, held in the William Penn Hotel, under the auspices of the McKinley Commemoration Society. The dinner was the twenty-seventh annual gathering of the society. Count Ernesto Russo, attache of the Italian embassy in Washington, was the principal speaker.

Senator Max Leslie read resolutions on the death of E. H. Swindell, founder of the society, who died October 7. The guests stood with bowed heads for several minutes in tribute to Mr. Swindell. The speakers were introduced by County Commissioner E. V. Babcock, retiring president, who was toastmaster. Mr. Babcock received the medal of the society. The Rev. Dr. C. Wallace Petty, pastor of the First Baptist Church, also spoke.

The officers for the coming year were elected. They are: President, Fred W. McCullough; vice president, Edwin W. Smith, and secretary, A. E. P. Kerr.

SEWICKLEY NEWSBOYS FAVOR SUN-TELEGRAPH

The 18 boys employed by the Sewickley News Company, of which S. E. Woodward is manager, handle no other Pittsburgh evening or Sunday newspaper except the Sun-Telegraph, and desire to handle no other. They laugh at the idea that they should sell another paper for "protection."

The lads enjoy selling and delivering the Sun-Telegraph, and are satisfied with their wages. For an hour or two of work after school they receive on the average $2 to $3 a week. Some make more.

A canvass of the boys revealed that many have savings accounts in banks. Some help out at home by turning part of their earnings over to their mothers. Most pay for their own clothes, supply their own spending money.

Here are the names of some of the Sun-Telegraph boys in Sewickley who volunteered the information on which the statements are based:

Bank Teller Made Asst. Secy.-Treas.

John C. Morrison, for many years paying teller at the McKees Rocks Trust Company, was elected assistant secretary and treasurer at the annual meeting of that organization. It has been erroneously reported that he had been elected secretary and treasurer, a post filled by Harry A. Irwin.

Woman Journeyman Shows Pittsburgh's Plumbers How "to Fix It"

J. J. DONOVAN EDITH M. ELLIS

Mrs. Ellis proves herself a master plumber to Plumber Donovan by offering sage advice on a techinacl problem. She came here to attend the annual plumbing instructors' conference.

MRS. ELLIS PERFORMS A DELICATE SOLDERING JOB

Proving she is as adept at practical work with her own hands, Mrs. Ellis in Carnegie Tech's plumbing shop turns out a neat job of delicate lead soldering. A real journeyman!

WOMAN TRAINS PLUMBERS

Another time-honored vocation that seemed "woman-proof" has been invaded by the feminine sex. Plumbing is the vocation and the woman who is not only a licensed plumber, but a member of the Master Plumbers' Association of America and the owner and director of plumbing school, is Mrs. Edith M. Ellis, of Detroit.

Mrs. Ellis attended the first annual conference for plumbing and heating instructors, held jointly by the Department of Vocational Education of the University of Pittsburgh and the Department of Plumbing, Heating and Ventilating of the Carnegie Institute of Technology. She also attended last year's conference at "Tech"

Mrs. Ellis became interested in plumbing many years ago, when she worked in the office of the man who later became her husband. Together they ran shops in New York and Detroit. Frequently, she donned overalls and went out on plumbing jobs with her spouse. She figured on most of the jobs. In 1920, she and her husband conceived the idea of establishing a plumbing school.

J. P. and Constable Held for Extortion

Charged with extortion, Justice of the Peace P. J. Burke and his constable, Frank Kossen, of Library, were held for court yesterday by Alderman George Anderson. The two are accused of having attempted to "shake down" Alex Szalkay, of 5521 Second avenue, at a hearing last Friday night. County detectives who arrested the two men prosecuted the case yesterday.

AVALON MAN, BRIDGE FALL VICTIM, STRANGELY MISSING

Police of the North Boroughs reported today that no trace had been found of Walter Taylor, 40, who disappeared from his home, Cleveland and Florence avenues, Avalon, last Sunday.

Taylor was last seen in Watt avenue, according to police, Sunday forenoon. Members of his family, alarmed at his continued absence, asked that a search be made.

Last fall Taylor was found under the North Avalon bridge badly shaken up from a fall or leap from the lofty structure, police said. Brush broke his fall and he escaped serious injury. The missing man had recently moved into a new home. He has a wife and child.

When he disappeared, Taylor wore a blue suit, gray and black overcoat, tan shoes and tortoise shell rimmed glasses. He is 5 feet 8 inches tall and weighs 130 pounds and has blue eyes.

AGENTS SEIZE 5 IN SIX RAIDS

Making six raids, three in the city, two in Carnegie and one in Shaler Township, prohibition agents seized three stills and large quantities of moonshine and brew and made five arrests yesterday.

A saloon at 6299 Frankstown avenue yielded three barrels of beer, and T. E. Anderson, 42, was arrested, agents said. William Essey, 24, storekeeper, of 1414 Wylie avenue, was taken when moonshine was found in his place, the raiders reported. A 100-gallon still was seized in a raid on a dwelling at 1718 Merriman street, according to the agents.

Michael Oliver, 32, of 559 Ridge avenue, and Frank Kelek, 39, of 553 Ridge avenue, both of Carnegie, were arrested after stills were found in their homes, the raiders declared.

Use of Alcohol As Anaesthetic Successful

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Alcohol, applied by an intravenous injection, has been successfully used as an anaesthetic by Dr. Miguel Garcia. The doctor removed a kidney without the patient showing the least pain during an operation which lasted more than an hour.

Medical authorities said that the advantage of the use of alcohol was that it stimulated the functioning of the heart and that dangers attendant upon the administration of other anaesthetics were removed.

Dr. Garcia refused to sell his formula. He said he was content to place his discovery at the disposal of the medical fraternity for the benefit of mankind.

Man Beaten, Robbed, Left Lying in Street

Two armed men beat D. F. Harrison, of 1500 Fallowfield avenue, and robbed him of $30 and checks for $16.35 near his home last night. The highwayman left Harrison lying in the street and sped away in an automobile. Harrison, dazed, made his way home and notified Mt. Washington police, who scoured the neighborhood but found no trace of the bandits.

More than a half dozen pedestrians have been held up in the South Hills within the last week by two armed highwaymen.

CITY TO ACQUIRE FRICK PARK

Council has asked the Department of Public Works to report the date on which the city will get sole supervision of Frick Park.

The park was given to the city under the will of the late H. C. Frick and was to be maintained from the interest of a trust fund created at the time. Trustees of the fund have since supervised the park.

Council raised the question of city supervision at a meeting of the Finance Committee yesterday during consideration of an ordinance affecting park laborers.

The measure proposed would authorize the employment of "laborers as needed" instead of the former method of employing 20 laborers a year. Action was deferred pending receipt of the requested report.

Fire Damages Home Of Township Official

The home of Commissioner Howard Milard, of Stowe Township, was damaged last night by fire believed to have started from an overheated stove. Township volunteer firemen extinguished the blaze. The damage is estimated at $500.

CITY HOLDS UP "VACATION" PAY FOR SUMMER JOBS

Council has withheld action on providing the Department of Public Works with $7,061.06 to pay employes of asphalt plants for a two weeks' vacation.

Department heads explained the employes were denied a vacation during the summer because it was their busiest season, and accordingly they were granted leave when work was slack.

Examination of the list of prospective vacationists showed it contained mechanics receiving $10 and $12 a day who worked for the city only in season. Members of Council contended the vacation idea was intended as a reward for employes who worked an entire year. Mechanics, they said, were employed elsewhere during the off season and were considered as new temporary employes if they were hired for a subsequent season.

"It appears to be a question whether we are giving regular employes a vacation with pay or paying others for two weeks' time when there is no work to be done," declared P. J. McArdle.

Council called for the Civil Service Commission to furnish a list of employes to determine those eligible for a vacation and will later confer with Director Edward G. Lang, of the Department of Public Works, to determine a future policy.

Sees South Hills As Great Church Center

At a meeting of the Men's Club of St. Paul's Episcopal Church of Mt. Lebanon, Bishop Alexander Mann, of Pittsburgh, envisioned the importance of Mt. Lebanon with regard to future church activities by the leading denominations of the Pittsburgh district.

Bishop Mann believes that the spectacular growth of Mt. Lebanon during the last five years is destined to continue and that the township has before it many years of vigorous development. He believes that the community will attain a population undreamed of a few years ago and that, as a result of its inevitable growth into a great residential district, Mt. Lebanon will be the center of many new church developments and projects.

Hit by Doctor's Car, South Side Man Dies

George Wanick, 77, of 704 Mint way, South Side, died in the South Side Hospital several hours after he had been struck by an automobile at South Seventh and Carson streets last night. Dr. A. R. Marmins, of 3147 Ewart street, driver of the car, aided the victim and ordered his removal to the hospital, police say. Dr. Marmins, posted bond for an inquest.

POSTMASTER IS HELD IN THEFT

Everett E. McBride, 40, postmaster at Dravosburg, and a deacon in the First Christian Church of that place, was held for trial in Federal Court by a United States commissioner today charged with embezzling $3,344.18 of postal funds.

McBride was arrested in the Federal Building this morning after being summoned for questioning by postoffice inspectors.

Veterans of '98 Pay Tribute to McKinley

More than 500 veterans of the Spanish-American War attended a reunion last night held in the Hotel Schenley under the auspices of the Allegheny County Council, United Spanish War Veterans. Col. William L. Grayson, of Savannah, Ga., commander-in-chief of the veterans, was the guest of honor. He made a brief address and paid tribute to William McKinley, in whose memory the reunion was held. Judge Harry H. Rowand and President of Council James F. Malone also spoke, as did local officers of the organization.

Dances Aid Families Of 3 Firemen Killed

Benefit dances will be held next Tuesday and Wednesday in the Moose Temple, McKees Rocks, for the benefit of the families of three Stowe township volunteer firemen who were fatally injured when their fire truck plunged off Windgap road, December 26, while en route to a fire in Heidelberg. The dances are being held under the joint auspices of the McKees Rocks Moose Lodge and the Stowe Township Fire Department.

The Crawley Robbery

By Evelyn Johnson and Gretta Palmer

AT three in the afternoon the snow that had been falling steadily for several hours appeared to be stopping. Tommy Gallagher swung his cab into the main street of town and headed toward the Leighton National Bank with a reasonable expectation of picking up one final fare before finishing the day's work.

As he neared the banking institution an unimpressive little man carrying a newspaper and a small package emerged from the doorway, and hailed the approaching taxi with a wave of the newspaper. Beside him was a slight woman of indeterminate age and coloring. They gave an address a good two miles away, on the very outskirts of town, and in precisely the opposite direction from Tommy's own ultimate destination. Tommy spat expressively. "Rotten roads, long drive, come back light, and a dime tip. I know 'em!" Tommy considered seriously the advantages of joining the police force like his brother Patrick. Pat got free drinks, anyhow.

Behind him the couple for whom he felt such a lively scorn were in a far more cheerful frame of mind. During the halt necessitated by the passing of a railroad train even the harassed driver was forced to smile as his lady passenger undertook to describe to her spouse the elaborate garment which she planned to wear to a party that evening:

"'. . . with a bouffant skirt of honey-colored taffeta, Henry, and a bodice of natural colored lace. That's to set off grandmother's emeralds."

"All right, Mary," said her husband indulgently. "Here, you better take them now and put them in your bag. Don't want to forget them in the taxi, Mrs. Crawley. Here, take 'em and be careful of 'em."

"I certainly will, and remind me to phone the drug store before I go upstairs. I have to have those curlers by the time I've had a bath." Just then the gates lifted, and they went on.

THE car ultimately drew up before a neat suburban villa such as one would have expected. The snow had ceased, and a thoughtful Negro was languidly sweeping the last of it from the 10-foot brick walk that led to the front door. As he had anticipated, Tommy Gallagher's tip was in strict accordance with the budget system by which the Crawleys had regulated their lives for the last decade.

Tommy stopped to light a cigaret and glance over the house. Then he started back to town and headed for his brother's apartment. Patrick would be there with that quart of Rye that he received every week as honorarium from the bootlegger on the beat.

Mrs. Crawley's preparations before the dinner they were attending that night were somewhat more elaborate than one might expect from her unassuming appearance. Her charms were of the mousy order, not calculated to set off emeralds to advantage, and the honey-colored taffeta seemed to reduce her to the single tone of an albino carrot. None the less she commenced to dress a good two hours before the time that they planned to leave, and at 6:30, when the telephone rang, she was by no means ready.

Mr. Crawley, who was downstairs at the time, answered the call, and heard a man's voice ask for Mrs. Crawley. He called upstairs to her, and presently she appeared in a mouse-colored dressing gown, and came down fervently hoping that no unexpected contingency had arisen which might interfere with the plans of the evening.

BY the time that she reached the telephone, however, the gentleman had either been disconnected or had grown tired of waiting, for she received no response. She replaced the receiver and planned to wait a few moments before returning upstairs on the chance that it would ring again. As she stood a moment undetermined, there was a low knocking at the front door.

Mrs. Crawley stepped into the library as her husband answered it. She heard soft voices for a moment, and soon he appeared, several shades paler than her poudre blanche had rendered his wife.

"It's a policeman, Mary," he gasped. "He just saw a man climb up a ladder and go in a window upstairs."

"The emeralds!" she exclaimed. "On the dresser"

They re-entered the hall together and stood, rapt in horror, while the intrepid Irishman tried to reassure them in hoarse whispers. They remained huddled at the foot of the stairs while he mounted cautiously with drawn revolver. They heard him move about, and utter a hoarse command.

After a few breathless minutes their champion reappeared and descended the stairs in great haste. Brushing past them, he exclaimed, "He got down the ladder! I'll get him!" and, tearing open the door, rushed off into the night.

AFTER their terror had somewhat abated and a brief search had shown the emeralds to be missing, Mrs. Crawley gave herself over to the fit of hysterics that she considered her due, and her husband, assuming the role of audacious male, ventured forth to see what could be seen from outdoors.

He found the ladder which had been lying along the side of the house to be propped up against it in such a manner as to give access to the window of his wife's room. Likewise he found footprints in the snow leading to where the ladder had been and to the base of it as it stood, and leading away from it again toward the road.

Mr. Crawley was surprised to notice, however, that the footprints leading away from the base of the ladder, which had evidently been made after the burglar had been disturbed, had been made by a man who was walking and not running. A burglar who is disturbed at work will most certainly run, Mr. Crawley knew, and he was frankly puzzled.

Mr. Crawley called the police station.

A LARGE sergeant whose countenance had achieved an unbelievably high degree of polish and color, came and took their testimony. Of course, Mrs. Crawley had the emeralds when she got home. Didn't she put them on the dresser? Yes; she hadn't been out of the room after she took them out of her handbag. They were not insured. There was no one in the house except George, the "butler," and they'd had him 10 years. She had been downstairs probably three minutes when the other officer came. She didn't remember what he looked like except that he had a big black mustache.

Mr. Crawley did not make the best witness imaginable, as the officer began his examination by suggesting that Mr. Crawley was probably an inveterate gambler and drunkard who had taken his wife's emeralds to procure the means to satisfy his vices. Mr. C. waxed indignant. He brought to the attention of the law's noble representative that he had been right at his wife's side all the time she had been on the ground floor. She had answered the telephone in the library where he was reading, had started upstairs, and had stepped back into the library when the door bell rang. He had let the policeman in, and in the excitement, she had forgotten her natural modesty and had stood with him at the foot of the stairs while the policeman had rushed up only to find the burglar gone. He was most likely tracking down the culprit while the sergeant stood around asking idiotic questions of honest householders. No, he had not noticed his number. There was no other entrance to the house except the back door. The sergeant could see for himself that there were no tracks at all from the back door. He didn't see why it was necessary to make insinuations about George, who was certainly far more trustworthy than policemen. They had no garage, so when Mr. Crawley had borrowed Mr. Jeliffe's ladder to fix some weatherstripping, he had left it by the house. No, he did not think that was a foolish thing to do. Anyone was likely to leave a ladder around for a little while.

GEORGE was hardly more illuminating. He certainly did not go around catching his death propping ladders up against windows in the dead of winter. Anyhow, his Sarah wouldn't like them old green stones. The sergeant could see for himself that George's feet were built on more distinctive and massive lines than the footprints on the lawn. The sergeant was disgruntled. Then he had a bright idea. He had the operator trace the call that Mrs. Crawley had answered. He came back smiling at Mr. Crawley in disagreeable triumph. "I guess you won't see them jools again," he observed. "That phone call was from the cigar store at the corner here."

Solution of Yesterday's Mystery Story: "Mr. Southeby's Great Day"

AS soon as the poker game was over, Moody hurried to the radio room and obtained a long piece of wire. He ran down to Griggs' cabin and tied a handkerchief to the open port-hole so that he could identify it from above. He next took the wire up to the promenade deck and tied it to the outside of the rail so that it would hang down beside the fluttering handkerchief. If any one had found these curious objects his plans would have been balked, but there was little chance of his name being connected with them.

He waited for Griggs to lurch drunkenly into his cabin, and then followed him, being careful that he was not seen by any passerby. He stabbed Griggs and drew in the dangling wire and twisted it around the arm of the couch. When he went out, he locked the door behind him, taking the key, and was able to return to the promenade deck without being seen. Here he untied his wire from the rail, slid the key down it into the cabin, where it slipped off to the floor, and then threw the wire into the sea. He had overlooked the gun which made the authorities reject the idea of suicide.

"My dear, I can't BEAR it because the most POSitively WEIRD INcidence transpired JUST as we'd got GOing on this divine CRUISE in Mr. WEALTHington's great YACHT, my dear! ACtually, it was too HECtic because one saLUbrious MORN while MOTHer and I were SPRAWling VAGUEly in our DECK chairs and I was READing atTENtively and thinking how simply MARvellous it was to get aWAY from that POISonous round of PARties back HOME and parTICularly those obNOXious PIPsqueaks ARab and NOIsy and PHWHEN and BULL, Daddy suddenly appeared and began making WISEcracks about playing a round of GULF in the GULF stream, and, my dear, whenEVer Daddy starts PUNning, something TRAgic ALways deVELops—I mean I've NEVer known it to FAIL! Well, ANYways, my dear, sure eNOUGH the FIRST thing I KNEW Mr. WEALTHington, looking FRIGHTfully anNOYED, came LEAPing UP grasping PHWHEN and BULL in either HAND, my dear—can you COPE with it? HONestly, my dear, I was PRACticably ready to ROLL over and BUTter myself with disMAY because I was THORoughly SUNK, no less, but ANYways it seems the odd souls had STOWED aWAY in a LIFEboat or something! Wouldn't you KNOW something like that would transpire? GOSH, I'm simply LIVid about the situation and I think it would REALly serve them RIGHT if Mr. WEALTHington made them ROW HOME at this point, my dear—I mean I ACtually DO!"

NANCY DEANE

CHAPTER XXI.

NANCY was as nervous as a witch on the morning of the day on which she was to make her first appearance as a model. Once when Miss Crosby called her, sharply, she jumped and dropped a box of pens, which went scattering across the floor.

"For Pity's sake," Harriet cried, "what are you so fidgety about? Your mind certainly isn't in this office."

Nancy didn't deny it. She would have said something sharp but thought better of it. There was no use in irritating Harriet, she thought. Besides, ever since her resolve to be more of a vamp, Harriet had actually been a trifle more likeable.

The effect of a little rouge, and a new kind of hair cut seemed to have had their effect. She even asked Nancy to go to lunch with her one day; all during the lunch hour she had done her best to get Nancy to tell just what led up to Wescott's love making that day.

Nancy told nothing, not even when Harriet, affecting the softest tone, giggling even, asked Nancy point blank:

"Aren't you crazy about Mr. Wescott?"

"No, I'm not," Nancy lied.

A week ago it wouldn't have been so much of a lie as it was today; three days ago even, it wouldn't have been so much of a lie as it was today. For Nancy, despite all the warnings of Wescott's kind by Ginger, despite Vic's threats that he would "knock the big bum for a row of ash cans," if he caught him "getting fresh" with Nancy; despite the whisperings of her own conscience, Nancy was becoming more and more infatuated with her handsome employer.

In every breath she took, in every word she said, she feared that she was revealing her feelings toward the dark eyed man who took what he wanted in this world, letting consequences go hang. Buying his way in and out of things, places, hearts. At least that was what Ginger and Vic seemed to think, but Nancy couldn't see that he was anything but a true gentleman. "He takes what he wants, maybe it's true," she had told herself a hundred times the last few days. "Well, what of it? Don't other people take what they want, too? As for his making love to me, hasn't Vic himself tried to do that? Why does Vic think that Howard Wescott is any different than he is himself?"

Men were a puzzle to Nancy. She was just wise enough to remind herself that if they were, it might be because she had had so little experience with them. There was Darry, to be sure. Poor Darry, the bane of Mrs. O'Day's life, stubborn and shiftless, but with a rigid idea of right and wrong, especially so far as girls were concerned.

Of course Nancy had come in contact with traveling men, loiterers, students, tramps, even, in her young lifetime, but so far as men falling in love with her, wanting to hold her, to smother her with kisses—that was a different matter, and one in which she had to admit no experience.

"Of course you know Mr. Wescott has had affair after affair," Harriet continued. "There are several society girls in town absolutely mad about him. There's one girl I know who used to call him continually, inviting him here and there, throwing herself at him, actually. You'd be surprised if you knew who she is, too. She's one of the most prominent girls on the gold coast."

"No, I wouldn't know who she is," Nancy had answered.

She tried to get off the subject. To tell the truth, when Harriet insisted upon telling about all the girls and women pursuing Wescott she suffered little pangs of jealousy. It wasn't a pleasant sensation and she was half afraid Harriet might suspect.

"You've heard, of course, about the affair with the South American woman?"

"Please, Miss Crosby," Nancy said, with a trace of impatience. "I don't know a thing about Mr. Wescott and his love affairs and I really don't want to know about them. I'd rather talk about something else."

After that Harriet never mentioned the subject. Nancy, herself, took every precaution against a repetition of the scene Harriet had witnessed. When she was called into the inner office she always swung the mahogany doors wide open, so it would stay that way. Twice she had declined to go out in the evening with Wescott, and only once did she let him drive her home from work. She managed always to have an excuse when he asked her to get into his car.

How she hated to lie, how she longed to do just what she was prompted to do, to accept his invitations to drive, to dance. She longed to have him take her in his arms and waltz—waltz away into a blue heaven. How she yearned to get into his car, to have him drive her into the country, for miles and miles, the cool wind rushing into her face, her arm through his. Each night thoughts like this went dancing through her head as she tried to go to sleep.

Even when she was dancing with Vic Flemming she closed her eyes and imagined he was Howard Wescott. Whatever else Vic was, he was a wonderful dancer, and it took no great effort to imagine he was another with whom she was gliding over the floor.

Now, tonight, she was going to get into his car, and he was going to drive. He might even let her take the wheel of his powerful car. He had offered to do so before.

Tonight he was going to motor her to McKeesport, where she was going to make her debut as a model. Tonight she would have $15, money earned for a few hours' work for Ziegelbaum, and that $15 was going to be mailed to Mud and Darry in a hurry.

How she longed to earn lots of money so she might shower it on the two old people who had fought for her.

"I must never, never do anything to bring disgrace upon the two old dears," she had resolved many times. But the sights she was seeing, the temptations put in her path, made Nancy tremble. She was not so young or inexperienced that her own common sense didn't tell her things about some of the girls she had already met.

The frank recital of their lives by some of the models imported from other cities was a revelation to Nancy.

"Please, God, keep me straight. Don't let me ever hurt my Mud and Darry," she had prayed.

She had a habit of making up her own little prayers at times because she felt that sometimes there were special things she wanted to ask God, special favors, special strength, never mentioned in the little black and gold prayer book that Mud and Darry had given her when she was confirmed a few years before.

"To Nancy O'Day from her mother and father," was written on the flyleaf, in Mrs. O'Day's trembling hand. Nancy always kept that little book on her dressing table. How funny it seemed, in the face of what she knew about her real parents now, to see those words—"from her mother and father," on the flyleaf.

"No, they may not be my real mother and father, flesh and blood, but in God's eyes they are," she assured herself.

Tonight she was going to start earning money for these parents of hers. She had written them saying she had been "invited" to "walk across the stage in the prettiest dress, just to show it off, you know," softening the real truth of her modeling engagement as much as she could. She had written, too, that she had met a "lovely girl" with whom she was rooming, and she wrote pages about her new job.

"How hard it is to tell the real truth," Nancy said to Ginger one night, "it's so easy to make things sound as they aren't, and yet what one writes isn't exactly a lie, either."

"Yes?" said Ginger, only half listening. She was too absorbed in her "Revealing Tales" magazine to even look up.

Everything was fixed certainly, for a good start now. As she stooped over to pick up all the pens and clips she had spilled when Harriet Crosby had called her name so sharply, it came over Nancy how nicely she had soothed Vic Flemming when he started to make objections to Howard Wescott's driving her to the opening style revue.

She had simply made another of her "declarations of independence" and had made it with such fire, that Vic had to smile a little, and when he smiled, Ginger and Jerry laughed, and when they laughed, Vic had to laugh, too.

Ginger, used to handling men, and more jealous men than Vic, had acted the diplomat too, coming in with just the right word at the right time, with the result that Vic, reluctant though he was, consented to mind his own business on the opening night. He promised to forget Howard Wescott if on Friday night he could drive Nancy to the second of the style revues.

"But that guy will try to make love to you. I know his kind," he had protested.

"Silly," Nancy had said.

"He's not going to make love to any poor little clerk like me when he can make love to lots of beautiful girls in his own class," Nancy told Vic.

"Goodness, I don't care the snap of my little finger for a man of his type. Anyhow, I've never seen him when he wasn't wrapped in his business affairs. He's as severe and cold as can be in the office. He just heard Harriet Crosby and me talking about my doing some modeling, and when I asked him if I might be excused a little early, he very generously offered to drive me up because he was going on a business trip up north."

Whew! What a fib that was!

In the telling, Ginger stood back of Vic, straight in line with Nancy's eyes, and as Nancy told the story, looking at them both, not moving an eyelash, Ginger's face was a study. She had rolled her eyes heavenward as if to say:

"Girl, you're learning!"

Why Nancy did this she couldn't have told herself. After Vic had gone she was ashamed of herself.

One thing she noticed with relief. Though Vic and Howard Wescott had been hauled away by the police from The Golden Pheasant, Vic didn't seem to have any desire for a further encounter with Wescott. Evidently he was man enough to regard his own fists as sufficient weapon to fight his battles, and he wasn't going to resort to anything underhand to get revenge.

He had even gone so far as to say that Wescott acted like a "regular guy" at the police station, and that he didn't have anything particularly against him, only that he wanted Wescott to leave "my girls" alone.

Of course Harriet Crosby didn't know a thing about Nancy's adventure or that Howard Wescott was going to drive her to McKeesport late that afternoon. When Wescott came in, just after lunch, and went into his own office, Nancy managed to make an excuse to get through the door marked "private" so she could ask him not to make any reference to it before his secretary.

"Hello there," he said, as she entered, "getting nervous?"

"I only wanted to say, Mr. Wescott, to ask—that is—if you'll please be careful not to let Miss Crosby know I'm doing this or that you are going to drive me up there. I'm afraid—well, I'm afraid that she might take it in the wrong light. She's such a peculiar girl."

Howard Wescott laughed.

"So?" he said, puckering his lips.

He had risen and started walking toward Nancy. She backed up, put her hand on the knob, opened the door, ever so little, but just enough so that anyone in the outer office could hear what was going on.

"You little vixen," he said between his teeth.

Then aloud, and quite aloud:

"Miss O'Day, will you please get started on that errand immediately? Be sure to wait for the papers, even though Harrison isn't in. I'm sure that he will be back some time this afternoon."

Nancy opened the door a little wider. Wescott blew her a kiss. His black eyes were shining, measuring the golden-headed little figure at the door, protecting herself from him, simply by opening it the least bit wider. His eyes went from her head to her feet, from her feet to her head. He turned, threw a silver paper knife he had been holding onto the glass-topped desk. It rattled and slithered across and onto the floor.

"Little devil!" he said.

Try to Solve Mystery; Prize Story on Saturday

HERE'S the BIG IDEA! Each day the Sun-Telegraph will print a mystery story. Each story has a plausible and more or less exact solution which may be worked out from the situations and clues in the story. The authors have written a correct solution to each mystery. Readers of the Sun-Telegraph who pride themselves on their analytical sense or detective ability should figure out their own solutions and match them with the correct solutions which will be printed on the day following the publication of each baffling mystery.

On SATURDAY in the Saturday editions of the Sun-Telegraph there will be printed an original story by the same authors, the solution of which is in a sealed envelope. The person or persons who solve or come closest to correctly solving the Saturday, or PRIZE STORY, will receive cash prizes as follows:

FIRST PRIZE.....$10
Three Prizes of $5 EACH for the next three.

Contestants for the PRIZE STORY AWARD will have from Saturday morning, the first publication of the PRIZE story, until the following THURSDAY night at 6 o'clock, to send in their solutions. Letters postmarked after that time cannot be accepted, as judges must be able to render their decision on the prize winners in time to make the following Saturday's editions, when the correct solution of the first PRIZE story is printed with a second PRIZE story for you folks to tackle. In giving your solutions you must write several lines telling why you reached your conclusions and justifying your deductions. The decision of the judges is final and without appeal. Put on your disguise and tin badge and see what happened in the mystery printed today. Prizes will be paid only on the Saturday Prize stories.

Notes and Views of Hollywood Activities and News About Theaters

SLIM ACTRESSES PREFERRED IN HOLLYWOOD SO STAR REDUCES

By DOROTHY HERZOG.

(Copyright, 1929, by Premier Syndicate)

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 30.

PRODUCERS prefer slim actresses— histrionically speaking, of course. The result is those inclined to avoirdupois have had to sacrifice epicurean desires to lamb chops and salads. Some of 'em sacrificed their health in the bargain. Now there's a "doctor of exercise" established within easy reach of the colony and it's his job to exercise it off or on as the case may be. Lya De Putti is down to an astonishing 95 pounds. The athletic instructor is showing her how to cover the bones without going droopy. Lionel Barrymore also goes to him. Ditto Daphne Pollard and others. 'Tis quite the fad these crisp days.

Virginia Valli

Beach pajamas are noisier than ever this year. Virginia Valli, when not in the water at Malibou Beach, lounges upon the sand before her cottage in a three-piece pajama suit of vivid red and white polka-dots. The jumper has a sailor tie and the coat is three-quarter length. For variance, she replaces the polka-dot coat with one of heavier material, a corded silk with a white background upon which scarlet ships are printed.

Ted Wilde In Hospital

WHEN the big fracas was shaking Europe, Ted Wilde was among those to don uniform and contribute his bit. He received a load of shrapnel in his foot. During the rush of caring for the injured, evidently, not all the shrapnel was removed from Ted's foot. Years trailed past, and Wilde returned to Hollywood and resumed his directorial job. His injured foot pained him from time to time, but he managed to survive. Then he started to work on Harold Lloyd's current komedy. It was shortly after this that his foot refused to be ignored longer. Ted asked to be removed from the megaphone. And was, Mal St. Clair assuming the job. Ted went to the hospital. The doctor removed his tonsils but did nothing to his foot. In a few days, however, the medico will perform this operation. Ted is married and has an adorable little daughter.

Esther Ralston, well-known movie heroine, examines a unique knife holder from the African hills. The knife was brought from Africa by the director of "The Four Feathers."

No Millions Awaiting Mix

A YEAR or so ago, it might be quaint to recall, Tom Mix and Gloria Swanson received million dollar offers from producers when it was learned they were free agents. Today Tom has completed his contract. No million bucks came forth to lure him. The same holds true of every star. The talkies sure have put their three meals square on a sane basis.

Agnes Christine Johnston, the scenario writer, asks the following flicker riddles. Can you answer them?

1—What actor has a French numeral name?

2—What girl star is a regular bird?

Are You Ready When your Children Cry for It

Baby has little upsets at times. All your care cannot prevent them. But you can be prepared. Then you can do what any experienced nurse would do—what most physicians would tell you to do—give a few drops of plain Castoria. No sooner done than Baby is soothed; relief is just a matter of moments. Yet you have eased your child without use of a single doubtful drug; Castoria is vegetable. So it's safe to use as often as an infant has any little pain you cannot pat away. And it's always ready for the crueler pangs of colic, or constipation, or diarrhea; effective, too, for older children. Twenty-five million bottles were bought last year.

REVUE, FILM, VARIETY BILLS

The Messrs. Shubert have combined the casts originally planned for two revues into "Pleasure Bound," which will be seen in the Alvin for one week, beginning Monday night, February 4, playing the usual matinees Wednesday and Saturday. The best scenes of the two revues have been placed in "Pleasure Bound," making it the largest and most elaborate revue ever undertaken by the Shuberts, it is said. The sale of seats opens tomorrow morning.

Karyl Norman, famous on the stages of the world, as "The Creole Fashion Plate," will present "Types," aided by Floy Franz and Nela Burke, as the two-a-day Keith-Albee-Orpheum headliner in the Davis next week. Jack Benny will act as master of ceremonies for the entire Davis bill.

No professional actor appears in "The End of St. Petersburg," historical film of the Russian revolution, which is to be presented by Arthur Hammerstein in the Nixon for one week only, beginning Monday matinee, February 4, with matinees daily. Director Padowkin recruited his entire cast from soldiers, workmen and peasants. Seats go on sale Thursday.

Judge Says Aimee's Gift Surprised Him

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 30.—(AP)—The $2,500 "love offering" check from Aimee Semple Mcpherson and her Angelus Temple came a surprise to him, Superior Judge Carlos S. Hardy told a state legislature investigating committee here.

"I never considered I gave them any legal advice or acted in any way as a lawyer," he declared.

New Small Biplane Tested in Germany

DARMSTADT, Germany, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—The polytechnic aviation section yesterday tested a new biplane which, although fitted with an unusually small motor, attained a speed of 120 miles an hour and rose 3,300 feet in three minutes. The machine weighs 600 pounds, its wing span is 22 feet and its flying radius with two occupants and baggage is said to be 300 miles.

Star in New York Does Shopping For Daddy

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—What the well-dressed man should wear will be displayed in Hollywood by the father of Alberta Vaughn—that is, if Alberta has her way. Mr. Vaughn doesn't know it yet, but he is destined to become the Jimmy Walker of Hollywood, sartorially speaking. Alberta has laid plans with that objective in view, and there seems little doubt of success.

The first thing that impressed Alberta when she arrived in New York recently to make talking sequences for the picture, "Molly And Me," was the tailored elegance of mankind on Manhattan. It was her first visit.

Before starting back to the coast, Alberta went on an extensive shopping tour. She purchased socks, handkerchiefs, shirts and ties in color symphonies becoming to Daddy Vaughn. Then she bought a mallaca walking-stick, spats, yellow gloves and a derby hat. She picked up a scarf in a Fifth avenue haberdashery that exactly matched her Daddy's eyes. An overcoat or two, and cuff-links for every occasion completed the layette.

PITT FLYER TO SEEK WORLD MARKS.

PETE BOWEN University of Pittsburgh flyer, has his heart set on the shattering of two world records during the coming outdoor and indoor running season. Pete holds the tri-state marks for the century, furlong and the quarter-mile. In the latter event, he raced in close to world record time out at Schenley Oval last June on the occasion of the annual A. M. A. championships. He beat a crack field of quarter milers, which included Bill Butler, Geneva College Negro star, and was clocked at 47 4-7 seconds. To make this feat all the more remarkable, Bowen ran the 100 on the same day in 10 seconds flat, with two of the five watches that were on him catching him at 9 4-5.

Pete Bowen

Bowen, a hard worker and a runner with the heart of a lion, is determined to equal, if not shatter, the world mark for 440 yards.

In previous years he experienced strange mishaps, which caused him to blow some fine opportunity or other of winning a high rating in American sprinting. Illness or injuries ruined his prospects in 1928, and 1927 a strained back muscle spoiling his chance of making the U. S. Olympic team last summer.

PETE qualified for the semi-finals at Philadelphia on July 2, turning in the second best time of the 440-meter run of the six preliminary heats. On the morning of July 4, he was in bed when the telephone rang, and as he reached over to answer, he strained or jerked a back muscle in some way, with the result that it snapped out of place and incidentally snapped Bowen out of the semi-final competition.

Bowen will attack the outdoor quarter-mile mark in the I. C. A. A. A. A. meet this year, at the Big Four Carnival in Morgantown, W. Va., and in the annual A. M. A. event here. He will set out for the indoor record on the boards of the new West Virginia University Field House in Morgantown, March 2, when Pitt and the Mountaineers clash in an indoor meet.

THE Pitt star has tremendous natural speed and great power. He is strong, weighing close to 178 pounds, and runs in splendid form, said to be superior even to that of his tutor, Frank Shea, present Pitt track coach, who ran one of the fastest quarter miles on record in this country.

Bowen was unbeaten in local competition last year, though he did not run in any collegiate events.

Honus Wagner

HONUS WAGNER declares the lively ball isn't the only advantage that present-day batsmen in the major leagues hold over the hitters of two decades ago. Another item pointed out by him is that the pitching isn't so good. "In the majors today you'll find a good pitcher here and there," he says, "but go back to the period from 1902 to 1910 and you'll be in an era when a batter had to go out and swing against great pitching practically every day. Hit .300 against the pitchers of those days and you could hit .400 against the pitching of today. Why, Mathewson, for instance, knew more in five minutes about batters than the modern pitcher knows in a whole season. He had a fast ball, a slow ball, a great curve, a drop, the fadeaway and the best control I ever saw. He would never give you a ball in the spot where he knew you could hit.

"NONE of your players of today gives enough study to the art of running bases, either," continued Honus. "All that they know about base-stealing is what they read about how it was done by Max Carey, Ty Cobb and Eddie Collins. I used to know the foot movement and arm movement of every pitcher in our league.

"And it is the pitcher who prevents base-stealing or makes it possible. The catcher has no more to do with it than the baseman who takes his throw. It all depends upon the pitcher, and with Matty on the mound the hardest task in the game was to steal a base. He used the same motion for every delivery except one. He threw all his stuff with an easy overhand motion, swinging his arm a little to the side when he was at the top of his pitch.

"BUT with his drop ball, Matty used a full overhand motion, bringing his arm close to his body, and turning on his right foot a little to get the necessary twist for a drop. This loss of a tenth of a second in the midst of his delivery was all the start I needed.

"I guess I stole as many bases off Matty as I did against any of the others, much to the surprise of John McGraw. The Giant manager was amazed when I told him years later how I had done it. John thought that trick motion was known only to Mathewson, the Giant catchers and himself.

Edouard Horemans

EDOUARD HOREMANS, of Belgium, world 18.2 balkline billiard champion, who has returned to this country to defend his title in the big tournament that will open in New York next Monday night, agrees that Willie Hoppe in the statement that though the three-cushion style of billiards is more spectacular than balkline, it is not nearly so intricate. "Hoppe is right," said Horemans. "Balkline appears simple, but it is the greatest of all billiard games. Three-cushion is attractive largely because it is spectacular."

ASKED if he thought Hoppe had gone back, Horemans replied, "Decidedly not. If anything, he has improved. Some time ago I looked up the record of Hoppe's averages in the tournaments wherein he won the championship. I found that he averaged 125 to 127 points and won the title. When he played with Schaefer he averaged 136, yet Jake defeated him and he lost the title.

This would tend to show that Hoppe has not gone back. He has improved, like many others. I know that I play much better billiards now than I did when I first came here. This is due to my playing under American conditions for several months each year. The same can be said of Eric Hagenlacher. He, too, has improved very much."

HERE'S a strange coincidence. While an amendment to the Pennsylvania boxing law is being proposed with the idea of taking amateur boxing out of the control of the State Athletic Commission, a bill has been introduced in the New York State Assembly to take amateur boxing away from the Metropolitan Association of the A. A. U. and place it under the jurisdiction of the New York State Athletic Commission, a course directly opposite.

Oliver High remained at the head of Group 2 when it scored a 29-21 victory over Langley. Allegheny Vocational kept up its losing streak by dropping its seventh contest to Perry, 40 to 16, while Allegheny took the measure of South Hills, 32 to 18, in a one-sided game.

GREENLEAF BEATS HOPPE

Sandorfy Seeks Injunction to Stay Comish

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Jan. 30.—Petition for an injunction to prevent the state police or members of the State Boxing Commission from interfering with the program of amateur bouts scheduled for tonight in Uniontown, was filed this morning by attorneys for the Al Sands Athletic Club.

A show put on by the Sands club two weeks ago was stopped by state troopers and this move is taken as a protection for the local club.

BASQUE MEETS CHRISTNER FEB. 23

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Paulino Uzcudun, Basque heavyweight, has signed to meet Meyer (K. O.) Christner at Madison Square Garden, February 23.

Paulino had balked over terms offered him for the match, but signed when Tom McArdle, Garden matchmaker, threatened to match Christner with the winner of the Max Schmeling-Johnny Risko battle here Friday night.

With the signing of Paulino and Christner, Madison Square Garden has revealed plans for six heavyweight elimination battles during the coming year. The windup, under present plans, will come in September, with Jack Dempsey in his old role of gladiator rather than promoter.

The Garden's plans, as outlined by Col. John S. Hammond, acting general manager of the corporation, are:

Paulino-Christner, February 22; winner to meet Tom Heeney.

Max Schmeling-Johnny Risko, February 1, winner to meet survivor of Heeney and Paulino or Christner battle.

Survivor of these matches to clash with the winner of the Jack Sharkey-Young Stribling bout in Miami Beach, February 27.

Now all the Garden has to do is to make arrangements for this ambitious program.

Breed Tops Fownes In Pinehurst Play

PINEHURST, N. C., Jan. 30.—William C. Fownes, Jr., of Oakmont, failed to go out in better than 45 in the first round of the twenty-fifth annual St. Valentines' tournament here yesterday and was beaten by R. J. Breed, of Salem, Mass., 4 and 3.

In the second division, J. B. Blackburn, of Oakmont, defeated W. H. B Ward, of Hartsville, O., by default. Lawrence Barr, of Pittsburgh, lost to C. G. Burd, of Montclair, by 6 and 5.

A. P. Dysart, of Pittsburgh won in the third division from J. T. Newton, of New York, by 3 and 2. While W. J. Flemming, of Pittsburgh, lost a close 2-and-1 decision to C. C. French, of Brooklyn, by 1-up.

KILLILEA'S DAUGHTER MAY RUN BALL CLUB

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 30.—A pretty Milwaukee miss, still in her twenties, may be the next boss of the Milwaukee American Association baseball team. Florence Killilea, daughter of Henry J. Killilea, owner of the Brewers who died recently, and now secretary of the club, according to latest reports, will take her father's place as president.

Miss Killilea would be no novice in the position, having acquire a complete baseball education from her father, who was for years chief counsel of the American league and one of Ban Johnson's principal aides in forming the junior circuit.

Miss Killilea would be the second woman actually to operate an important baseball club, the other being Mrs. Schuyler P. Britton, who after the death of her husband, served as president of the St. Louis Cardinals in 1916. Mrs. James Dunn became owner of the Cleveland club on the death of her husband some years ago, and Mrs. Jack Dunn of the Baltimore club when Dunn died last year, but both turned the direction over to men.

FRANK SUTTON TELLS REAL RICKARD-JOHNSON STORY

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor.

UPON the death, recently, of Tex Rickard a great flood of biographical matter concerning the prince of promoters was unloosed on an unsuspecting and defenseless public from various sources. Most of it was of a romantic nature and tended to picture Tex in the light of a hero all along the path.

Much of it concerned his early days, and was culled from newspaper clippings of those times and faulty memories, and there was considerable that was incorrect in the narratives. For instance, no two of the writers of the articles were agreed on what happened when Rickard came to Pittsburgh to sign Jack Johnson for his bout with Jim Jeffries, Tex's second promotorial effort, at Reno, Nev., in 1910.

In order to set the record straight on at least this chapter of the promoter's career, the writer sought out the one man in Pittsburgh who would be certain to know the details. He is Frank Sutton, a pal of Johnson for a quarter of a century, a former boxer himself and for years a hotel keeper in Wylie avenue, just off Sixth avenue.

JOHNSON'S TRUSTED FRIEND

Sutton today is a white-haired, soft-spoken, dignified colored man in his late fifties. He is a man of mellow memories of a sport he loves. He dates back to the days of George Dixon, Joe Gans, Joe Walcott, Jack Blackburn, Young Peter Jackson, Bobby Dobbs, Jack Johnson and

Penn's Freshmen Limited to One Sport

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 30.—(INS.)—With the start of the second semester February 11 University of Pennsylvania athletic coaches have decided no freshman may indulge in more than one sport except in extraordinary cases and no upper classman may compete in more than two sports except in special cases. Thus in the future the winning of three letters will be very rare.

The changes are the most radical ever to be proposed at the university. A special board of directors consisting of the coaches of the major sports has been appointed to hear the petitions of all students who may wish to compete in more sports than the rules permit. The proposals, it is believed, will make for better class room work.

DUKES NOSE OUT ST. FRANCIS BY 32-30

By JESS CARVER

Seeking revenge for a defeat suffered here in Pittsburgh some three weeks ago, on January 8, to be exact, Geneva College's Covenanters will grapple with the Carnegie Tech Skibos on the Covenanter floor at Beaver Falls tonight.

That January 8 defeat was the only one of the season for the Genevians and the first victory since 1927 for Tech. That the Tartans should have broken their fast-becoming-famous losing streak at the expense of Geneva simply goes to show that there is no justice, or that three aces won't always win. It proves something or other which we will not bother to go into now, for it is almost time for luncheon and we are practically starved.

At any rate, the Covenanters have been hitting along on all five ever since. Duquesne, Westminster and Thiel have fallen by the wayside. From all appearances, there are several other clubs who will follow in the footsteps of this trio. Geneva has a smart, well-drilled club, stronger defensively than any other team in the district and sporting a clever defense, designed to get baskets in the surest and easiest manner.

Carnegie, following a good showing against Pitt last Wednesday, slid back into the rut and was soundly trounced by Westminster, Friday. The Tartans seem to be the kind of a ball club that goes well one night and terrible the next. If that is true, they are in for a good night, tonight, which may make the contest interesting. Geneva, however, rules a heavy favorite.

Tony Paulsey, of whom much is expected, will break into the Geneva lineup tonight for the first time, he having only recently become eligible for varsity competition.

Benny Leonard's hockey Pirates, idle since last Saturday, when they absorbed a 2-0 drubbing at Montreal, will exercise well-rested muscles at Duquesne Garden today. Manager Odie Cleghorn has decreed that the Bucs shall spend one hour tuning up for their battle with the Montreal puckmen here Saturday night, and another practice session is to be held tomorrow evening.

And not all of the exercise will be of the physical variety. Pilot Odie, who does the master minding for the local sextet, is sporting a couple new wrinkles in his brow as a result of his trying to figure out a way to break big Nels Stewart of his scoring habit. Nels accounted for three of the Maroons' foul goals when they handed the Pirates a 4-2 setback here on New Year's night, and the Montreal giant is no favorite here. The pain which he brought to both Pittsburgh players and Pittsburgh fans was very severe, and Cleghorn is doing his best to avert further suffering.

Although the Bucs downed the Maroons in their first engagement, the Montrealites made off with the decision in the next two games, and the Pirates need a triumph Saturday to even the season series. Moreover, only 17 games remain on the Pittsburgh schedule, and if the Bucs are to get into a money and play-off berth they must start traveling in that direction without further delay.

Court Upholds Aschman's Appeal

WASHINGTON, Pa., Jan. 30.—Carl Aschman, of Charleroi, captain of the Washington and Jefferson College football eleven last season, won his appeal from a conviction before Alderman A. N. Jenkins, of Monongahela, on a reckless driving charge made by a highway patrolman. Aschman was arrested last October while returning to school here.

In a dense fog, Aschman's car sideswiped the machine of Albert Brown of Monongahela. After sustaining Aschman's appeal, Judge Erwin Cummins ordered the costs placed on the county.

Elmer Layden, Director of Athletics and head football coach at Duquesne University, will be one of the honor guests and speakers at a big smoker and entertainment to be given tonight by McKeesport Council, No. 995, Knights of Columbus, in the auditorium of the council's building at Fifth avenue and Huey street, McKeesport.

CURLEY OGDEN SIGNS

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—(INS.)—With the receipt of the signed contract of Curley Ogden, the New York Giants have only one pitcher unsigned—Garland (Kewpie) Buckeye, 240-pound southpaw. EAST LIBERTY Y. PASSERS MEET KINGSLEY TONIGHT

By JULIUS LEVIN.

EAST LIBERTY Y. M. C. A., one full game behind the Young Men's Hebrew Association in the second round of the Greater Pittsburgh Institutional League schedule, will attempt to get back in the running for the championship tonight when it meets Fred Yetter's Kingsley House passers on the Kingsley floor.

Coach Dalton Williams of the East Liberty passers was far from pleased with the showing of his charges in last Saturday's game with the Y. M. H. A. quintet and has staged several long workouts in an effort to eradicate the mistakes that cropped out in that important battle. Followers of the Institutional League likely will find the East Liberty five in a scrappy mood tonight as another defeat virtually will eliminate it from the second-round fight.

Young Men's Hebrew Association and Kingsley House, deadlocked for first place at the conclusion of the first round of play in the Greater Pittsburgh Institutional League, have selected Monday, February 11, as the date for the playoff to determine the winner of the title. The game will be played on the One Hundred and Seventy-sixth Field Artillery Armory floor.

The reserve teams of the two institutions will clash in the preliminary game.

GOLDENSONS VS. RELIANCE

The Goldensons, of the South Side, favorites to win the second-half championship of the Allegheny County League, must win from Reliance Life at Columbus Temple tonight to stay in the running for the title.

The Duquesne Lafayettes broke a deadlock for first place by nosing out the Reliance quintet Monday, the victory enabling the Lafayettes to take undisputed possession of the top position. A win for the Goldensons, however, will enable the South Siders to again deadlock the leaders.

Although the Goldensons take the floor against Reliance a slight favorite, the South Siders are taking nothing for granted. Moon Klinzing and his mates are reported determined to show their best form.

The second half of the Homestead District League, one of the best professional circuits ever organized in this section, has been set back a week. Tonight at the Homestead Elks Temple, Jenkins meets the Conroys and the Lawrys play the Conleys.

The first half of the schedule eclipsed all expectations of the league's sponsors and judging by the interest created the second round should be every bit as good if not better. This league includes in its rosters the outstanding players of the Allegheny County and P. & O. Leagues and as a result fans in the Milltown have been treated to some excellent attractions.

MANGANS MEET ALUMNI

The South Side Mangans will open their second-half Pittsburgh & Ohio Valley League schedule tonight when they entertain the crack McKeesport Alumni passers at the South Side Market House.

The Mangans stayed in the running for the first-half crown up until the final game of the schedule, this in spite of the fact that they got off to a miserable start.

The Mangans are without the least doubt one of the strongest teams enrolled in the circuit and they hope to establish this fact before the second half of the season is brought to a close.

The Mangans realize they are going up against a tough opponent in the Tube City aggregation and they will send their strongest lineup on the floor tonight.

Swartz, is offered as an amendment to the Walker law, under which professional boxing and wrestling are conducted. It goes so far as to affect the movements of New York amateur boxers even outside their own state, as it provides that no New York amateur shall compete in any state or national tournament without first obtaining permission from the New York State Athletic Commission. The bill also provides that the limit of rounds be extended from three to six, but that no boxer be permitted to engage in more than one bout in one day.

George Moriarty

SOME of the latest baseball figures compiled in a resume of the 1928 season show one reason why George Moriarty failed as a manegr in Detroit and had to go back to umpiring. The statistics reveal that Moriarty could not make the Tigers absorb a system of play that would keep their run-getting average up to their hitting standard. Many base hits appear to have been wasted. Look at these differences: Detroit batted .279 against a mark of .277 for it opponents, and Detroit made 1,476 hits against 1,462 for its opponents, BUT—Detroit scored only 774 runs against 804 for its opponents. There's the answer. The Jungaleers evidently were what John McGraw calls a three-hits-to-a-run club. Runs, not hits, win ball games.

ball game here last night, and today, are looking forward with more or less trepidation to the Bethany contest, Saturday. St. Francis went down with colors flying on the Bluff before just a fair crowd, 32-to-30.

The Saints, under the capable coaching of Wild Bill Donohoe, former Carnegie Tech gridiron star, played a steady brand of basketball for three-fourths of the time, but they went into a coma for a few minutes after the second-half started, lost the lead and were never able thereafter to pull out in front.

Towards the close of the game, one Billetdeaux, who sported one less hair on his coco than is to be found on the proverbial billiard ball, uncorked two dazzling field goals that put the Saints within two points of the locals. This hairless person played a very consistent game. Van Vum, who's name sounds like it might have been used to christen the hair tonic that Mr. Billetdeaux needs, was the high scorer of the night, tossing in 15 points. The Saints led 15-14, at half time.

Ben Lubic with 14 points starred for the Dukes, while His Honor, Ganzy Benedict, displayed more pep and dash that has all season. The lineup:

other great Negro fighters, all of whom he called his friends and all of whom were glad to call him a friend. For years he has been mine host to the leading lights of his race. Bert Williams, the actor; Johnson, George Godfrey and others have stopped at his hotel.

It was Sutton who was Johnson's trusted friend in those dangerous days in California and Reno just before the Jeffries fight, when race feeling was running high and all sorts of pressure was brought to bear to insure victory for Jeffries and the white race, and it was Sutton who was made Li'l Artha's confidant in all matters involving the signing of the match. So much for Sutton's close friendship with Johnson.

Among the disputed points in the stories about Rickard's maneuvering in Pittsburgh when he came here to sign Johnson is one which has it that Rickard first won over Mrs. Johnson to his side by buying her a fur coat priced at $75, a lot of money in those days, and thus swinging her influence in his favor when it came to the bidding for Johnson's services.

SUTTON TELLS STORY

Let Johnson's friend, Sutton, tell, in his own words, what really happened.

"Johnson was playing at the Gayety Theater here that week," Sutton said, "and, on Wednesday, Jack Gleason, Rickard's partner in promoting the fight, came to town and informed him that Tex would be here the next day and to keep his coming a secret and not dicker with anybody else until he had seen Rickard.

"Johnson agreed and the next morning Rickard arrived in Pittsburgh, on his way through from the Coast to New York, and headed straight for this hotel. He kept away from the sporting element which in those days hung around John Newell's hotel in Fifth avenue and might be calculated to throw a wrench into his plans if they knew he was here to see Johnson about signing.

"We held a meeting in a room on the third floor of this hotel. There were only five of us in the conference, Rickard, Johnson, George Little, Johnson's manager; Mrs. Duryea (she was not yet Mrs. Johnson then) and myself. Rickard bought all of the wine and Johnson settled the bill for the food. As I recollect it, we consumed 17 pints of wine during the proceedings.

"Mrs. Duryea had with her a fur coat that was worth $1,000 if it was worth a dime, so you can see how silly that story of Rickard buying her a $75 coat really is. Johnson had something like $62,000, having just knocked out Stanley Ketchel and won a lot of money on the fight. He had about $5,000 or $8,000 in his pockets when he was talking to Rickard, and that was more than Tex himself had. Rickard, however, produced a draft on a New York bank for $101,000, his bid for the fight. Aside from this, he had the remainder of $1,000 which he had as expense money when he left the Coast. I know this because Johnson tried to get him to put up 12,500 in cash to bind the match and Tex told him he would take care of that out of the $101,000 when he got to New York.

JACK STALLS OFF TEX

"Johnson was eager for the match with Jeffries and he liked Tex, but he doubted Rickard's ability to sign Jeffries. That was why he asked for the $2,500 deposit. He thought Tex would fall down on the Jeffries end and would lose the forfeit. He also doubted Rickard's ability to pull off the fight in California and the pair talked of Reno, which eventually became the site when the governor of California barred the match from his state. As a matter of fact, I am inclined to think that Rickard all along was planning to stage the bout in Reno, for he had lumber delivered there before he did in California.

"Johnson was just as cagy as Rickard, and perhaps more so. Throughout their conference in my hotel, he kept stalling Tex, pretending he didn't think Tex could handle the show, or, more particularly, line up Jeffries. They finally wound up by agreeing to meet in New York early the next week, which they did. Rickard's bid won the fight and it went through. When Tex left Pittsburgh for New York on the evening of the day of his arrival here, Johnson told me he had been just kidding Tex about that $2,500 forfeit business. 'I want that match and I want it bad,' he told me. 'I'll give Rickard $2,500 if he can sign Jeffries. And, Frank, if that match goes through, just think of all the money we'll have, all we'll do, what a time we'll have!'"

Johnson's confidence in his friend, Sutton, was not misplaced. Frank proved true blue when he turned down an offer of $20,000 from a representative of a gambling syndicate to "take care of Johnson" before he entered the ring. He found out later that $25,000 had been put up, but the intermediary had held out $5,000.

GAMBLERS THWARTED

Sutton easily could have been the means of defeating Johnson. He was in charge of preparing Johnson's meals in camp and took every precaution. He bought the food personally and cooked it himself. No one aside from Johnson and Sutton knew when Johnson was going to eat or what he was going to eat. The plan of the gamblers was to have the champion doped so he would prove an easy victim for Jeff. It will be remembered that after the fight the Jeffries camp set up a claim that the Big Fellow himself had been doped.

Sutton tells of a syndicate that sent $300,000 to Chicago to bet on Jeffries, provided it could get word from Johnson that everything would be "all right." Johnson wouldn't play ball with them, and the money went back home, and shortly afterward the fight was ordered out of California.

(This interview with Frank Sutton relating to the Jeffries-Johnson fight and Tex Rickard's connection with it will be concluded in tomorrow's issue.)

PENNSY FAIR ASSN. MEETS

With President Harry White, of Indiana, presiding, the Pennsylvania State Association of County Fairs opened an all-day session at the Fort Pitt Hotel at 10 o'clock this morning. The forenoon was given over to the appointment of a nominating committee and the reading of the reports of the various county fair associations.

When the meeting was resumed early this afternoon the officials and delegates officially were welcomed by Harry W. Neely, director of the Chamber of Commerce. The report of the secretary, J. F. Seidmonridge, of Lancaster, then was heard and other officials delivered addresses.

The Keystone Short Ship Circuit is to hold its meeting at the Fort Pitt at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning, and the Coal, Oil and Iron Circuit will meet two hours later. R. B. Keck, of Clairton, is president of the latter circuit.

BOSTON, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—James R. Price, 60, secretary of the Boston Red Sox, committed suicide on a runway at Fenway Park here yesterday by slashing his throat with a razor.

Medical Examiner Timothy Leary found a letter in the pocket of Price's coat addressed to his wife and explaining the reasons for his act. The secretary was believed to have been despondent over ill health for some time. Only 10 minutes before he killed himself, he complained to office associates that his heart bothered him. Medical Examiner Leary did not reveal the contents of the note to Mrs. Price.

LOCAL BOOTERS TO BATTLE CLEVELANDERS SATURDAY

By TOM BIRKS.

ONE of the biggest soccer attractions of the season will be flashed in Pittsburgh on Saturday at Homewood playgrounds, when the Pittsburgh Soccer Club meets the Cleveland Spartas in the third round of the national amateur cup.

And seeing that the Pittsburgh club turned down quite an attractive offer to travel to the Buckeye State, the fans should turn out to back the efforts of the local management to bring to the Steel City the best soccer teams in the country.

SPARTA STRONG

There is no question regarding the ability of the Forest City team. Cleveland soccerites lost little time informing the writer that Sparta is a wonderful club and that Pittsburgh will have to get its best lineup out of the bag to stay in the tourney.

Homewood playgrounds, with its spacious stands, is a good venue to stage this battle, and it is expected that the crowd that watched Heidelberg defeat La Flamme in the final of the national amateur cup at the Westinghouse Stadium will be outnumbered when the teams are lined up for the battle.

While Sparta will be paying its first visit to Pittsburgh, the personnel of the team is known to local soccer men. Sparta has beaten the Magyars twice this season, and this alone tags the visitors as a dangerous outfit.

GOOD LOCAL LINEUP

Hennigan, the Tube City player, will be in the local lineup and his presence should help the goal-scoring ability of the other men. The Blue and White has a good middle line in McNair, Behling and Toman. Schang and Miller are playing good defensive soccer and the peerless Bobby Boyle will be in goal.

Galley will probably partner Hennigan with Trysull, Evans leading the line. Evans is the best goal-scoring center forward in the district at this time. The left wing is expected to be McGinn and Secane. This is a good team to uphold Pittsburgh against the Buckeye invasion. The kickoff is scheduled for 2:30 p. m.

North Side Smoker Is Big Success

More than 900 employes of the Equitable Gas Company attended the smoker staged under the auspices of the company's employes' association at the Manchester auditorium last night. Among the guests were Councilmen James F. Malone and John S. Herron.

The program opened with a wrestling match between L. Auslander, or McKeesport, and A. Jones. They grappled to a draw. Cuddy DeMarco boxed four rounds with two North Side boys, Mike Hogan and Joe Desnoff; Jack Zivic met Jack Unglo in a four-round exhibition, Pete Zivic went three fast rounds with Ray McCall, Max Ziff fought three rounds with Gene Prieffer, and Irish Gorgas went the same distance with Tarzan Joe Poole.

Johnny Dunn, of New Kensington, and Joe Elrene, of the North Side, will be the principals in the six-round semi-final of Promoter Francis Flynn's revamped boxing card in the Moose Temple Friday night. U. S. Carpentier, of New Kensington, and Battling Gizzy, of Donora, will box the windup of 10 rounds, taking the place of Cuddy DeMarco and Harry Felix. Felix withdrew from the match yesterday because of an attack of influenza.

DeMarco arranged to box Larry Brignolia at Erie Friday night immediately upon receipt of word that the local bout was off.

Sammy Paris, of the Hill, has been matched with Paul Kesner, of Cumberland, for the opening bout at the Moose Club. Max Ziff, local light-heavyweight, will meet a worthy opponent in the second number.

Tommy Crawley, of the South Side, would have been Gizzy's opponent at the Moose Temple but for the fact that he had his mouth cut on the inside in his battle with Joe Boychan at Steubenville Monday night, which he won by a knockout.

CARD COMPLETE

The card has been completed for the boxing show at McKeesport tomorrow night with the signing of Harry Hileman, of Donora, to box Young Angelo, of Swissvale, in the six-round opening bout. Midget Mike O'Dowd, of Columbus, meets Howard Mayberry, of Donora, in the 10-round main bout. Buck McTiernan boxes Allen Beatty in the semi-final, and George Kerston and Lee Sala are paired for the second bout.

Johnny Carey, of Erie, and Young Saylor, of Charleroi, will furnish the eight-round main bout of a show at the Washington (Pa.) Gardens next Monday night. Teddy Welch, of McKeesport, and Tiger Joe Randall, of Clairton, will box the semi-final. Tommy Hileman, of Donora, is matched with Jimmy Gennett, of Youngstown. Joe Ribnickey will meet Pete Zelson and Scotty Graham will oppose Nat Lifkin.

PALS IN GRUDGE FIGHT

My Sullivan and Billy Light, former pals, will box in a grudge fight at St. Paul, February 15.

Armando Santiago, who knocked out Joey Sangor and then was stopped by Tony Canzoneri, boxes Tony Herrera in the semi-final to the Canzoneri-Sangor bout at the Coliseum in Chicago next Wednesday night.

Johnny Warner, Joe Orsini and Eddie Hebner have been selected to represent Pittsburgh in inter-city amateur bouts at Buffalo Saturday night. All represent the Clairton Athletic Club.

Honey Boy Finnegan and Gaston Lecadre, of France, have been matched for the Arena in Philadelphia next Monday night. Johnny Dundee, former featherweight and junior lightweight champion, will appear in the semi-windup against Tony Ascencio, of Spain. Vidal Gregorio, of Spain, and Milton Cohen, of New York, will box another 10-rounder.

Industries Catering to Speed; Demand Prospering

By B. C. FORBES

THERE is money in motion, in speedy motion.

Industries catering to our modern love of movement are prospering.

We want rapid transportation, rapid communication, quick action. Motor-making can be classed as America's fastest-growing and most prosperous industry during recent years. Automobiles appeal to us because they gratify this innate craving for getting there in a hurry. Only high-priced cars used to be built for great speed. But within the last two or three years the most enterprising of manufacturers of medium-priced and low-priced cars have discerned the trend of the times and have stressed the power of their cars to go better than 60 miles an hour.

Perhaps the advent of the automobile may have been responsible for fanning the present-day state of mind in regard to motion.

WHAT is the fundamental reason underlying the now notable expansion of the aircraft industry? Is it not this same human desire to be transported from one spot to another in the least time possible? Rarely is the claim put forth by airplane makers that that mode of travel is safer or more comfortable than older modes of travel. The one advantage featured is its speed. And all indications are that flying will increase phenomenally during the next few years.

WE ALL know how popular every form of travel has become. More individuals and families than ever before now take trips to Europe. Cruises of all kinds, from those lasting a few days and costing only a few dollars to de luxe round-the-world voyages lasting six months, or longer, have multiplied amazingly, revealing that they are attracting thousands where formerly they attracted only hundreds or scores. Passenger steamship lines have also multiplied between this country and pleasure resorts, including Hawaii on the Pacific and Bermuda, Cuba, Porto Rico, etc., on the Atlantic.

Think, too, of all the hotel building which has been going on in play spots all over the country and also in other countries. To stay at home the year round is now called old-fashioned.

THE telephone has become so much a part of everyday American life largely because it satisfies our love of quick action. In other countries the people are content for the most part to write letters; very rarely do they use either telephone or the telegram. Letter-writing has become too slow for modern Americans.

IF THE popularity of motion pictures in this country could be thoroughly analyzed, one explanation doubtless would be found to lie in this same craving for fast action. Do not alert producers, in fact, often advertise that their latest product is full of action, full of speed, full of zip, full of go? Lantern slides have gone entirely out of date; they lack the speed qualities of motion pictures.

Similarly, an analysis of the whyfor and wherefor of the vogue enjoyed by jazz would likewise lead to this trait in the make-up of the American of the Twentieth Century.

NOR is it certain that the craze for stock speculation is wholly unrelated to this theme. One constantly hears remarks to the effect that the stock market has been fascinating during the last year or two because it has given quick action. Most people who bought securities in the old days tried to select issues which would behave staidly; their dominating desire was for safety and stability.

How many want only safety and stability today? Far more frankly declare they buy stocks in the hope of seeing them rise quickly and sharply. Stocks that rarely move are avoided. Those which fluctuate spectacularly allure speculators as a flame attracts moths.

THE unprecedented growth in the use of electricity, in labor-saving machinery, in power-driven farm implements, in automatic vending all are more or less identified with our craving for speedy action.

PERHAPS there is a thought in this for ambitious young men looking for a career and for business concerns in various lines.

THE PRODUCE MARKET

Movement of fruit and vegetables today at the local wholesale produce district was rather slow. All fruit and vegetables were sold at about unchanged quotations.

The poultry market was weak, with the demand poor, supplies liberal and quotations unchanged.

The cheese market was steady. Butter and eggs were firm. No change was made in the quotations.

Car lot supplies were liberal, a total of 627 cars being on track. Arrivals included 12 cars of apples, 3 cabbage, 3 celery, 1 grapes, 2 onions, 1 peppers, 19 potatoes, 2 strawberries, 1 tomatoes and 2 carrots.

STEEL TRADE IMPROVES

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—The Iron Age says: Expanding demand from the railroads, increasing pressure for automobile steel and a sharp gain in structural awards have strengthened the position of steel producers as January draws to a close.

Improvement in railroad buying is of particular interest. To a steel trade that has become accustomed in recent years to regard restricted purchases of rolling stock as a normal condition, the addition, in one week, of 12,000 freight cars to the pending list is impressive. Orders for 110,000 tons of rails following the placing of 73,000 tons in the previous fortnight, also are reassuring.

Motor car output is still characterized by irregularity, but demand for automobile steel is taxing the capacity of body sheet mills and supporting a high rate of operations among makers of strip steel and alloy steel bars. Production of flat rolled products in the Mahoning Valley established a new January record.

Price developments are inconsistent. Some makers of cold rolled strip have advanced quotations $2 a ton to 2.95c a pound, Pittsburgh or Cleveland, and a corresponding increase in fender stock puts No. 20 gage up to 4.35c and No. 22 gage to 4.50c. Large rivets have been marked up $4 a ton, to $3.10 per 100 pounds, Pittsburgh and Cleveland. Steel ingot output is holding at between 85 and 90 per cent, with no indications of declining.

The Iron Age composite price for pig iron has declined from $18.42 to $18.38 a ton. The finished steel composite is unchanged at 2.391c.

STOCK MARKET UNSETTLED AS CASH RISES

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—The stock market was extremely unsettled today as call money rose to 8 per cent, the highest since the middle of the month. A score of important issues lost about 2 to 6 points, but strong favorites continued in the rallies, lifting several to new high levels.

Call money opened at 7 and was lifted to 8 early in the afternoon. Calling of loans was slight, but replacement of funds was scarce. The peak of the month-end money strain is not expected until tomorrow, and although the banks are in fairly good positions at the Federal Reserve Bank they appeared reluctant to increase their borrowings to support the market. Fears of 10 per cent money tomorrow became pronounced.

Other unsettling factors were the selling of U. S. Steel which yielded 3 points, by holders who were disappointed that no extra dividend was declared yesterday, and uneasiness over the possibility tomorrow of an increase in the Bank of England's 4½ per cent rate to stop the flow of gold to New York.

The day's business news was largely favorable, but failed to strengthen the market. "Iron Trade Review" described the month as "undoubtedly the best January in the history of the iron and steel industry from the standpoint of production."

Iron Age was more conservative, saying that expanding demands for railroad, automobile and structural steel had "strengthened the industry as January draws to a close." Liggett & Myers declared an extra dividend of $1 on the common and "B" stocks.

North American Company and American Telephone rose about 6 points each to new peaks, but irregularity cropped out in the utility division, as some commission houses warned their customers that the advance in this group seemed to be proceeding at a rather too rapid pace. Consolidated Gas and Western Union lost 2 and 3 points.

[illegible]rnational Silver mounted 13½ [illegible] Jewel Tea, Montgomery [illegible] Burroughs, Warner Brothers [illegible] Solvents 3 to 5 [illegible] Po[illegible] & Myers "B" lost nearly [illegible] and Seaboard Oil 5, while In[illegible] Refining, Canadian Pacific, National Bellas Hess, Electric Auto Lite, International Harvester, Chrysler, Westinghouse Electric, Canadian Pacific and Johns Manville were among issues receding 2 to 4 points.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Price movements were confused in comparatively heavy trading on the curb market today, reflecting uneasiness over the credit situation. A few utilities recovered some of yesterday's lost ground, while others continued to sag. Buying was selective in the industrial list, with one or two favorites making wide gains. Mining shares showed some improvement.

General Electric of England, with a turnover of around 100,000 shares in the first two hours, was one of the strong features, advancing more than a point to new high ground above 18. Checker Cab continued to gain, adding 5 points to cross 78 for a new top. Deere broke 8 points to 618, then rallied to 625. Fox Theatres, Marconi International, Westvaco and Niles Bement Pond yielded to selling pressure.

Utilities were irregular. Electric Bond and Share was pressed down 2½ points to 247 and then moved above 249. United Gas Improvement sold above 192 and then broke about 2 points. General Public Service soared 7 points to a new high at 41, but lost most of its gain, and American Gas and Electric shot up 15 points to 165 and then declined 5.

Newmont and Noranda were among the firmer mining issues. Oils continued to sag on reports of increased production, Vacuum losing 3 points.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

FIREPROOFING PREFERRED SPURTS IN TRADING HERE

National Fireproofing preferred led the market at the opening of the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange, moving up to a new current high on announcement of an additional dividend on the stock.

The company declared a dividend of 72½ cents a share to be paid in addition to the 62½-cent payment already declared and payable April 15 to stockholders of record April 1. The company some time ago declared four dividends of 62½ cents on the preferred, payable quarterly over the ensuing year. The four previously declared payments and the extra announced today are all payable out of 1928 earnings. The company has not yet issued its report for the year 1928.

Declaration of the extra was interpreted in the Street as confirming rumors that the company is rapidly rehabilitating itself after several years of unsatisfactory operations. Plants are said to be in the best shape in years and operating economies inaugurated through improvements made over the past year or so are beginning to show results. In September, 1927, the company sold $3,000,000 of 5½ per cent sinking fund debentures, the proceeds of which were largely applied to the improvement program. Bookings so far this year are said to be at the highest rate in the company's history, and from present indications, observers believe that 1929 will prove one of the most profitable for many years.

Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt recovered part of yesterday's loss in the early market today. The small volume of stock handled in yesterday's session and the shrinking sales today were taken to mean that the important holdings of the stock have not been disturbed by the recent rise, in fact the assumption in the Street is that informed interests have been adding to their lines in anticipation of higher prices when the company's reorganization plans are fully disclosed.

7 SAVED IN FIRE BY LADDERS

Seven persons, Negroes, were carried down ladders to safety early this morning when smoke from a fire on the first floor of buildings at 6367-69 Frankstown avenue, filled their quarters on the second floor. The fire caused $1,200 damage to the poolroom and restaurant of Nick Caps, 6367 Frankstown avenue, and to the John T. Gilbert Manufacturing Company next door, according to District Fire Chief John Frazier.

The fire is thought to have originated in the pool room from an undetermined cause and to have spread to the manufacturing company next door. The buildings are near the Frankstown Avenue Police Station and Capt. Nuncie Marino and a squad of men arrived on the scene quickly and helped rescue the occupants of the second floor.

Those rescued were Mrs. Ollie Young, 24, and her daughter, Mary, 4; Burt Dillinger, his wife, Mary, and son, Kenneth, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Early. Firemen were called back to the same place a short time later when the blaze broke out between the walls. Early told police that $50 was taken from his clothing during the excitement.

Lady Lauderdale Dies in Florida

PALM BEACH, Fla., Jan. 30.—(AP.)—The Countess of Lauderdale died here today at her winter home, "Villa Azura." She was the former Gwendoline Vaughan-Williams, of England, and was a leader of the foreign contingent in Palm Beach society. She arrived here for the season with her husband, the Earl of Lauderdale, on December 1 from their home at Thirlestane Castle, Berwyckshire, Scotland.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Raw sugar was firm and unchanged today at 3.83c spots duty paid. No sales reported. Raw futures were quiet. Prices were narrow. Opening was 1 point higher to 1 point higher, with some covering and commission house buying supplied by trade and Cuban interests. Firmness in spots discouraged aggressive selling, and also failed to inspire increased buying. Prices at midday were about unchanged from the previous close.

Refined showed no change of consequence. Business was chiefly withdrawals on old contracts. Prices quoted at 5.10c for fine granulated.

HOW TO INCREASE YOUR CONTRIBUTIONS TO CHARITY

Most of us are charitable at heart. It is then strangely inconsistent that few assist our benevolent institutions to the extent of which we are financially able.

The Reliance Charitable Bequest Policy provides an easy way to give your favorite charity $500 to $10,000 or more.

When the policy matures as an endowment or through death, the proceeds are paid in a lump sum or annually for a designated period of years.

The insurance bequest perpetuates your memory. It permits you to extend your philanthropies. It offers surprising convenience in establishing a substantial fund by means of small premiums taken from income rather than capital.

Men insured by the Perfect Protection Policy do not drop their life insurance when accident or sickness cuts off their income. Ask for our illustrated booklet.

EARNINGS SHOW IMPROVEMENT IN STEEL

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

WITH only a brief interruption at the end of the year steel mill operations have continued the high rate of activity which prevailed in the final quarter of 1928. Prices have remained strong with few exceptions. The heavy bookings of last December indicated that the present quarter will be fully as good as the last one.

AN INCREASE of over 12 per cent in earnings has been reported by six of the leading steel companies for 1928. The net profit of these companies last year was $176,280,708, compared with $157,064,940 in 1927.

All of the companies showed greater profit in 1928, with the exception of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation. In the case of this company, however, a particularly marked improvement was shown in the final quarter, with net of $6,399,348, compared with $4,272,528 in the previous quarter, and $2,371,371 in the corresponding three months of 1927. Bethlehem's improvement came later than that of the other steel producers, so that it was not fully reflected in the statement for the year.

THE United States Steel Corporation made one of the most satisfactory showings in the final quarter. Net income of $35,178,624 was greater than in either the previous quarter, when $34,373,458 was reported, or a year ago, when $17,683,702 was announced.

The earnings per share for steel common were $3.43, compared with $3.31 in the previous three months and $1.05 a year ago. Earnings for the year were equal to $11.61 a share, compared with $8.81 in 1927.

In view of the improvement there was general disappointment that only the regular dividend of $1.75 a share was declared. Predictions had been made that the Corporation would give its stockholders an increased return.

	1928.	1927.
U. S. Steel	$125,888,122	$105,366,988
Bethlehem	18,585,922	28,922,638
J. & L.	15,568,687	11,238,939
Inland	9,334,297	6,806,894
Republic	4,710,445	3,018,282
Allegheny	2,193,235	1,711,199
	$176,280,708	$157,064,940

THE improvement shown in the last quarter of 1928 compared with the same quarter of 1927, was even more impressive, as may be seen by the following table of net profits for the quarters ended December 31:

	1928.	1927.
U. S. Steel	$35,178,624	$17,683,702
Bethlehem	6,399,348	2,371,371
J. & L.	3,919,234	1,397,123
Republic	1,888,483	1,280,775

STEEL mill operations in this district are at 85 per cent of capacity and the general expectation is that this rise will continue for some time, although no particular likelihood of an increase is seen at present.

An indication of stability in steel demand is shown by the fact that unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation were 3,976,712 tons on December 31, compared with 3,698,368 tons on September 30, and 3,972,874 tons on December 31, 1927. It will be remembered that a concerted move to advance prices was under way in most lines at the close of 1927, so that buyers had much more incentive to place orders in advance at that time than they did at the end of 1928.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—Cotton today opened barely steady at a decline of 10 to 12 points under liquidation, combined with some Southern and local selling, inspired by relatively easy showing of Liverpool and weakness in Egyptian market. There was trade buying on the decline as well as covering, but it seemed to be quite readily supplied, with the market easing off to 19.64 for March and 19.33 for July by the end of the first half hour, when active months showed net declines of about 11 to 18 points.

Private cables said Liverpool market had been influenced by hedging, liquidation and weaker ruling of Egyptian. They reported a fair cloth inquiry for India, but said many offers were unworkable.

After selling off to 19.62c for March and 19.31c for July, or about 15 to 20 points net lower, the market steadied on trade buying and covering. Trading was quieter late in the morning, but the market worked back to about the opening quotations. There was probably some buying on belief that the early liquidation had improved the technical position. At midday active months were 8 to 10 points net lower.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Market Well Balanced.

The market was in relatively even balance today with a slight downward tendency, due mainly to fears of a further rise in money rates and partly to disappointment over the failure of a Steel melon to come out of yesterday's meeting. There was no evidence of concentrated selling against any particular issues, but the oils as a group lost further ground. Standard of New Jersey broke through 50 on the downside for the first time in many weeks. Production reports showed output at a new peak, but a glimmer of hope was held out in a statement by the head of Standard of California suggesting that the industry will right itself shortly. Trading was in fairly heavy volume throughout the list, but mild flurries appeared to bring out enough stock to stem the enthusiasm just as any pronounced efforts to break prices uncovered excellent support especially in the high grade issues. Old General Motors left the list today and that great corporation is now represented on the board by the new shares, which are a 2½-for-one split of the old stock. There was no demonstration in the new Motors. Call money opened at 7 per cent, the highest charge for demand funds for about two weeks. While the Street a short time ago expected a sharp tightening of the money market for the month-end, current developments in the gold market have eased the situation and the top figure now predicted for call money is 8 per cent. This will be a boon to commission house traders, provided there is some easement in the time rate on stock exchange loans, as the traders have been paying up to 9½ per cent interest on the debit balances with brokers.

Central Ohio Steel Rights

The Central Ohio Steel Products Company is offering to stockholders of record February 9 the right to purchase additional common stock at $26.25 a share on the basis of three new shares for each five shares then held. The offering consists of 12,000 shares. There are now outstanding 20,000 shares of Central Ohio common and $400,000 of preferred. Additional funds to retire the preferred at the call price of $105 and accrued dividends will be taken from available surplus. The 12,000 shares offered is part of 30,000-share increase in common stock approved a short time ago. After the sale there will be 32,000 shares outstanding out of an authorized issue of 50,000 shares.

S. O. Cal. Head Optimistic.

"The outlook for improvement in the oil industry during 1929 offers considerable promise of bettering itself," said Kenneth R. Kingsbury, president of the Standard Oil Company of California, returning today from a brief business trip to Europe. "The renewed tendency toward overproduction in some fields," he continued, "will, of course, reflect itself in the general retarding of the progress which would otherwise be setting in at this time. However, I am fully convinced that the overproduction situation can be dealt with within the industry and some satisfactory solution found to remedy this disturbing condition."

Commenting upon the affairs of the Standard Oil Company of California, he said that the company was showing very satisfactory progress, and that the prospects for the current year were encouraging.

Steel Absorbs Selling.

There was a little disappointed selling in Steel common today as a result of the directors' failure to declare an extra dividend at yesterday's meeting, but all offerings were easily absorbed and the stock at no time displayed other than ordinary reactionary tendencies. There was no dumping of the shares, a fact which led some observers to reassert their belief that some special action on a stock dividend will be taken later. The report showed the usual seasonal tendency in the fourth quarter. Earnings for October were $19,399,062, dropping to $17,364,723 for November and showing a further recession to $16,422,904 in December. The usual trend for the current quarter is upward to March. While the net profit was reported as $107,526,784 for the year, a year-end credit adjustment of $6,172,200, not applicable to any particular quarter, increased the net to $113,998,984, equal to $12.47 a share on the common after allowing for preferred dividends. The net profit in 1927 was $87,896,836, or $8.80 a common share.

Utilities in Demand.

Utility issues continued in strong demand both on the curb and the big board. It is the general impression in the Street that these stocks are being bought by "little fellows" on the outside, as well as by the important banking interests concerned with the big consolidations now on the cards. Reactions have brought very little selling and dips of any size usually uncover good buying power. American Power and Light continued to move ahead and established another new high record. It has been evident that offerings of the stock are limited except at higher prices. One factor which has brought a demand into the issue is the report that all domestic utility enterprises of the Electric Bond and Share interests will be placed under the management of American Power and Light. Buying of American and Foreign Power has been based on the theory that in the expected reorganization of Electric Bond and Share, American and Foreign Power will obtain the management of the parent company's foreign properties.

A. T. & T. Spurts Again.

American Telephone and Telegraph resumed its rise today and topped last Saturday's high of 220 by a good margin. Yesterday the stock was down to 212¾. Last year holders of A. T. & T. received $23 a share in rights and dividends, and while no rights are expected this year, they may be forthcoming again in 1930. Through Western Electric, a subsidiary, it has large interests in talking motion pictures and is also an important factor in the radio industry. Incidentally, the Street heard a rumor that the Western Electric holdings may be distributed to A. T. & T. shareholders as a stock dividend. This story, however, lacks any semblance of official status to the present.

Copper Stocks.

Market interests state that the coppers appear to be consolidating their previous advances. Profit taking has come into these stocks and there also has been some switching by traders from coppers into stocks which have shown ability to move ahead in the past few days. On the recessions there has been quiet support from interests identified with the industry who have been optimistic on the copper group for some time. The effect of this accumulation should be seen when the selling for profits and switching has been completed.

Liggett & Myers.

Liggett & Myers declared an extra dividend today explaining the recent activity in the stock which has been one of the strongest in the tobacco division. It is said one of the big trading cliques has been following the long side of Liggett for some time. A few weeks ago it had a sharp run-up after which it dropped back on reports that important estate liquidation was taking place. The late Thomas F. Ryan was one of the largest holders of Liggett & Myers, but the Street is rather doubtful that much liquidation came from the Ryan estate.

Bad Winter Wheat Weather.

The government's weekly weather report says: "Except in the more northern portion, where fields were protected by snow, the week was mostly unfavorable for winter wheat. There is much ice in parts of Illinois and considerable in much of Missouri and northern third of Indiana. These conditions are causing some apprehension as to possible wheat damage. In Kansas the ground continues bare in the western and southern portion, with wheat frozen to the ground, while most fields are still bare in Nebraska. In the far northwestern states conditions as to protection are better, especially with additional snow that came at the weekend. In the South the weather was mostly favorable for winter cereals, but was rather unfavorable in the Middle-Atlantic area, where fields are mostly bare."

Daily average imports of petroleum at principal ports for the week ended January 26 were 280,429 barrels, compared with 202,000 for the previous week, and 264,357 for the four weeks ended January 5. Daily average receipts of California oil at Atlantic and Gulf coast ports for the week ended January 26 were 55,714 barrels, compared with 59,714 for the previous week and 54,000 for the four weeks ended January 26.

Earned $620 on New Stock.

It is now estimated that fourth quarter profits of General Motors Corporation, before preferred dividends, were about $38,565,000 or $2.08 a share on 17,400,000 old common shares, and 83 cents a share on 43,500,000 new common shares.

On this basis earnings for 1928 reached the record-breaking total of $279,100,000, equal, after preferred dividends, to $15.50 on the old common and $6.20 on the new common, against $235,104,826 or $12.99 a share earned in 1927.

BUGS BAER Says

WE attended the trial of Oklahoma Minnie. In the jury box were 12 good men and who.

Arthur "Bugs" Baer

On the judicial rumble seat was Judge Bummister, the man who broke up the hoop-rolling gang in the Children's playground.

Which is a crime, wholesale.

Oke—she asked the judge to call her that for short sentences—did not seem dazzled by the proximity of the law.

So far as she was concerned the finger of scorn was only a lady finger.

Taking another look at the jury Oke decided that it was only an orchestra that had forgotten its instruments.

The district attorney had only spoken a minute when Oke discovered to her disgust that he couldn't dance or sing.

It was a peaceful scene. Oke had brought along her bouncers to prevent disturbances.

She had also assigned her best waiter to the jury box.

After the judge had thundered a denunciation, Oke asked the witnesses to give the little boy a big hand.

While the judge was reciting, the district attorney accompanied him on the piano.

But when the sheriff was going to Atlanta, Oke did not accompany him on the train.

Theme Song: Wreck of the Old Ninety-Seven

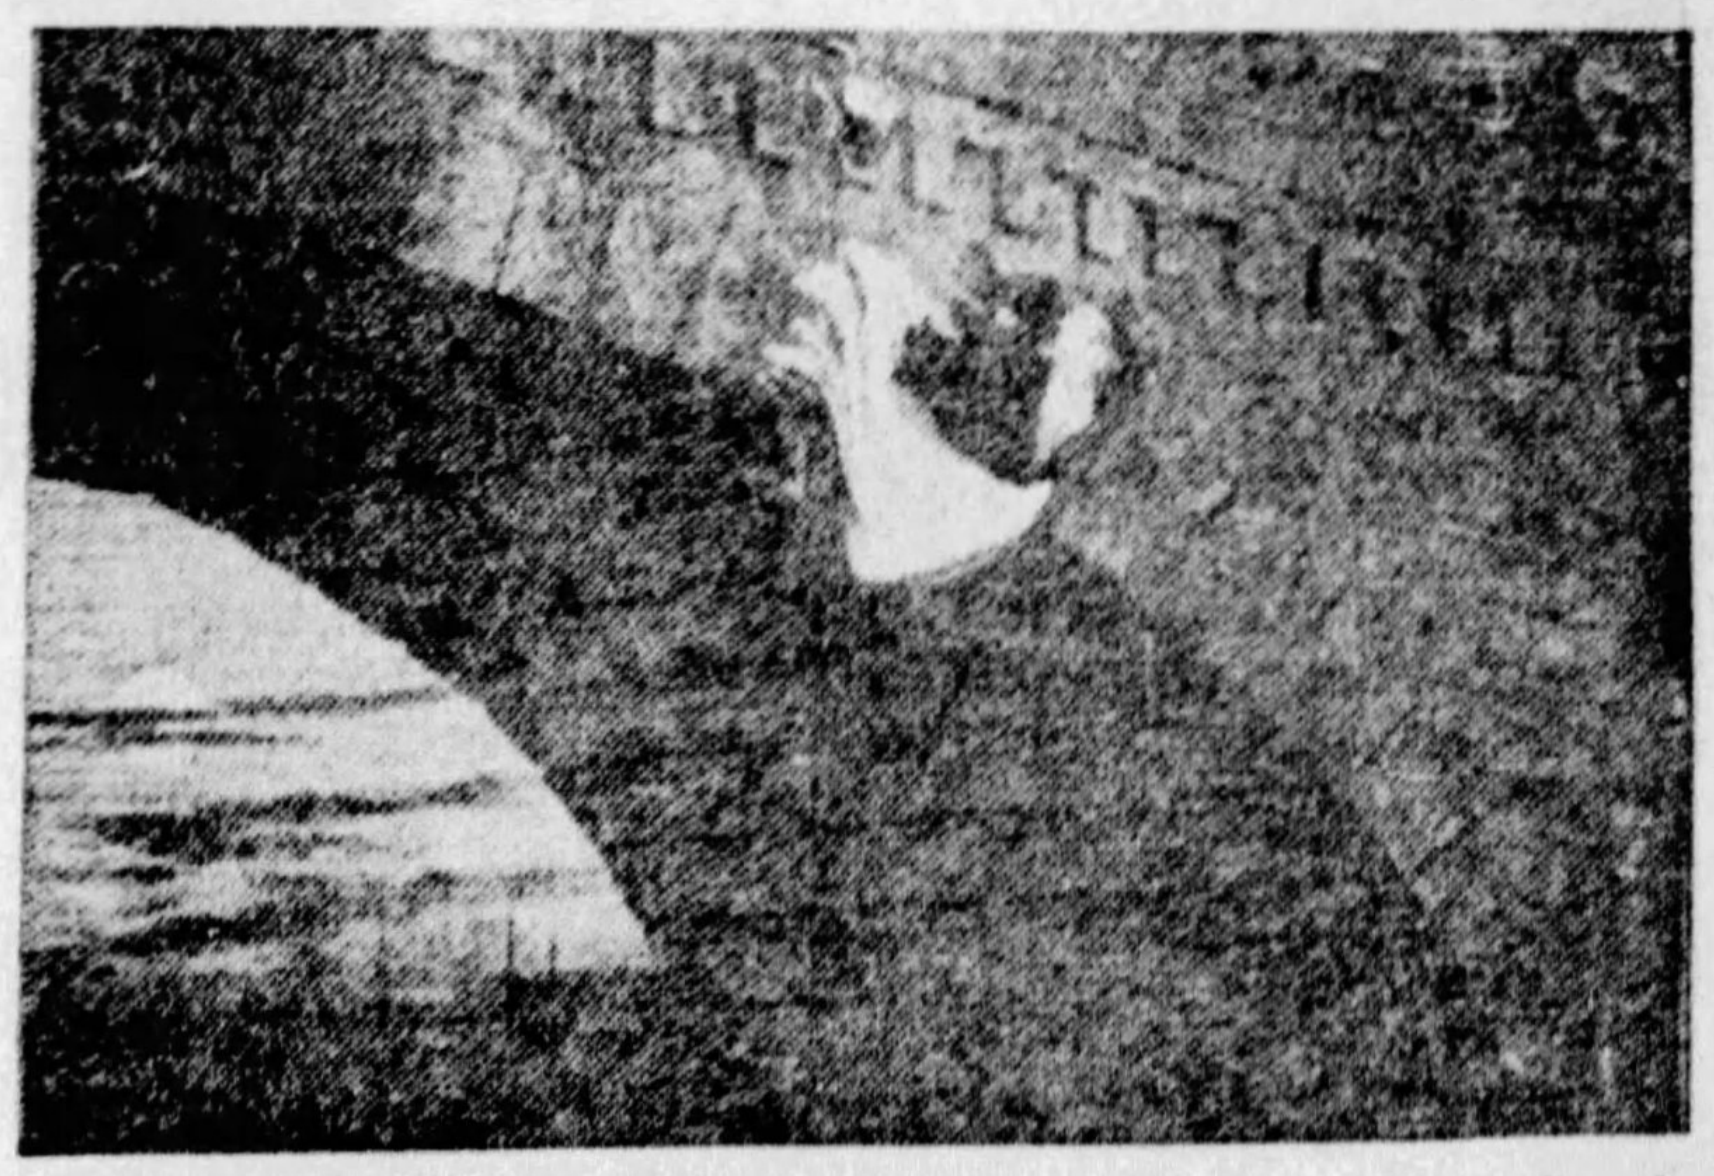

PLATE XV concludes the serial sermon entitled "The Drunkard's Children." You have seen mother, father, son and brother, sink down, down, down into the bottomless pit of iniquity. And now you see the once innocent daughter—deserted, destitute and gin-mad, doubling for Clara Bow. Why, oh! why must girls risk their necks jumping off bridges when practically every modern hotel is equipped with a bath for every room!

Opportunity Still Great, Andrew W. Mellon Says

Young men have a better opportunity to make a place for themselves in the world than their elders had, Andrew W. Mellon makes the statement in an interesting article in the February number of Hearst's International-Cosmopolitan Magazine.

If Mr. Mellon were merely Secretary of the United States Treasury his words would be weighty. If he were merely that, and a successful banker to boot, they would be correspondingly impressive. But the message to youth becomes prophetic when it is considered that a great many of the years of Mr. Mellon's life have been spent as a specialized student of opportunity.

The "Mellon interests" are varied, and, as a group, they represent a building process of many years' duration. Actualities now, they were once only projects. Projects launched because Mr. Mellon and his associates successfully foresaw the future in the then present. Perhaps not all of it, but enough to see their ventures grow and prosper with the tide in which they moved.

Mr. Mellon admits that possibly it was easier for a young man to embark in business in an earlier day, but that, in proportion to population and the existing wealth, competition then was just as keen and perhaps more keen than at present. In comparison, he sees many opportunities now for a man to begin his own business. Still greater, he states, are the opportunities of professional life and for those who ally themselves with established businesses.

All of this regardless of what the future may develop, and they may be great things such as he, in his own lifetime, has seen born and come so bountifully to fruit, in the electrical, industrial and other fields.

The opportunity, he states, exists for all and not especially for favorite sons of business heads, leadership going to the one who shows himself to be a leader. The latter, he has found, invariably has been the man who, by hard work and study, has made himself ready for the opportunity when it came.

He believes in his views so completely that he states he would not exchange his years of life for an equal number of any period that is past, but would trade 50 of his own years for the 50 just ahead.

He finds many proofs that America still is the land of opportunity. Hence, as we feel that Mr. Mellon would spend his time taken in exchange right here in Pittsburgh, we must assume that we are right in the center of opportunity all the time, but lack the vision to see it.

City Planners Suggest Overhead Traffic Lanes

The City Planning Commission, L. W. Monteverde, chairman, has submitted to Council a comprehensive plan relative to the improvement of Carson street, from Smithfield street to McKees Rocks, a distance of three miles. It recommends that eventually portions of the street be at two levels to care for increasing traffic. It is classified by the commission as one of its major street plans and is intended to be a goal which should be kept in view as intervening improvements to the street are carried out, so that they will not conflict with the ultimate realization of the master plan in full.

Significant among the recommendations is the one for traffic at two levels at certain places, including an overhead ramp from a point in West Carson street, west of the Monongahela Incline, east to a point past the intersection of Smithfield street. Another overhead ramp would cover the Point Bridge intersection and the Duquesne Incline territory.

Whatever one may think of the plan as a whole, which has the merit of being based on extensive study, these two ramps suggest themselves as being worthy of serious consideration. The vicinity of the two inclines mentioned are very dangerous traffic points, that at Duquesne having local identification as "the death trap" because of several incline passengers having been killed there while attempting to leave or board street cars. The condition has been remedied through placing loading platforms with guard rails and stationing a policeman there, but the spot still is a menace.

In making street improvements it is well to have an ultimate object in view and to make preparations to reach it if it be practical. Hence, we feel that the city planners' suggestions will receive careful consideration.

New York Bankrupt?

Not for the Present at Least.

New York City spends $600,000,000 a year, and carries a debt of $2,000,000,000. Henry H. Klein, once Deputy Commissioner of Accounts, says New York will soon be bankrupt.

Not VERY soon. For Central Park, cut up into lots, would more than pay New York City's debts. And New York City's real estate, which has never yet known a boom, will some day have a taxable valuation such as even trained politicians will find it hard to squander.

Tales That Are Told

The Last Straw

PERCIVAL had heard the call of the open spaces and had thrown up an easy job and set sail for the Wild West.

Arrived in the country of he-men, he found himself comfortable quarters on a farm and prepared to enjoy the simple life.

Percival's first task was given him a day or two later. He was assigned to one end of a cross-saw, the other end being in charge of an old and experienced lumberman.

At the end of an hour the veteran stopped sawing and looked at his exhausted partner.

"Sonny," he said, "I don't mind your riding on this saw, but if it's just the same to you, I wish you'd quit scrapin' your feet along the ground."

Tit for Tat

DOWN dropped the policeman's arm, and immediately the traffic stream was in motion, one car shooting out in front of the other vehicles.

At that moment a pretty girl made an indiscreet dash for an island in the center of the roadway.

Tantalizing

UNFORTUNATELY she had been told that she could sing. So the first opportunity saw her in the studio of a well-known teacher, undergoing an audition before arranging to take lessons.

The professor sat down and played a soft accompaniment, while the ambitious young woman poured forth her choicest assortment of notes.

The test did not last very long. At its end the professor swung round on the music stool and regarded the flushed performer wrathfully.

"Madam," he cried, "it is no good, no! Nefer haf I heard such a voice, no! I blay on der white keys, I blay on der black keys, but always you sing in der cracks!"

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

A WHOLE carload of joyriders, four of 'em, was taken to the station by a cop that come up just as they knocked down an iron light pole.

The judge says, "A little party, was it?"

"Yeah, we was having a party all right."

"Well, I won't be hard on you exactly, but somebody's got to pay for that light pole. The two girls'll go free anyhow, but whoever was driving must pay twenty dollars for the pole."

"That let's 'em all out," says one of the girls. "The truth is, Judge, both the boys was in the back seat with us girls."

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

WE were talking about conversion—

The old revival days when folk felt the sudden call and staggered to the altar, in a great daze of glory, to have their sins washed away.

"I wonder if they really did feel anything," someone said—"or did they just work themselves up into such a state of hysteria that they thought they did."

"Well, whether they did or not, those times have passed," said someone else. "People don't get converted any more. That sort of thing has no place in modern life."

I don't agree with that.

I believe that conversion plays as vital a part in the life of today as it ever did. I believe that because I see it done.

This office is a sort of clearing house for troubled lives.

Every day they come by the dozen — broken spirits — stagnant spirits through which life has not moved for a very long time—people without pride or desire or hope.

Every day they come and wearily, bitterly, tell their story.

Then presently, after they have told their story and have received only respect and friendliness in return, something happens. Suddenly the tides move again—the old tides of pride and desire. Their faces brighten, their spines straighten, their jaws tighten—they are filled with a rushing and a fury of faith—faith in themselves.

That is "being born again."

It does not always last. But when it does, the whole life is changed. When you once awaken, or reawaken, a man's respect for himself and desire for life, almost anything may happen. The most amazing and lovely transformations take place in his character.

Hate turns to love. Sneering suspicion gives way to generous friendliness. Pride grips him—pride powerful enough to drag him out of any gutter. He may actually become a different man, "be born again," almost in the "twinkling of an eye."

Of course, it isn't actually in the twinkling of an eye. The seed of greatness always lay in him—it only needed to be stirred to life.

The old-fashioned religionists called that which stirred a sinner "The Holy Ghost," and rated such conversion a miracle. We moderns speak of glandular reaction, stimulated blood streams. One explanation is as good—and as futile—as another. A stimulated blood stream is as mysterious as a Holy Ghost.

THE GREAT POINT IS THAT MEN CAN BE AWAKENED TO A NEW LIFE AFTER THEY HAVE FAILED WITH THE OLD ONE.

WE CAN BE BORN AGAIN.

Remember that if you fall on evil days.

MASS AND WEIGHT

By Garrett P. Serviss

"Will you kindly explain the difference between the 'mass' and the 'weight' of a body?—J. L. M., Brooklyn."

MASS is the quantity of matter in a body, or you may say the number of atoms that make up the body. Weight is the pressure that the same body exerts in consequence of gravity drawing it down toward the center of the earth, i. e. the center of gravity.

Now, the weight depends upon the quantity of matter, or the number of atoms, composing the body, i. e. upon the mass, each atom being attracted equally. How, then, you ask does weight differ from mass? It does not differ if the body always remains at the same distance from the center of gravity. But if that distance is changed the weight will vary, although the mass will not be altered.

So, too, if the body should be removed from the earth to some other planet the mass, i. e. the quantity of matter in the body would not be changed, but the weight would be changed unless the planet to which it was removed possessed exactly the same force of gravity as the earth.

On account of this dependence of weight upon changes in the force of gravity, while mass remains unchanged everywhere, scientific calculations are based upon mass instead of weight. Still, as already said, where no noticeable change occurs in the force of gravity—and the change is very slight in moving about on the surface of the earth—weight and mass may, for ordinary purposes, be regarded as identical. In that case weight is said to be proportional to mass.

Let me illustrate. Suppose we take a cannon ball, weighing 100 to the equator it would there weigh less than at New York, and if we took it to one of the poles it would pounds at New York. If we took it there weigh more than at New York. It would gain about 1-190th in weigh in going from the equator to the pole, and lose the same amount in going the other way. Yet all the time its mass would remain unchanged. The change of weight would be due only to changes in the force of gravity, which (as far as the earth's surface is concerned) is greatest at the poles and least at the equator.

Again, suppose that starting from New York, you should carry the cannon ball straight up to a great height; it would lose weight as the height increased, but there would be no change of mass. Just so on a high mountain bodies weigh slightly less than in the valley below. If you could take the ball to a height of 4,000 miles its weight would be only one-quarter as great as on the earth's surface. If you went as far as the distance of the moon, the weight would be only 1-3600th of its amount on the earth. But the mass (quanity of matter) would be the same everywhere.

Now let us try changing from one world to another. Take the cannon ball to the surface of the moon, where gravity is only one-sixth as powerful as on the earth. There the ball would weigh only 100-6 pounds. Take it to the surface of Mars, where gravity is about two-fifths as powerful as on the earth. There the ball's weight would be 40 pounds. Take it to Jupiter, where gravity is more than on the earth, and it would weigh about 264 pounds. Finally, take it to the surface of the sun—if the heat would allow you to get there—and the ball's weight would become about 2,790 pounds.

Still would keep hearing in dreams through my sleep;

Roar of the waters in mountains and valleys,
Waters chaotic, too mighty for form.

Infinite, restless, incessantly moving,
Symbol of Love, ever-active and deep,
These are the voices I love and, so loving,
Still would keep hearing in dreams through my sleep.

O. O. McINTYRE

PARIS, Jan. 30.—Paris is a paradise for the prowler. One may turn off from a turbulent roaring boulevard and its flashy throngs into a narrow, winding and desolated street, to see perhaps only a lone figure perfunctorily sketching a wisp of cloud. This morning with my dog I set forth early.

Paris was going—fluttering is a better term—to work. The corrugated shutter fronts of the shops had been raised. Buses bulged with chattering loads. Bearded Frenchmen with handle-bar luncheons were pedalling madly. Teamsters screamed, their dogs—every teamster has his dog—yipped. And street criers blew their horns.

Nothing is quite so vibrant as an early Paris morning. It has a hum. Crossing over to the Left Bank I strolled, one never walks briskly here, along the Quai beyond the Chamber of Deputies and toward the Ile de la Cite—the original site of Paris. In one of the esplanades a traveling circus was beginning its day.

A "strong man" in tattered tights was braving the chill to lift weights for a sleeply-eyed handful. A wheezy carrousel at this hour had two customers and a few drivers had deserted two-wheeled carts to test their luck at a huge spinning gambling wheel. It was all as depressing as the chilly mist.

Further along were the famous Halles des Vin with their enormous casks of wine and pungent, sour odors. Ponderous low-slung trunks, drawn by teams of six and eight horses, were being loaded for a part of the day's whoopee water consumption. On the Seine, the poor were doing their washing in municipal laundry boats.

Turning into a little side street that proved a blind alley, I dropped into a chair at a sidewalk table. A bar woman finally came out of the dingy depths scowling. And learning my desire was cafe au lait, tripled the scowl. I imagine the same effect could be had ordering a hot dog at the Ritz.

Everywhere women wielded needles, some knitting as they strolled. Men only idled. Women symbolize the industry of France in poorer sections. The promenade finally took me past an infamous cafe where waitresses wait on trade au naturel. I hurried by with eyes cast demurely down, blushing like everything.

One of the omnipresent figures in the region of the Place Vendome is the American, E. Berry Wall. You always see him. He wears the same type of huge puff tie and flaring, pointed choke collar that distinguished him in the days when, as New York's fashion plate, his 300 suits of clothes were always good for a Sunday feature story. Every afternoon he may be found at Rumpelmayer's at tea-time with his chow. He is one of the last of New York's vanishing aristocrats of the nineties, and he and his wife are not only active in American charities, but extremely popular with the self-exiled.

Count Boni de Castellane, the discarded husband of Anna Gould, is also to be found where Americans gather, dancing his exquisite attendance upon rich old ladies of leisure. A French bulldog, too, is his constant companion.

Count Boni reminds me that never in Paris have I seen the stage and comic paper type of French count—the sort with high, peaked silk hat, waxed mustache and slim imperial, high-heeled shoes and such. Boni, for instance, might be an ordinary type of merchant hereabout, or even a third baseman in the Southern League. Several other counts I have beheld do not look unlike the prosperous farmer types one sees on Paris fete days. But maybe the count business these days is not up to scratch.

An outstanding trait of the French is what we would instantly class as trickiness, but is not so regarded by natives. It is not vicious, but annoying. Today in a rue St. Honore shop I asked for a certain kind of shaving soap. The proprietor almost prostrated himself trying to sell another band. I feared an apoplectic seizure, but bravely held out for what I came for. Finally, with a deprecatory shrug and the hurt, wounded expression of a stricken doe, he wrapped up the package and handed it to me. At home I found the son of a gun had sold me the brand he had touted.

I used to fly into a rage over such shenannigans and storm back to the shops like a thundering cloud. You never saw me really mad! But I don't do that any more. I found their apologies would be so abject that just to square your conscience you would permit them to sell you a lot more things you did not want. I came away once with an eyebrow comb and a night cap.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

AREN'T you too cocksure of your own opinion about matters on which you express your views?

The thing you think silly or worthless may be quite the reverse.

You may not have the fine sense of relative value, the keen intellect to see beneath the surface of the thing upon which you pronounce judgment.

The well-versed man or woman, the world traveler, the great scientist, the habitual student is the one most reluctant to express unqualified opinion.

He knows he is too often wrong.

He knows that no two circumstances can be exactly alike.

He admits the possibility of error creeping into judgment and thereby proves himself a safer guide.
